

Husky Life Skills program a hit

The REPORTER
Last Thursday, close to 75 students took advantage of the new Husky Life Skills program to attend the first of four Husky Skills sessions that will take place during the extended Student Resource Time (SRT) period each quarter this year.
The daily SRT period is 30 minutes, except on Thursdays when it is one hour and 35 minutes. SRT is designed to offer students time for schoolwork during school hours. However, not all students need to use the time for schoolwork.
When brainstorming ideas on how to maximize learning opportunities during the Thursday SRT period, the high school administrative team consisting of Mitch Street (Assistant Principal/Dean of Students), Whitney Gray (Assistant Principal), and Jarrod Mason (Principal) came up with an idea that was a hit with students: mini sessions on life skills that aren't taught in the classroom.

For the first session, students could choose from several offerings which included Basic Automotive Care (Jarrod Mason, HHHS Principal), Traffic Stop Behavior/Expectations (HHSC SRO, Hamilton County Sheriff's Department),

Miss Kitty, Christmas & fart spray

Here's the thing: you might not believe this, but once upon a time I was young and had a cat named Miss Kitty.
That's no good. Let me start over.
After his parents divorced, young Stu was rather poor and couldn't afford a dog, so he domesticated an alley cat and named her Miss Kitty.
Miss Kitty was a great little companion. She never even needed a litterbox. She'd go to the door and meow when she needed to ... go ... then meow from outside when she was done.
In retrospect that may have had more to do with the cost of cat litter than anything else.
Anyway, there was a cat with no litterbox, a boy with parents who lived 120 miles apart, and one year there was Christmas. OK, OK, so there was Christmas every year since either 366 A.D. in Rome or the mid-9th century in Europe, depending on whom you ask. But it was this one Christmas that mattered.
On this one Christmas, returning home to his custodial mother after a delightful holiday with his non-custodial father, young Stu was immediately grounded until well after New Year.
My mother had a variety of issues, and when they fell together in just the right mélange at just the right moment, I usually got in trouble.
She grew up dirt poor without real Christmas trees, so on this particular Christmas she convinced my stepfather to buy a tree that was too large for the room. The top of it brushed the 10-foot ceiling and the bottom branches of this evergreen Godzilla spread six feet in diameter and sat so close to the floor presents had to be stacked beside it.
My mother also had this habit of inviting over people she thought had money, perhaps hoping some of their success would rub off or something. During those visits, in fine American fashion, appearance was more important than reality.
Things must be spotless. Break out the good china. Let's pretend we always dress

On Saturday, Nov. 25, former Vice President Mike Pence held a book signing at Barnes & Noble, 14790 Greyhound Plaza, Carmel. Moments after the event began at 4 p.m., the line was already half-way across the store. "Go Home for Dinner" co-author Charlotte Pence Bond, VP Pence and Danny Marcano took a moment to pause for Hamilton County's hometown newspaper. As we told the Vice President at the time, any friend of Jim and Judy Buck surely deserves to be on our front page!

up and have four-course meals on random week-nights.

Now let's get back to that cat.

In the flurry of guest-prep, the non-Stu humans at home did not pay much attention to Miss Kitty. Not being able to get them to let her out to ... go ... she decided to go where there was a little bit of outside right there in the living room: way back in the corner under the Godzilla tree.

My mother and stepfather smelled it but couldn't find it. The rich guests would surely think this was a house full of poop-monsters, so something had to be done RIGHT NOW!

With only minutes remaining, she ran upstairs to my bathroom to grab my can of Arrid Extra Dry XX aerosol deodorant to spray around the tree in place of air freshener. It was the '80s and everything came in aerosol because we had Ozone layer to spare.

The can she grabbed had the distinctive blue Arrid lid, but no label.

She sprayed madly to clear the air but somehow the house just kept smelling worse.

"It's not working! Quick - spray more!"

Weeks before, young Stu had purchased a can of fart spray at a novelty shop. It was horrid rather than Arrid.

The label fell off in about 10 minutes and the cheap lid broke just from reattaching it. But it was still funny stuff, so, being the son of a pragmatic father, he just put another lid on it.

There my mortified mother was, spraying canned farts around her Godzilla tree moments before her ritzy new friends stopped by.

And it was all my fault, apparently.

