Sheridan's youth are better off thanks to five fine folks

The REPORTER

The Sheridan Youth Assistance Program (SYAP) has been improving the lives of kids and families in Sheridan and Adams Township since 2015.

Many people may not realize the incredible commitment it takes to serve on SYAP's Board of Directors. In fact, those five board members - Dr. Kent Erb, Gayla McMurtry, Jane Newblom, Jason Ells, and Missi Muir have all served on the board since SYAP's inception nine years ago.

Board member terms are nine years, so that means this board's tenure of service is coming to a close.

His primary duty was to seek out those living in Delaware Township who were in need of basic necessities such as firewood, fuel, and food.

What Sheridan Youth Assistance means to its Board of Directors

The REPORTER

As their nine years of service on the Sheridan Youth Assistance Program Board of Directors comes to an end, Early Intervention Advocate Lisa Samuels asked each of the five board members to share why SYAP is important what it has meant to them to serve. Their responses follow.

Dr. Kent Erb

I was introduced to the Youth Assistance Program when Bobbi and I decided to take mentoring training for the Westfield program. I was then assigned a mentee that I met with weekly. He had a very difficult childhood and I taught him to swim, ride a bike, and encouraged him to develop character traits that would foster him maturing into a young man. I will always be a big cheerleader for SYAP and am convinced it is the best thing going to prevent, encourage, and assist in the Sheridan community.

A local credit union presented giant checks – both in size and amount – to Indiana food banks ahead of Thanksgiving.

Everwise Credit Union gave $20,000 to food banks in Hamilton and Marion counties ahead of Thanksgiving and the holiday season. Representatives from the credit union presented the $10,000 checks to Hamilton County Harvest Food Bank in Noblesville and to Gleaner's Food Bank on Tuesday.

"No one should go hungry, but unfortunately, food insecurity is a problem found in every community," Everwise President and CEO Jason Osterhage said. "We want to make a positive impact in the communities where our members live, and these organizations make a big difference for the individuals they serve."

Everwise Credit Union, formerly Teachers Credit Union, says it is Indiana's largest credit union with more than $5 billion in assets, over 50 branches throughout Indiana and southwest Michigan, and more than 300,000 members. The company was founded in 1931 and leaders say it has focused on making a positive impact on its members and the community since then.

On the morning of July 12, I was awakened at 3:30 in the morning by the sounds of my husband struggling to breathe. At first, I thought he was having a bad dream, but his agonized wheezing just didn't sound right. When an elbow to the ribs didn't stir him, I jumped out of the bed and flipped on the lights.

Whether or not I was world had ready, my changed.

He was blue and not breathing. I don't have words to describe the terror I felt in that moment, but I can tell you that to this day it hasn't really gone away. Thankfully, my training as a nurse kicked in and propelled me to action. I called 911, put my phone on speaker, and set it on the bedside table. I hefted him to the ground, thumped his chest, and began chest compressions. The 911 operator helped me count and do CPR correctly for five of the longest minutes of my life.

CPR is hard if you haven't ever done it, and I was terrified that if I didn't do it right or couldn't do it for long enough, I wouldn't give him his best chance to survive. Brain death sets in with in four to six minutes of oxygen deprivation. I HAD to keep going.

The first responder to arrive on the scene was a Carmel Police Officer. He ran in with an AED, a portable automated external defibrillator, sidestepped my terrified, barking dog, and shocked my husband from v-fib (very bad) to a-fib (less bad). EMTs arrived and I was booted from the scene as they worked. They were able to get a pulse and had him breathing before they left our house. Larry was taken to IU North Hospital and was in very critical condition. He was in the ICU, on a ventilator, and heavily sedated.

When we first arrived at depend on it. the hospital, we had no idea what caused this. Hours and then days passed before we knew for sure. It turns out that his right coronary artery (RCA) was completely blocked and caused him to enter cardiac arrest WITH NO WARNING. Let me underscore this: Larry had ZERO signs PJs. You never know when that trouble was afoot. He is normal body weight, eats very healthy food, does not have high blood pressure, and his cholesterol levels next 48 hours wearing those are just fine. There were lit- hole-riddled rags in public.

By THERESA PATTERSON erally no signs he was about to die.

A very talented cardiologist was able to place stents and the team of doctors and nurses in the ICU skillfully cared for him. He came home after about a week and slowly recovered. During the course of the hospitalization and more recently at a recognition event for the first responders, we learned that the course of events - specifically that my husband lived and has ZERO lasting effects - is extraordinarily. He has no brain damage, is flying through cardiac rehab, and feels better than ever.

