SNOW GLOBES

Fast forward 12 years, this past April and I’m standing at our kitchen sink and hear the garage door; my husband is home from work. I noticed what sounded like a large crash sound. I fling open the back door to see if he ran over something in the garage. After all, this was a really loud sound. He tells me I’m merely dramatic, and after coming inside and going upstairs to change, he quickly realizes the origins of the sound I heard. It wasn’t the garage; it was 11 snow globes that had collapsed a shelf in our master closet.

When we bought our home, we assumed (Yes, I know. Please spare me. I know what happens when you assume.) that the shelves had been hung by the studs and could easily support the weight of the winter wonderland we had been collecting. Nope, the former brainiacs threw up shelves into drywall and we were too stupid to double-check before placing our cherished items on it. What came next was a grave realization of the magnitude of what had been lost. Glitter, glass, and water was everywhere—it looked like a stripper took a shower in our closet with the amount of water and glitter on our floor. My normal self would have had a full-blown blackout laced with obscenities, to the point of dizziness at this mess. That wasn’t the case though.

We silently cleaned, vacuumed, and carefully picked up the mess and memories. My husband was sad at the loss and so was I. Fortunately, not all of them perished in the fall, but 11 of them did. I held my breath to see if my one from Nana made it. Unfortunately, it was one of the casualties. I made it my mission to try and remedy this as much as possible. I started replacing some of our most cherished ones. My husband’s collection isn’t what it once was, but he’s got a decent start, and we will continue to rebuild. It’s life. I was able to find my exact snow globe from Nana and replaced it, too. I still have her note and the original box.

Since having children, we’ve brought them in on the experience, and in addition to our exchange of the snow globe and village, they each get a special ornament. Mary always gets a special Santa ornament and Pat gets a snowman ornament. I imagine one day when they move out and start on their own, they’ll have their first tree and it will be filled with their special ornaments, each dated with a year. That’s really what this time of year is anyway – it’s about traditions and making memories to take with you.

I’ve also learned how to use a stud finder and make sure to never put anything precious on a shelf without first checking to make sure the shelf is in studs.

Chief Deputy Coroner attains national death investigator certification

The REPORTER

In a significant milestone for the Hamilton County Coroner's Office, Chief Deputy Coroner Bruce Gipson recently achieved certification from the American Board of Medicolegal Death Investigators (ABMDI).

ABMDI is a voluntary, national certification that was created to uphold the highest standards of practice in medicolegal death investigations.

ABMDI certification is a rigorous process consisting of an application, employment verification noting at least 640 hours of work experience in a coroner or medical examiner's office, professional references, and a 250-question test. This certification signifies that Chief Deputy Gipson has met the standards in education, training, and experience, ensuring the utmost professionalism and competence in the field of medicolegal death investigations.

The Coroner and Deputy Coroners of Hamilton County attend as much continuing education as possible to further their understanding of the complexities of death investigations, and this achievement not only reflects the dedication of the office's investigators but also reinforces its commitment to providing accurate and thorough death investigations for the citizens of Hamilton County.

County Coroner sounds alarm about new drug found in overdose deaths

By KODY FISHER

WISH-TV | wishtv.com

A new drug is popping up in toxicology reports of people who've died in an overdose. Hamilton County Coroner Jeff Jellison is sounding the alarm to keep the community safe.

The drug, bromazolam, was noticed in toxicology reports from other states, but now it's here.

"We were aware on the surface of other states that were experiencing this; Ohio, Illinois, and that's really typically the way we see things here in Indiana," Jellison said. "It emerges in neighboring states and then all of a sudden you see it here at home."

Jellison said he learned about this issue a couple of weeks ago from a warning sent out by the Indiana Department of Health. He says the drug comes in many different forms.

County Councilman Mark Hall’s November Timesheet

Welcome to the Timesheet. This column is a report of work done on behalf of the people of Hamilton County. It’s to be informative, too – a place to learn about projects and how our county government works.

As your employee, it’s important to me that you know what is being worked on as transparently as possible in government. You hired me as your County Councilman, and my hope is that you’ll choose to be informed by regularly reading this column, getting involved, and by asking questions. Council meetings are at 7 p.m. the first Wednesday of every month at the Judicial Center in downtown Noblesville. They are also available to watch online for those unable to attend in person.

Here is where my time this past month has been spent.

November was filled with meetings and events. Being invited to so many county, holiday, and fundraising events is both humbling and a bit daunting. Trying to honor as many requests as possible is tough. Balancing personal and business commitments during the holiday season with council commitments makes me feel like the guy in the circus juggling chainsaws. That said, nearing the end of my first year of serving on the council, the work has settled into a normalized flow.