Clearly, I had trained Miss Kitty to go under the tree. Being the precocious James Bond villain I was, I knew she'd have people over, I knew she'd be out of air freshener, I tore off the label from that fateful can and replaced the cap so she'd grab it by mistake. Then I took my deodorant with me to visit my father, not to be a deodorized human, but rather to be certain there was no escape from my nefarious machinations. Bwah-ha-ha!

Grounding me through the holidays for the Christmas Cat-Poo Plot was the only fitting punishment.

I really miss that cat.

Hamilton Southeastern science teacher shows compassion for all her students

By HANNA MORDOH
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

WISH-TV is Indiana's education station, and that means News 8 celebrates extraordinary teachers with the Golden Apple Award. It comes with a trophy, a school supply shopping spree to Teachers' Treasures, a video message from students and staff, and a surprise visit from the News 8 team with the help of Hensley Legal Group.

November's winner is Mrs. Courtney Lawhead.

She is known for her compassion for all students in the Hamilton Southeastern School District. In fact, her own son dubs her the "mom" of Hamilton Southeastern High School. While Lawhead is a science teacher there, she does just about every other job you can think of in the district – including running a program to help students in need.

In education, there's both a science to teaching and something about teaching that science can't explain.

HSE High School Principal Reginald Simmons says Lawhead was born to be a teacher, and she doesn't just teach a subject the school.

"She teaches students – not just science. She teaches her kids, and that is what makes her really special, her ability to care for every single person," Simmons said. "She really understands that as an educator we are serving our community – we are serving our kids and serving our families and she does it in such a selfless way. She doesn't expect anything in return. I really think she fills her bucket by giving to others."

Whether Lawhead teaches students in science or not, she stands out in the district, even among educators.

Sophomore Drew Benedetto said, "She's the best teacher in the world, and I love to have her for science class."

Junior Isaac Williams said, "Extremely hardworking. I don't think I have ever

HSE High School science teacher Courtney Lawhead was presented with this month's Golden Apple Award by WISH-TV's own Hanna Mordoh. Lawhead is loved by all her students, and all were thrilled for her receiving the recognition she deserves.

really seen her take a day off. She is always helping someone, no matter what."

"She always joked around that all of her students are her kids, she protects everyone," Evan Lawhead, high school student and Lawhead's son, said. "She helps students so much with emotional support. If a student ever comes in and is having a hard time or something happens, she will take them in the lab and have a discussion with them. She will take in anybody – she just cares for everybody in this school."

That care is evident in how she treats students and the never-ending list of activities she does at the school.

She helps with prom and student council, runs the euchre club, helps Riley Dance Marathon, and is the president of the wrestling program. She also helps with the school's exceptional learners program, Best Buddies, is part of the Culture Committee, and sponsors several clubs and sports.

When asked how Mrs. Lawhead does it all, Principal Simmons said, "That's a great question – and you know we have to slow her down sometimes. Because you know if there is a need, she wants to be the first one to try and fill it."

Plus, she won "Teacher of the Year" last spring and was named "Mom of the Year" in Fishers in 2016.

Katie Beegle works with Lawhead, and says she cares about every student's wellbeing, even the ones she doesn't know. Beegle says taking over and running Roary's Closet, a closet full of clothing and essential needs, was a calling.

"Roary's Closet is a closet in HSE attached to one of the hallways, and in there, there are clothes of all different sizes," Beegle said. "Kids clothes, adult clothes, anything. There are also a lot of personal hygiene products, like shampoo, conditioner, toothbrushes, toothpaste, and deodorant – whatever a child might need here."

Kids can submit what they need anonymously online. Then, the items are put in a locker, and the students can retrieve them without anyone knowing.

"She changes the lives of so many students and really changes the lives of her coworkers and co-teachers – myself included. She makes me want to be better every single day," Beegle said.

That's why Beegle nominated Mrs. Lawhead for the WISH-TV Golden Apple Award.

"She just deserves it so much, I just knew if people heard all that she does, she would get the praise and award that she deserves," Beegle said.

So, the News 8 team surprised her. Mrs. Lawhead was shocked.

"I'm overwhelmed – it is just really great. I will buy lots of chalk with this for sure," Mrs. Lawhead said.