The statistics on survival after sudden (cardiac) death outside of the hospital are grim. We have heard over and again from the hospital staff, his cardiologist, and the EMT team that they have never seen anything like his survival and amazing recovery. We learned that in Carmel, 40 police cars are and as deep." equipped with portable defibrillators. This is a result Longfellow of the forward-thinking leaders in our community who invested in making certain that our first responders are equipped and trained to handle emergencies with Sleep - the kind state-of-the-art tools and technology.

Last month, we held a recognition ceremony for the first responders. I needed them to know that they saved my husband, my family, and our life as we knew it. It was such a pleasure to be are one of those people able to share this moment of celebration for the amazing men and women who came to our aid and to give thanks for our amazing community and its leadership.

It is easy take for granted all that this community affords to our way of life, I am as guilty of this as anyone. We learned the very hardest way this July how critically important it is to have experienced leadership focused on health and safety, lead our city. YOUR life could feed our cat and dogs and prefer to get their food from a pet store. This is another avenue where you can order items online. In my research, I've seen many advantages for going this route.

First, it's nice to have one less errand to run and to save time and gas. Some people live in more rural areas where the nearest pet store is maybe 30 minutes or more from their home.

Second, lugging around huge bags of pet food can be challenging if you have a disability, back issues, or if you're just plain tired from a long day at work. Through Amazon and other online sites, you can set up a recurring delivery that comes to your front door. You'll never have to lift heavy bags for long distances or worry about running out of pet food ever again.

To get things started, you can bring in your prescription to the pharmacy, submit it by mail, ask your doctor to call, fax, or e-prescribe it, or fill out a refill submission form by hand.

I'm working with my husband to switch to this option because it feels like one of us is always running to our local pharmacy at least once every week or two. Even though we get automated reminders of when a prescription is due for pick up, this errand gets old and adds to our load.

When you're an adult, holidays are magical because you get to experience the excitement and anticipation that you once had as a child through the eyes of your own children.

I love this season and the traditions that we continue from when I was a little girl, but also the new ones we've created as a family together.

We are entering the season of baking, shopping, special shows, holiday lights, traditional meals, Santa, trains. turkeys, Christmas pjs, and trees! The holiday season really starts for our family when we are watching the Macy's Thanksgiving Parade. We always enjoy a donut while we start preparing the food that we are taking to my mom's that day. Our whole house is filled with the aroma of my husband's homemade noodles. These are a hot commodity at our family's Thanksgiving table. Speaking of tables, my mom puts together the loveliest spread with the same pattern of turkey plates that her Mema used to use. Nobody can decorate a Thanksgiving table quite like my mom.

Every year, my entire family goes to see Yuletide at the Hilbert Circle Theatre in downtown Indianapolis. We always go the first weekend of December, and it really is the kickoff to the Christmas season for my family and me.

We have a whole set of things that we always bake each year. Unfortunately, my son's anaphylactic reaction to peanuts has put a bit of a damper on those buckeyes, but you do what you must, and we've added new

My husband makes a beef tenderloin that would make Gordon Ramsay cry. Our home is filled with laughter, repeated stories, food, drinks, dogs all over the place, and the pitter patter of happy feet excitedly showing family what Santa brought them. Once everyone leaves and we get the kitchen cleaned up, we put on pajamas and enjoy a glass of wine on the couch while the kids either nap or play with their new toys.

I know from now until the end of the year is going to be chaos. I know that there will be days when I feel over-committed and burdened to make this the best holiday season ever. I know that my parents felt this when I was growing up. I also know how magical this time is and that instead of getting too much in the weeds of the details, I need to pause and take in every single magical moment this season.

Faith, News & Obituary

—Good news from Stony Creek Church of Christ—— Are you thankful?

Give thanks to the LORD, for he is good, for his steadfast love endures forever. Give thanks to the God of gods, for his steadfast love endures forever. Give thanks to the Lord of lords, for his steadfast love endures forever; to him who alone does great wonders, for his steadfast love endures forever (Psalm 136:1-4).

There is a wonderful and popular hymn, "Count Your Many Blessings." It is a very encouraging song that should humble us as we count our blessings and thank God for them all. It is a song that is intended to not only give praise to God, the source of every blessing, but also to lift our hearts beyond the troubles and trials of this life. The song begins, "When upon life's billows you are tempest tossed, when you are discouraged, thinking all has heard the voice of my pleas for Lord hath done." Verse 2 asks, "Are you ever burdened with a load of care? Does the cross seem heavy you are called to bear? Count your many blessings, name them one by one; count your many blessings, every doubt will fly, and you will be singing as the days go by."