This month, our in-person personnel committee meeting was canceled. Without a meeting, personnel requests are voted on as they occur, at the next regular council meeting. The highway committee meeting was light with only a few requests, all of which were addressed at the full council meeting. Many of our highway projects require council members’ sponsorship. Project details are reviewed in advance, sponsored, and then moved to votes at a subsequent full council meeting. This process, along with statutory regulations that govern procurement, are in place to ensure value and multiple checks and balances on behalf of the taxpayers.

In addition to the County Council public meetings, November’s work included attending Board of Commissioners public meetings, meeting with the Human Resources and Communication department heads, a joint executive Council and Commissioners meeting, a joint public meeting, Council Caucus meetings, a Council work session, two Noblesville City Council meetings, Cicero Town council and Cicero Utilities planning meetings.

The month included two constituents service meetings. Usually, requests require research with a county department, securing the correct answer and then following up with the taxpayer. November’s taxpayer questions were both Public Safety related. One regarding the outfitting of first responder vehicles with radios and one regarding Hamilton County’s move to the latest Motorola radios. Again, this month, the review of several candidates for council board appointments continued. I also received a briefing from our Human Resources leadership regarding the Workday software package implementation and how county retirees received the news of their updated benefits and lower costs.

As a council, in addition to the normal county operations financial oversight, we are investing time and continue to work on the expansion of the judicial center, attainable housing initiatives, the creation of a community development corporation, ARPA (American Rescue Plan Act) spend management, a domestic violence center, a new 911 Communications center, county participation in CIRDA (Central Indiana Regional Development Authority), a pedestrian bridge to connect a Fishers and Carmel park, highway projects, board appointments, utility services to the North and planning for the services that will be needed to accommodate our growing county population.

Of note this month was working to assist Cicero with funding for local utility projects. I had the honor, along with Kathy Williams, to represent the County speaking about servant leadership with several dozen high school freshmen as part of the Purdue Extension ACTS Program. It was an honor to represent you at the Central Indiana Police Foundation Breakfast, at the Noblesville Youth Assistance Haybale Ball, at the Indianapolis Executive Airport runway expansion grand opening, at Carmel’s Christkindlmarkt opening day, at the Good Samaritan Network’s Festival of Trees, and speaking at the Sheridan Kiwanis meeting.

This is my timesheet. This is where my time went during month 11. There are quite a few projects in the queue for 2024, and while my job is primarily the financial oversight of the county budget it is important to understand the Board of Commissioners’ priorities and balance them with the stewardship of taxpayer dollars. That is the job, and I am excited to do the people’s business.

As a taxpayer myself, and listening to so many of you, our employers, it’s important for the taxpayers to have access to all the information you want. I work for you and although you may not choose to do a deep dive into what your County Council does, it’s important that you can always do so.

Feel free to contact me at (317) 832-1104 or mark.hall@hamiltoncounty.in.gov with questions, feedback or if you would like to talk about county business.

Tiffanie Ditlevson resigns from Hamilton East Public Library Board

The REPORTER

Tiffanie Ditlevson has officially submitted her resignation from the Hamilton East Public Library (HEPL) Board. This decision follows her recent election victory as she secured an At-large seat on the Fishers City Council.

Ditlevson penned her resignation letter to the Hamilton County Council, the body responsible for her appointment to the HEPL Board. In the letter, she expressed her gratitude for the opportunity to serve on the library board and highlighted her commitment to the community during her tenure.

Ditlevson will join incumbents Cecilia Coble and Todd Zimmerman on the Fishers City Council. She says her successful campaign is a testament to her dedication, vision, and the trust the community places in her leadership.

In her new role on the Fishers City Council, Ditlevson said she intends to bring the same level of professionalism, integrity, and fiscal responsibility that she exhibited during her service on the HEPL Board. She says her focus on community well-being and her ability to navigate complex issues with a thoughtful and principled approach make her a valuable asset to the Fishers City Council.

“It has been an honor to serve on the Hamilton East Public Library Board, and I am immensely grateful for the support and collaboration with my fellow board members,” Ditlevson said. “As I transition to the Fishers City Council, I am excited to continue my commitment to public service, working tirelessly to address the needs of our community with dedication and transparency.”

Gregory Hancock Dance Theatre stages new take on The Nutcracker

By AMBER SHATTO
A Seat on the Aisle

This is not your father’s The Nutcracker. Gregory Hancock Dance Theatre (GHDT) offers a thrilling, reimagined contemporary work of the classic tale where magic remains a focus but the theme of kindness takes center stage.

Performances take place over two weekends in the intimate setting of The Florence at The Academy of GHDT by the dancers of the pre-professional students of GHDT (G2), students from The Academy of GHDT, and other young student dancers.