When asked if she was surprised, she responded,

"Very much! I did not expect this and I thank you!"

In this experiment of life, Mrs. Lawhead is proof that the hypothesis of caring has the best kind of conclusion.

"I am so thankful for being able to do it and I don't feel like you need awards to help people," Lawhead said. "I actually think helping people fills your bucket and makes you think less about yourself. Always look for the positive and not the negative, everybody deserves to be helped.

Health Department provides Narcan training to Hamilton County school districts

Medication is saving lives across the county

The REPORTER

The Hamilton County Health Department is taking proactive steps to combat the opioid crisis by training educators and staff in every school district on how to use Narcan, a life-saving medication that can reverse opioid overdoses.

"Unfortunately, an overdose can happen anywhere," said Jim Ginder, a Health Education Specialist at the Health Department. "Our primary concern is the safety and well-being of our community members, especially our youth. The opioid crisis has touched every corner of our county, and it's essential that we equip our school staff with the necessary tools to respond effectively in case of an emergency."

Opioids are a class of drugs that include prescription painkillers like oxycodone and hydrocodone, as well as illegal drugs such as heroin. When someone overdoses on opioids, their breathing can slow down or stop, which can be life-threatening. Narcan, also known by its generic name naloxone, is usually administered as a nasal spray and typically works within minutes by restoring normal breathing and consciousness to the individual who has overdosed.

"The opioid epidemic is a complex and ongoing public health crisis," Ginder explained. "We're committed to making sure all educators and staff in our county's school districts can identify the signs of an overdose, administer Narcan, and provide critical support until emergency responders arrive."

Westfield Washington Schools is among those who recognize the importance of the program.

"We are grateful to the

Kaiser

Hamilton County Health Department for providing this essential training," District Superintendent Dr. Paul Kaiser said. "Our top priority is the safety of our students, staff, and visitors, and having our educators trained to respond to opioid emergencies is a crucial step towards achieving that goal."

Support your local food banks

Working together with YOU to feed Hamilton County

The REPORTER

Giving Tuesday may be over, but food banks' need for support from readers like you certainly isn't.

In fact, 22,370 Hamilton County friends and neighbors experience food insecurity. The local food support network has had to work much harder this year to supply the increasing need.

In 2023, Hamilton County Harvest (HCH) Food Bank had to purchase more than 50 percent of the food it distributed. This resulted in over $100,000 in food purchases.

Besides providing local food needs, HCH also provides valuable network support throughout Hamilton County. You are also encouraged to donate to your local food pantry if you desire.

Letter to the Editor

Westfield reader encourages residents to research future development projects

On Sunday, Dec. 3, Luke Combs will bring his heartfelt country melodies to Gainbridge Fieldhouse in Indianapolis, with fans enthusiastically singing along to "The Back 40 Back." While this concert promises to be a night to remember, it also serves as a poignant reminder of the disparity between our entertainment choices and our civic responsibilities.

In Westfield, the Northpoint II development is a real-life reflection of Combs' lyrics about the loss of rural landscapes. As fans don their cowboy boots and immerse themselves in the music, I urge them to carry the soul of a country music fan beyond the concert venue and into the realm of community engagement.

It's one thing to post a picture on Instagram in cowboy attire, and quite another to embody the spirit of country music, which often champions rural values and a connection to the land. The Northpoint II development, with its questionable rezoning procedures, is a critical example of why we need to be vigilant and engaged in local decision-making processes.

I encourage the people of Westfield to delve deeper into the Northpoint II development and to reach out to Mayor-Elect Scott Willis and other officials. It's crucial that we, as a community, keep a close eye on our local government's actions and ensure they align with our values and the preservation of our agricultural heritage.

This concert is more than just entertainment; it's a call to action. Let the lyrics of "The Back 40 Back" be a reminder of our duty to support our farmers and safeguard our rural landscapes. Let's transform our admiration for country music into active participation in our community's future.

If we don't take a stand, the very essence of what makes Hamilton County unique – its rural charm and farmlands – might soon be relegated to the past.

State Sen. J.D. Ford advises caution on LEAP pipeline

The REPORTER

State Senator J.D. Ford (D-Indianapolis) released a statement Tuesday regarding the controversial pipeline construction plan associated with the LEAP Lebanon Innovation District in Boone County.