Do you have blessings to count? You know you do! Do you have shelter from the winds of the coming winter? Clothes to wear? Food to eat? It may not be a mansion, the latest fashions or prime rib every day, but you have those things whether humble or extravagant. You have blessings to count.

Blessed be the LORD! For he is lost, count your many mercy. The LORD is my strength blessings, name them and my shield; in him my heart one by one and it will trusts, and I am helped; my heart surprise you what the exults, and with my song I give thanks to him. (Psalm 28:6-7).

Lorita Ruth Thistlethwaite September 13, 1937 - November 9, 2023

Lorita Ruth Thistlethwaite, 86, Sheridan, passed away on Friday afternoon, November 9, 2023, at Majestic Care of Sheridan. Born on September 13, 1937, in Sheridan, she was the daughter of the late William and Phyllis (Pettigrew) Wright. She was a 1955 graduate of Sheridan

High School, where she supported her Blackhawks as a cheerleader. After graduation, Lorita continued her education by enrolling in Comptometer School. The skills she gained led to her employment with Wonder Bread (now Continental Baking Company) where she had a wonderful 40-year career within their bookkeeping and payroll department. She attended Sheridan First Christian Church.

Lorita was the social butterfly of the family. In her eyes, there was nothing more important than her family and her friends (with the latter always gaining new members). She loved doting over her grandchildren and following their activities. One example would be her grandson's bowling activities. In addition to driving him to practices and matches, Lorita would offer up advice, (wanted or not) along the way. She quickly came to terms with her self-appointed role as her grandson's bowling coach and never looked back.

Lorita continued to take her cheerleading responsibilities very seriously throughout her adult years as well. She was a member of a house divided. In the fall, she was a die-hard Blackhawk football fan. (When your brother is the coach, you come by it honestly.) However, in the winter, her colors turned shamrock green, and Westfield basketball (coached by her husband) became her favorite sport. Self-appointed or not, it is easy to see where her coaching prowess came from. And it didn't stop with family, she could armchair coach with the best of 'em ... especially when it came to Purdue.

Lorita enjoyed traveling (especially overseas) and loved it even more when family was involved. Her trips to Okinawa, where her daughter was stationed, gave her a lifetime of memories and stories to share at one of her other favorite destinations - class reunions, family gatherings, or just about any occasion she could find for a get together of some kind.

Lorita never met a stranger. She would drop whatever she was doing to help someone in need. When she went to live at Sheridan Healthcare Center, she quickly started making new friends and joining any and every activity they offered.

Lorita is survived by her three daughters, Pamela Fosnight (Richard) of Sheridan, Tara McColgin (Jerry) of North Carolina, and Veronica Lageschulte (Hans) of Hampton, Va.; seven grandchildren, Mark Fosnight (Clem), Jeremy Fosnight (Christina), Doug McColgin (Brittney), Andy McColgin (Olivia), Jake McColgin, Nirali McColgin (Carson), and Jaquelyn Schenkel (Joey); grandson-in-law, David Shinault; 19 great-grandchildren; two brothers, Larry "Bud" Wright (Ellen) of Sheridan and Arnold Pettigrew (Arlene) of Kirklin; two sisters, Lora Goff-Pitts (Rex) of Westfield and Judith Inskeep of Sheridan; and two sisters-in-law, Karen Buzan (Morris) of Sheridan and VaRae Blount (Robert) of Anderson.

She was preceded in death by her parents, William and Phyllis (Pettigrew) Wright; sister, Cathy Crull; brother-in-law, Roland Inskeep; granddaughters, Melisa Shinault and Allison McColgin; and by her loving husband, Mark L. Thistlethwaite, on May 1, 2008. She and Mark were married on November 22, 1956.

Visitation and services were held on Tuesday, November 14, 2023, at Kercheval Funeral Home, 306 E. 10th St., Sheridan. Burial followed at Crown View Cemetery in Sheridan. Lorita's son-in-law, Jerry McColgin, officiated.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be presented to the Alzheimer's Association.