Under the direction of Gregory Hancock with assistant direction from Abigail Lessaris and instruction from GHDT’s talented company dancers, an array of contemporary compositions replaces Tchaikovsky’s suite in this alternative version of The Nutcracker. The music selection fittingly follows the story line taking audiences through the enchanted journey and experiences of the child who receives the magical Nutcracker. Inspiring choreography from Mr. Hancock, Dawn Deahl, and Shari Washington Rhone paired with endlessly dazzling costumes at each turn (also from Mr. Hancock) create an environment filled wall-to-wall with brilliance. Thomas Mason’s lighting design also contributes to GHDT’s production of The Nutcracker through effectively creating another layer of emotion to each scene.

The first two visual differences appear to audiences immediately in Act I: the setting is not in a comfortable home but rather in the cold streets. Also, there is no Clara to be found, but Klarence (Vincent Kitchen) can be – why not, of course? It is a one-two punch of originality that piques curiosity and subscribes audiences to the storytelling journey.

As the other performers take the stage, more contemporary elements emerge as we see children dressed in modern, colorful winterwear self-recording TikTok dances, toting multiple shopping bags, and engaging in fashion-clad fitness routines – all of whom are too distracted and disinterested in offering the homeless, orphaned Klarence any type of charity. These events set the tone as the rest of the story plays out including presentation of the thrifed Nutcracker gift from the homeless Drosselmeyer followed by the magical transformation, mouse battle, and beginning of the enchanted journey led by the Nutcracker (Audrey Holloway) where an impressive and delicate snowflake performance marks the end of Act I.

Klarence’s journey with the Nutcracker continues in Act II where he encounters the beloved Sugar Plum Fairy (Hillary Riley). The Nutcracker and the Sugar Plum Fairy both perform solo pieces in this scene in two distinctive styles that fully demonstrate their athleticism, grace, and disciplined technique as dancers. Klarence joins them in an energetic and infectious joyful performance under crimson and golden lights. Klarence then conveys peace and comfort as he performs with the Snow Fairy (Zoe Hacker) who beautifully dances en pointe throughout The Nutcracker. A particularly extraordinary section of traditional dances from diverse cultures follows – a true Gregory Hancock signature despite international presence in the original work – with Klarence then dancing in kind for his new community.

G2 dancer Vincent Kitchen is small but powerful as Klarence. Young Mr. Kitchen executes graceful motion with mature strength and precision as well as unwavering poise. All the performing artists throughout GHDT’s The Nutcracker offer beautifully skilled movement and coordination across all ages and training levels which is a treat to experience. Dancers rotate in and out of various roles during the production’s run, including a Klara (Violet Kitchen) who performs in five of the 10 performances.

This year’s The Nutcracker from the team at Gregory Hancock Dance Theatre is sold out, but I would encourage you to be on the lookout for an opportunity to experience this imaginative, moving production that highlights compassion, strength, and community next holiday season performed by a troupe of talented artists.

DRUG

“They’re getting it in pill form, powder form, gummy form,” he said. “It’s really being manufactured by black market internet pharmacies.”

This is the first year the Indiana Department of Health has tested for bromazepam when someone dies of an overdose. Jellison said it typically shows up alongside other drugs in someone’s system.

“This drug is obviously very powerful, and people are buying it assuming it’s this drug, but oftentimes when we see these toxicology reports, you’ll see fenatanyl and other drugs associated with it simply because that’s what it’s being cut by,” he said.

Statistics from the Indiana Department of Health show that 64 overdose victims tested positive for bromazepam during the most recent reporting period.

It might seem like a small number, but Jellison said he is concerned this is only the tip of the iceberg.

“If you take these gummies, these powders, these pills from black market internet pharmacies, you run a very good risk of overdosing,” he said. “If you have a problem with this type of drug, please reach out and get some help.”

Night lights up with Noblesville parade

The people spoke out online and in our pages when Noblesville almost kept the COVID-era Christmas tours instead of a parade last year. They spoke out again when that parade was moved back to the traditional route, but it was not quite the kind of event they remembered. But lo! If the packed streets and happy faces on this page are any indication, the people are joyful and full of the Christmas spirit after the Holiday in Lights parade last Saturday made the town merry and bright. Merry Christmas, Noblesville.

Newer traditions

The holiday season approaches and with it comes the traditions. A wonderful expression to our past, traditions bring the young and old together over the simplest of things. Hopefully the Christmastime traditions you are used to are more akin to the likes of a Norman Rockwell painting rather than National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation.

As I watched the first dusting of snow on my way to work, I grew a bit more excited for the season of cheer. Usually, the sight of snow immediately reminds me of the slush, ice, and the bitter wind of the winter steadily creeping from the calendar. This time was different.

Every community has its own traditions. Many towns will put up a few ribbons and bows, toss up a few decorations on the street lights, and call it a day. These traditions have become more of a standard than something to bring a community together. Let me be clear – I always enjoy seeing the holiday lights that brighten the small-town main streets I find myself passing through. However, I'm also appreciative of the communities that aren't afraid of branching out into new ideas to grow the holiday spirit. I'm glad I found myself in a community that fits the bill.