Some reported designs for the project describe a pipeline diverting water from the Wabash River in West Lafayette to Lebanon for industrial use, and potentially to Eagle Creek Reservoir or the White River for disposal.

Senator Ford stated: "I've been concerned about and monitoring this project for some time, especially the potential impacts at Eagle Creek. Earlier this month, Representative Pryor and I were able to meet for a productive conversation with folks from IEDC about the issue. I was also glad to see the Governor's statement referring the project to IFA for further study. I agree that is what is needed.

"There is no need to rush full steam ahead on this pipeline without a full assessment of the downstream impacts – and I mean that literally. White River and the Eagle Creek Reservoir are vital to our local economy and ecosystem alike. I want to be certain any project potentially impacting our waterways and fresh-water supply, especially at this scale, will benefit and not harm the communities like mine all along the 35-mile stretch of the proposed pipeline.

"Hoosiers are counting on us to get this right, not just for the here and now on a single project, but for the long-term environmental security of our state. We can afford to do our due diligence here – in fact, we can't afford not to. I look forward to doing my part to make sure this is moving in the right direction."

Sen. Ford represents Indiana Senate District 29, which encompasses Boone County's Eagle Township, Hamilton County's Clay Township, and Marion County's Pike and Wayne townships. Details, details

During the October Noblesville Schools Board of Trustees meeting, the board approved the motion to ratify the contract agreement between the Teachers Forum and Noblesville Schools.

Superintendent Dr. Hile gave several highlights of the collective bargaining contract negotiation. Among the highlights mentioned were an increase in teacher pay to $46,000 for 2024 and $48,000 for 2025, an increase to the 401a match for retirement for teachers from 2.5 percent to 3 percent, a decrease in the Retirement Notification Incentive from $10,000 to $1,000 if notice of retirement is given by Jan. 31 of the year, and a new dependent leave benefit for new mothers within the first year of a child's birth.

While I support most of the changes mentioned, I believe that the dependent leave benefit went too far. The leave allows a new parent to take up to 30 sick days within the first year of a child's birth. This is a new addition to the teachers' contract and is over and above all other time out of school, such as fall break, winter break, spring break, summer break, and paid time off. I know that a newborn can present many challenges, including sickness, but I believe that the 30-day policy may be ripe for misuse.

The highlight of the November meeting was the bid for the Noblesville High School Academic Addition. While the project is coming in slightly above the originally anticipated budget, the bid was accepted by the board and ground-breaking should start by January of 2024. You can view the 11-page rendering of the addition at tinyurl.com/NHSac-addition.

COLUMNIST

ademicaddition.

Also in the November meeting was the policy adoption of the H250 School Library Material Removal Request procedure. As written, this policy allows a parent to request the removal of a school library material, but the entire review and decision process is led by school employees and administration. Absent is any parental or community involvement in the review of the contested library material.

I believe this goes contrary to the intention of the law passed by our legislature during the 2023 session regarding school library content. The legislature's addition of language to allow for parental involvement was a recognition of the importance of parental input. This policy, as it stands, falls short of this acknowledgment.

It is important to note that the final decision of whether to remove a school library material or not is up to the school board. Therefore, it is incumbent on any community member concerned about contested library material to make their opinion known to the board members.

Dr. Hile will give the State of the Schools update on Wednesday, Dec. 6 at the Noblesville Schools Community Center on Field Drive. The presentation will include academic achievements, workforce development, school finances, and construction.

While I expect the presentation will focus on all the positives, I would focus on what is not said. You know what they say about details.

For those interested, tickets are available through the Noblesville Chamber of Commerce at Noblesville-Chamber.com.

10K handmade wooden toys nearly ready for Santa's sleigh

The REPORTER

Members of Central Indiana Woodworkers (CIWW) will come together this Saturday, Dec. 2, starting at 8:30 a.m., to help make the holidays just a bit brighter for families throughout the region.

CIWW's year-long task of handcrafting nearly 10,000 wooden toys and gifts for children comes to a conclusion at an annual event they call Pick & Pack.

Boxes and crates of finished treasures come out of storage and take their place on a temporary assembly line. Ten stations hold stacks of wooden cars, trucks, rolling animals, puzzles, games, jewelry boxes, and other items made during the year.