SHERIDAN – The Sheridan football team was trying to do what no one has done since 2020: beat Lutheran

The Saints, two-time defending Class 1A state champions, came into Bud Wright Stadium last Friday for the 1A south semi-state game. Lutheran blasted through the first half, scoring 35 unanswered points, and that gave the Saints all the momentum they needed for a 56-14 win over the Blackhawks.

Lutheran scored twice in the opening quarter. The Saints' first touchdown came when Braydon Hall punched the ball in from the one-yard line – a preview of things to come.

Lutheran added a second score when quarterback Jackson Willis threw a pass to Jeremiah King, who turned it into a 58yard touchdown. The Saints went for two after both touchdowns; the attempt after the first touchdown was no good, but they were good on a pass following the second touchdown.

The second quarter turned into the Hall Show. The senior running back ran in four touchdowns, scoring from everywhere on the field. Hall ran the ball in from 1, 35, 12 and 71 yards, with his 12-yard run putting Lutheran ahead 35-0.

If the FIA (Fédération Internationale de l'Automobile) does not discover a workable, long-term solution, Formula 1's collapse is inevitable.

The money problem

Formula 1 has a money problem. It's not that they don't have enough. It's that they cannot get enough.

Despite regulations creating spending caps and restricting the amount of money teams may spend, the FIA and Formula 1 teams make exceptional compromises to generate additional profits. Given the recent addition of races in Saudi Arabia, Qatar, and Russia (though to its credit, Russia was taken off the calendar after the invasion of Ukraine), the FIA has platformed and legitimized despotic and tyrannical governments and leaders. This was most recently observed the Qatari government harbored the leadership of Hamas.

Indeed, the FIA and Formu-

The sustainability problem

The FIA has bought in, whole cloth, to the "green ideology" of climate change, which has fundamentally shifted the Formula 1 landscape. To be fair, the FIA may not have had much choice in the matter as European nations are aggressively implementing green ideology. Nevertheless, I believe the sustainability mantra has been detrimental to Formula 1.

Girls Basketball-Blackhawks take down Covenant Christian & Elwood in first week

By RICHIE HALL sports@readthereporter.com

SHERIDAN – Sometimes, a win is simply a win.

That was the case for the Sheridan girls basketball team last Thursday. The Blackhawks overcame foul trouble, free-throw struggles and a tough Covenant Christian team to get an overtime victory 55-46 at Larry Hobbs Hall. It's Sheridan's first win of the season.

"It was certainly an ugly game, an ugly win, but a win is a win," said Blackhawks coach Jaidlin Bradshaw. "They picked it up when it mattered and figured it out in that last four minutes and found a way to put the ball in the basket from the freethrow line. So we'll take it."

Sheridan played from behind for much of the fourth quarter, trailing by four points (38-34) at the start of the period, then again at 40-36. Baskets by Cecilia Timme and Mac Smith got the Blackhawks back even at 40-40.

The Warriors jumped back in front 43-40 with 1:55 left, but Sheridan made another surge, getting ahead 45-43. Kenzie Garner made three free throws, then Brielle Garner pushed the 'Hawks up 45-43 with a layin.

Two foul shots by Covenant's Avery Reichart tied the game at 45-45, and that would be the score at the end of regulation. Sheridan would dominate the overtime, outscoring the Warriors 10-1. Timme took over the game in the extra period, scoring eight points.

The Blackhawks also had solid rebounding and defense during the overtime as well.

FOUGHT

"We don't win that game without Brielle Garner playing defense on their point guard like she did," said Bradshaw. "It would have been a totally different game if she couldn't have stepped up and played some defense, so she did a really nice job. I'm really proud of her effort.

"I'm really proud of the whole team's effort. I think we had three or four kids with four fouls that did a good job of stepping up and playing good defense in a high-pressure situation."

Kenzie Garner scored 20 points, while Brielle Garner had nine points.

Other games

Sheridan began last week by dropping an away game at Brebeuf Jesuit 56-48 last Tuesday.

Kenzie Garner scored 20 points, while Eaton had 11 points, including a late 3-pointer. Timme scored seven points. Garner collected seven rebounds, handed out six assists and blocked two shots, with Eaton and Timme both getting five rebounds.

The Blackhawks sailed past Elwood 70-16 last Saturday. Sheridan led 35-11 at halftime, outscoring the Tigers 53-8 in the final three periods.

Kenzie Garner scored 25 points and pulled 11 rebounds for a double-double. Timme had 18 points, while Nova Cross scored eight. The 'Hawks had 22 assists as a team, with Timme dishing out seven and Kenzie Garner handing out six. Garner also had eight steals and two blocks, Timme made seven steals and Makenzy Terry had two blocks.