Over 75 volunteers from the club line up with orders in hand, sent in by community-focused agencies. One by one, they pick requested items from the stations, boxing them up, and moving along to the final packing table. Bubble wrap is added, boxes taped shut, and the final orders are stacked for delivery to the agencies.

This year, the club has received requests from 40 different agencies throughout central Indiana. Many already have children in mind who will receive these treasures. Others give them out at random to families who are facing difficult situations this holiday season. The goal is always the same: help make a difference for kids who need it most.

Making a difference is part of the official mandate for CIWW. Founded in 1948 as Home Craftsmen Forum, the charity was started to help returning war veterans transition into life as homeowners. The club offered basic training in using tools and construction techniques as part of its educational mandate. The club also included the task of giving back to the community as the second major focus for their work. Toymaking quickly became a rally point for members to come together, learn new tools and techniques, and work on gifts that would bring smiles to kids of the region.

Once again this year, club members have produced nearly 10,000 toys which are ready for delivery. The average age of children being served is around 7, so toy designs have been updated to appeal to this older audience. Treasure or jewelry boxes are a popular choice for girls, while the cars and games get the attention of the boys. Many agencies prefer that the items produced are left unfinished, encouraging shared family time to decorate and personalize their new gifts.

CIWW President Jim Chrena says the toymaking program definitely appeals to the older, retired members of the club.

"Many of our members are at a point in life where they're ready to spend their time making someone else's life better," Chrena said. "It's what keeps some of them going ... knowing one of our toys may be the only gift a child might receive over the holiday."

Each month, club members are introduced to a new

Toys

Toy of the Month which they are encouraged to build. The club provides drawings and templates for each toy. And they give members 13 of each item or supply that might be needed for the project. For instance, a race car might require 13 sets of four wheels, 13 sets of four axles, and a small wooden person – times 13 – to sit in the driver's seat. Members are allowed to keep one of the completed toys but bring the other 12 to turn in at the next meeting.

During the weeks between meetings, several club members open their home shops for toy work days. New and old woodworkers come together and learn about safe tool use and volume production methods. They also embellish the designs and add custom touches to give each item a unique look.

Jacque Beck, head of the club's charitable activities, praises the many members who give their time and talent to help the community.

"We have an amazing group of people," Beck said. "So many generous souls in our club, everyone stepping up in their own way to help us surpass our goal."

This year's Pick & Pack event will once again be held at the Talon Test Laboratories on Indianapolis' west side at 915 Western Drive, where their donated warehouse is transformed into a temporary fulfillment center. Club members gather the day before to move the inventory out of storage and into the space. Items are organized by category, and stations are clearly marked for the big day.

On Saturday, after a greeting and pep talk by club leaders, volunteers are given orders and empty boxes. Moving from station to station, they collect items requested by agencies and return them to a central control table where the contents are checked and verified. Next they are passed along to the packing team who secure each order and move them to the pallets for delivery.

With so many toys and treasures being moved and handled, some items end up broken. For this purpose, a table and team of top-notch toymakers are on hand at the Toy Repair station. Like Santa's elves, this team is able to quickly make last minute fixes or touch ups to hide blemishes and get the items back on the line. Unfortunately, some toys don't pass the quality control inspector at the end of the line and are tossed aside for overhaul for next year.

The whole process takes the club's volunteer fulfillment team less than three hours to get everything packed and ready for delivery. Additional volunteers will help transport some shipments while other agencies pick them up that day.

All things considered, Santa would be impressed with this well-oiled machine and how it designs, builds, and prepares a pile of 10,000 toys for delivery on Christmas morning.

Central Indiana Woodworkers are proud of their part in making a difference in the lives of families in the region, one toy at a time.

Irving Berlin's White Christmas brings holiday cheer to Beef & Boards

Musical is based on beloved Paramount Pictures film

The REPORTER

Beef & Boards Dinner Theatre wraps up its historic 50th Anniversary Season this holiday with the Irving Berlin favorite White Christmas, now on stage.

Full of dancing, romance, laughter, and some of the greatest songs ever written, White Christmas tells the story of Bob Wallace and Phil Davis, veterans with a song and dance act. They follow a pair of performing sisters to a picturesque, but failing, Vermont inn that happens to be owned by their former army commander. Together they put on a fundraising show that includes a special surprise for their beloved general.

Based on the beloved, timeless film, this heartwarming musical adaptation features 17 Irving Berlin songs including "Snow," "I Love A Piano," "Count Your Blessings," "I've Got My Love To Keep Me Warm," "Sisters," "Blue Skies," and the best-selling single (holiday or otherwise) of all time: "White Christmas."

Elliott Litherland, who made his Beef & Boards debut earlier this season as Monsieur D'Arque in Disney's Beauty and the Beast, stars as Capt. Bob Wallace. Kenney Green-Tilford, who directed and choreographed Sophisticated Ladies earlier this season and played the store manager in Elf in 2018, plays his buddy, Pfc. Phil Davis. Heather Patterson King (Mary Poppins, Elf) and Deb Wims (Grumpy Old Men: The Musical, An American in Paris, Footloose, Clue) play sisters Betty and Judy Haynes, respectively. Jeff Stockberger, just seen on stage in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolor Dreamcoat and Grumpy Old Men: The Musical, is Gen. Henry Waverly.

White Christmas is on stage for 42 performances through New Year's Eve in the intimate space of Beef & Boards Dinner Theatre. Tickets range from $52.50 to $79.50 and include Chef Larry Stoops' holiday buffet and select beverages.

A special New Year's Eve celebration on Dec. 31 features the dinner buffet, performance of White Christmas, dancing to a live band, and champagne toast at midnight, followed by a breakfast buffet. All tickets for this celebration are $99 (added fees may apply).

TODAY’S BIBLE READING

When Isaac was old and his eyes were so weak that he could no longer see, he called for Esau his older son and said to him, “My son.”
“Here I am,” he answered.
Isaac said, “I am now an old man and don’t know the day of my death. Now then, get your equipment—your quiver and bow—and go out to the open country to hunt some wild game for me. Prepare me the kind of tasty food I like and bring it to me to eat, so that I may give you my blessing before I die.”

Longtime coach Pete Smith to be inducted into Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame

The REPORTER

A familiar state champion basketball coach will be inducted into the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame in a few months.

Pete Smith was announced as one of the inductees in a press release sent out Tuesday morning. Smith was a longtime and distinguished coach, especially in Hamilton County, where he coached at three different schools, winning two state championships at Guerin Catholic.

“It’s so cool to share it with a lot of the players and assistant coaches that still live here that I see and talk to on a regular basis,” Smith told the Reporter.

Smith graduated from Rochester High School in 1979. He led the Zebras to a 16-5 record his senior campaign while being named Defensive Player of the Year, Mental Attitude Award Winner, and team captain. Smith attended Bethel College, where he was injured prior to his sophomore year, so he began his coaching career his junior year.

Smith was an assistant at Rochester, South Bend Adams, and Warsaw before becoming head coach at Manchester. The Squires were 66-26 during his four years, winning a sectional in 1988 and compiling a 22-1 record during the 1990-91 season.

Smith was hired at Noblesville on Aug. 8, 1991. In a Noblesville Ledger article that ran the next day, sports editor Mike Emery noted the difference in styles, saying “Smith’s high-octane attack has worked as effectively for him as the more deliberate attack” of Nicholson, also a member of the Hall of Fame.

“Starting at Noblesville, replacing a living legend in Dave Nicholson,” said Smith. “That was a unique challenge because he had built such a great basketball program, yet our styles were very different on the court. It made it some tough shoes to fill.”

“And yet he was always supportive,” said Smith. “He came to a lot of games. I really appreciate that about Nic, because it was a different style of basketball the Millers played.”

Smith coached for three seasons at Noblesville, winning a sectional title in 1994 and advancing to the regional final. Smith then coached at Penn for four seasons, 1994-98, during which time he also taught business at the high school. As a coach, his 1995-96 team finished 19-5 and also won a sectional championship.

“I gave up a great coaching job at Noblesville to take a leap of faith and go to Penn,” said Smith. “Fortunately we did pretty well at Penn, too.”

Smith returned to Hamilton County and coached at Carmel for four seasons, 1998-2002. After that, Smith began building the boys basketball program at the new Guerin Catholic High School. Smith said the Golden Eagles’ first team in 2004-05 was a freshman squad, with 17 ninth-graders.