Sheridan is 2-2 and hosts Western Boone on Tuesday.

State sister act: Flannagans help GC teams find success

By RICHIE HALL

sports@readthereporter.com

There was a potential dilemma for the Flannagan family during the last weekend of October.

Ava Flannagan is a senior soccer player at Guerin Catholic, while her younger sister Claire Flannagan is a freshman Golden Eagles cross country runner. Both teams qualified for the state finals, which was a great and historic achievement for the school.

The only issue? There was the possibility of both teams playing on the same day, several miles apart. The state soccer games took place at IUPUI, the cross country at Terre Haute. Fortunately, Guerin Catholic's state soccer game was played on Friday, Oct. 27, so the family got to see Ava join her teammates in winning the Class 2A state championship.

The next morning, the Flannagans were at the La-Vern Gibson Championship Cross Country Course to see Claire and the GC cross country team compete at state. The Golden Eagles finished 21st in the state, while Claire placed 119th out of 249 runners, running the 5,000-meter course in 19 minutes, 30.8 seconds.

initiatives was carbon emissions. In 2014, Formula 1 switched its engine regulations from naturally aspirated V-8s to turbo-charged Hybrid V-6s. This change led to a chasm in competition and was a leading factor in Mercedes utter dominance in the later 2010s. Given the new technology, manufacturer-backed teams outspent the smaller teams and monopolized success at the front of the grid.

Further, though it may seem trivial, the "eco-friendly" Hybrid V-6 engine lost the signature Formula 1 "scream." Formula 1 has long been associated with the wild high-pitched shrill of small engines turning at high RPMs. The scream of the engines added an element of excitement, whether watching in-person or on television. Instead of a scream, the Hybrid V-6s managed nothing more than a hoarse whine as the electronic power associated generated by the hybrid engine eliminated the need for turning higher RPMs. Formula 1 fans are constantly complaining about the sterilized sound of the current engines. Heck, I say bring back V-12 engines of the mid-90s.

The competition problem

As alluded to above, since 2014, there has been Becky Ragsdale said that 50 a competition chasm in members of the team were Formula 1. Mercedes won every constructors championship from 2014 to 2021 and Red Bull has won the last two. Though Formula 1 has always been somewhat top-end heavy, the last 10 years have been especially brutal. So far this year, Max Verstappen has won 17 of the 20 races and wrapped up the driver's championship with six races left in the season.

Credit to Mercedes and Red Bull for doing their job, but Formula 1 cannot continue to support such a gap in competition. Fans love rivalry. To have rivalry, there must be competition. And the rivalry and competition must be at the front of the field. There are many great said. "These girls are just on-track battles in Formula 1 but when it is for sixth position, nobody cares.

The sport desperately needs parity. Right now, at least at the front of the grid, it has none.

When the Guerin Catholic girls tennis team decided to make blankets for cancer patients for its service project last year, it made an incredible impact on both the patients and the team.

So much so, that the Golden Eagles are making it an annual event. Many of the Guerin Catholic tennis players spent their afternoon last Wednesday after school making the blankets, which will soon be delivered to patients at the Joe and Shelly Schwarts Cancer Center at IU Health North Hospital in Carmel.

Golden Eagles coach in the Guerin Catholic media room hand-making the blankets. Those that were unable to attend also participated, making blankets from home and delivering them to the team.

"I think we'll probably have between 60 and 70 blankets," said Ragsdale.

"I'm just really happy that we all get to do that and we get to help someone out this holiday season," said senior captain Katie Geon. There was some holiday music being played while the girls were working on the blankets.

Ragsdale was happy to see her team so engaged in the project.

"It's been great," she great. They just show God's love every day." The coach was proud of her team for "giving back to the community," she said.

Guerin Catholic assistant coach Lynn Trott was there as well. The project is personal for her, as Trott is a cancer survivor.

In addition to doing something great for those who are in a time of need, the girls on the team are getting something out of this as well. A large number of players are expected to come out for the GC girls tennis team in the spring, so the blanket-making project is also a good way to help the team come together.

WESTFIELD - Westfield High School has consistently put out top-level tennis teams, both boys and girls, over the past several years.

The Shamrocks will soon have a facility worthy of those teams.

A ceremonial groundbreaking took place Tuesday afternoon on Westfield's new tennis facility. The facility will be located at 17695 Shamrock Boulevard, just north of State Road 32 and right next door to Riverview Health Westfield Hospital.

The new facility will have 15 tennis courts, including three championship courts with a viewing area for spectators. The courts will have post-tension concrete construction, consid-

Members of the Westfield school board and administration were on hand for the groundbreaking, along with current tennis players. Shamrocks girls coach Trudy Coler and boys all of the aspects that go into coach Tony Peters were among those helping to turn over the ground.

'I'm just so excited, really excited," said Coler, who has been the girls tennis coach for 17 years. "This is so wonderful for our school and for our players and programs. I'm relieved, too, that we're getting going on it."

process has been really cool reducing repair over the and the administration has been always supportive, helpful. The attitudes have been like, 'Let's make this.' We think we've designed one of the best facilities in the state and I think that's what they want to do."

> Coler and Peters were both involved in the planning of the facility.

"It was interesting, because you don't think about a facility like this, and you really have to think about how you want the courts set up, and accessibility for coaching and accessibility for fans to be able to see well, and all those things," said Coler. "We really went through the process of trying to figure out all the things that we wanted to "I think it's amazing that make sure we had so that in time for the Fall 2024

gosh, we should have done that instead.""

Peters said the process involved not only thinking about "for us in the short term, but what kind of things we would want in the future as well. We took some different courts that we think are nice courts in our area and try to pick some of those to model ours after and I think we're going to have a really nice finished product."

One of the players at the groundbreaking was sophomore Caroline Hopkins, who said it was "very exciting, and it's nice to see everyone come together to celebrate the new courts."

Work will take place on the facility beginning this winter, and the courts are expected to be complete by the upcoming summer, just

NOBLESVILLE

From the tipoff of last Friday's Noblesville-Brownsburg girls basketball game at The Mill, the intensity was high and the crowd fed into it, ramping up the energy throughout all four quarters.

Junior center Avery Gordon scored six in the first to guide Brownsburg to a 16-12 lead after one. The Millers took the second period 15-10 to go into the locker room with a 27-26 advantage. Ava Shoemaker scored eight of her points in the second, including a pair of threes, one from each wing.

It would be a second half two three-pointers in consecutive possessions to start the third, pushing the lead to 33-26.

The Bulldogs went on a run themselves to tie it at 33-33. Gordon converted an and-one and a layup for five straight. Then it was Kenzie Touloukian with a driving layup to knot it up.

C.C. Quigley hit a left baseline jumper to put the Millers up 35-33, but it would be tied 35-35 with a Macy Twomey bucket.

Brownsburg ended the third on a 9-7 run to take a 44-42 lead into the fourth.

> The final eight minutes belonged to Wilson and the Millers. It was defensive pressure and rebounding that helped catapult the momentum the Millers' way.

> "Sometimes your offense isn't there, so you have to try and create out of your defense and our kids did a great job," said Noblesville coach Donna Buckley. "Tipp (Mereidth Tippner) just rebounded the heck out of the basketball. I thought she was really good tonight, made huge plays for us, especially in that fourth quarter."

"We all love defense. able to increase their lead to We're hard-nosed, gritty our defense makes offense. Live ball turnovers are going to get us layups. As a team, we love defense.'

Anytime the Bulldogs scored, Noblesville had an answer right back. Twomey drove for a layup to make it 54-52. At that point, the cork blew off the pressure cooker.

Wilson sank her sixth from downtown for the turning point with 2:06 left. She drained a long three for a 55-54 lead, giving her exactly 1,000 points for her career.

"Reagan, she's all kinds of special. I'm so excited for her to get to 1,000 and then in the second quarter, giving to do that here at home,"

See Wilson ... Page B4 added nine points.

Both teams struggled to score in the third quarter, notching just one field goal each and the Blazers led 50-17 entering the final contest.

Lawrence Central scored the first six points of the game before Grubbs got University on the board with a rebound basket with 5:40 left in the first quarter. The Bears then used their length and athleticism to score 16 consecutive points on their way to a commanding 28-5 lead after the opening quarter.

The Lawrence Central onslaught continued in the second quarter, stretching the halftime lead to 47-11, ensuring the second half would be played with a running clock.

Jordan-Turley had six points to lead University. Bright and Conyers each had four points. University fell to 1-2.

University returns to action Tuesday evening for their home opener against Brebeuf Jesuit. The contest will tip at 6 p.m. and is the opening contest of a doubleheader that will see the Trailblazer boys open their season against Bethesda Christian.