The team added grades each year, and played its first-ever sectional in 2007, where it took Park Tudor in the limit during the sectional championship game before falling 50-48.

Guerin Catholic would soon become a powerhouse. The Golden Eagles won their first-ever sectional championship in 2010, then claimed a 3A state title in 2012. Guerin Catholic followed that with a regional crown in 2014 and added a second 3A state championship in 2015. Smith’s Guerin Catholic team went 9-13 his first season but compiled a winning season in the coach’s next 11 seasons until he retired in 2018.

“It was cool to get it going from scratch like we did,” said Smith.

Smith amassed 389 wins in his career, and a winning percentage of 61 percent. Smith has earned numerous honors from the IBCA including District Coach of the Year. Smith had the honor of being an assistant coach for the McDonald’s All-American game, Director of the Indiana/Kentucky All-Star Series, and a director of 5-Star Summer Basketball Camps for 24 summers.

Smith also took several coaches under his wing as assistants, with 17 of them going on to become head coaches for high school, college, and even an NBA team – Brad Stevens, the former Butler University coached the Boston Celtics from 2013 to 2021 and is now the team’s Director of Basketball Operations.

Smith and the other members of the men’s class of 2024 will be inducted at a banquet the evening of March 20, 2024 at Primo Banquet Hall in Indianapolis. A reception will take place that afternoon at the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame Museum in New Castle.

Westfield powers through Pendleton Heights in home opener

By RICHIE HALL
sports@readthereporter.net

WESTFIELD – After a big win last Saturday, the Westfield boys basketball team didn’t have a letdown when it hosted Pendleton Heights on Tuesday.

Instead, the Shamrocks didn’t let up. Westfield ran away with the fourth quarter in its home opener, eventually beating the Arabians 64-39 at CSI Gymnasium.

The ‘Rocks were coming off a victory at Kokomo, last year’s Class 4A state runner-up.

“That’s in the back of our heads, it’s in the back of everyone’s head,” said Westfield senior Trey Buchanan.

“After a big win, you don’t want to come back in the next game and just have a letdown. We knew that’s not what we wanted to do, so we locked in there in the second quarter and second half to make sure that didn’t happen.”

“It’s a good start,” said ‘Rocks coach Shane Sumpter. “We got things that we got to clean up, but it’s nice to do that when you win. We’ve been a tough team here at home.”

The Shamrocks outscored Pendleton in each of the four quarters. They trailed early in the first, but used a 7-0 run to take the lead, and eventually finish the first period up 12-9. Five Westfield players scored, with Nic Book getting four points and Caleb Wise hitting a 3-pointer.

The Arabians tied the game twice in the second quarter; doing so both times by nailing 3s. Then Buchanan got hot, taking over the game with back-to-back triples, a traditional three-point play and a rebound basket to score 11 points in the period. Wise threw in his second 3 of the game, and that helped Westfield to a 31-21 halftime lead.

“It was just a matter of when I could break the lid off,” said Buchanan. “I know my team’s got my back. They told me to keep shooting, so that’s what I did and eventually started knocking them down.”

Pendleton Heights was within 33-26 midway through the third quarter before Buchanan drained another 3 and Book made a dunk. Those baskets began a 23-6 spurt that lasted until the midway point of the fourth period. Will Harvey helped out a couple of 3s in the early part of the fourth quarter, and Farrell hit a triple later in the period.

“We made a lot of shots in the second half too,” said

Harvey

Sumpter. “Shots that just didn’t fall in the first half.”

Sumpter credited his team with picking it up defensively in the second half. The coach said that “some of the defensive mistakes that we made in the first half, I thought we didn’t make those in the second half.” As a result, Westfield was able to get a comfortable lead, “and once we got a 10-point lead, we were able to sustain that,” said Sumpter.

Buchanan led with 21 points, followed by Harvey with 14 points. Both players drained four 3-pointers. Book added 10 points, seven rebounds and two blocked shots; Harvey also had seven rebounds. Farrell pulled five rebounds.

Westfield is 2-0 and opens Hoosier Crossroads Conference play Friday by hosting Zionsville.

“We’re looking forward to a big challenge, a big conference game here Friday night against a good basketball team,” said Sumpter.