For all you married readers out there, try to remember the first time you spent a holiday with your in-laws. A bit of an awkward experience,

I bet. You didn't know the traditions they had. Maybe your spouse or fiancé tried to warn you about what the expectations were. Maybe that warning wasn't as helpful you needed it to be. That exercise of the mind is a good reminder on how it feels being the newcomer to the traditions. It's always easier to stay with the traditions you grew up with. But eventually you have your own kids. You create your own holiday traditions. Your traditions become special to you.

So what am I really excited for this upcoming holiday season? To experience new holiday traditions with you.

I got to experience for the first time, along with the entirety of Hamilton County, the Noblesville Holiday in Lights Downtown Parade. (Finally! Something newer to Hamilton County than I am!) It was a nice parade with a great turnout! The bubbles from the fire engine seemed to be a hit. What made it most special to me was having a bit of time to slow down and have a fun conversation with my wife while we watched and sipped on the hot cocoa we brought from home.

I hope to enjoy this new tradition for years to come. So enjoy your traditions this holiday season, but don't be afraid to make some new ones! Have a very Merry Christmas, Hamilton County!

Holy mackerel! That’s a lot of Christmas!

Whatever iconic activity you think of as the beginning of the small-town American Christmas season, Arcadia probably had you covered on Saturday. Santa and Mrs. Claus greeted kids in a little wood elf-made house. [Editor’s note: in the 1970 Rankin/Bass claymation TV movie “Santa Claus is Comin’ to Town,” Mrs. Claus was identified with the name “Jessica.” Thank you to Reporter Columnist Megan Rathz for pointing this out to us after our last reference to Santa’s unnamed wife.] Trucks were stung with lights. Streets were danced in. Costumes were worn for the amusement and “aww that’s cute” factor. And a tree was lit. Oh yes, Arcadia lit the heck out of their tree surrounded by a proud crowd. Oh, and lest we forget, this was an all-volunteer event! (Photos provided by Town of Arcadia)

Riverview Health continues commitment to serve Cicero & northern Hamilton County

The REPORTER

Cicero Family Care, a primary care practice of Riverview Health, opened the doors to its new office space on Nov. 20. Now located at 1160 S. Peru St., the practice has expanded its patient capacity with nine exam rooms and a larger waiting room.

Riverview Health will hold an open house and ribbon cutting from 3 to 6 p.m. on Thursday, Dec. 7. The OneZone Chamber of Commerce will join for a ribbon cutting ceremony at 4 p.m.

Cicero Family Care has been a part of the northern Hamilton County community for decades. The practice was opened by Dr. Charles Harris on the north side of downtown Cicero. The office space was converted from Dr. Harris' home at the time and over the years has grown to respond to the community's healthcare needs.

When Dr. Harris retired in 2019, Dr. Jeremy Fisk, longtime physician with Riverview Health, stepped in to ensure care was continued for the Cicero community. Along with David Henry, physician assistant, the team at Cicero provides care for all ages. Dr. Megan Eaton will join the practice in January 2024.

“This new location for Cicero Family Care allows us to expand our services and be better able to provide timely, high-quality care in the community of Cicero,” Dr. Fisk said. “As the needs of the community change over time, we will have the flexibility to respond. I am looking forward to the opportunities that having this location will provide to continue to serve the people of Cicero and surrounding areas with exceptional care.”

CCHA Law welcomes Aaron Hernandez to Sports Law team

The REPORTER

Church Church Hittle + Antrim (CCHA Law) welcomes Aaron Hernandez, who will assist CCHA's Sports Law section with Title IX matters and NCAA compliance.

Hernandez will continue to serve in his role as Assistant Dean and Executive Director of the Allan “Bud” Selig Sports Law and Business Program with the Sandra Day O'Connor College of Law at Arizona State University.

Hernandez has been at ASU since 2019 and was named Assistant Dean and Executive Director in the summer of 2023. As the Executive Director, he supervises the Sports Law and Business (SLB) Program and ensures its continued success. Prior to joining Arizona State, he was an Associate Director of Football on the enforcement staff at the NCAA, where he specialized in stakeholder engagement in Division I (FBS). He also served as the primary liaison to the Big 12 Conference, American Athletic Conference, Under Armour, and the College Football Playoff for all football-related matters. He conducted numerous investigations of institutions that may have violated NCAA rules and focused on matters involving Division I college football while at the NCAA.

Hernandez is a 2013 graduate from Marquette University Law School in Milwaukee, Wis. He is licensed as an attorney only in Wisconsin.

“Aaron's experience in college sports and on a college campus is invaluable to our Collegiate Sports Law and Higher Ed practice groups,” Collegiate Sports Law Practice Group Chair

Kelleigh Fagan said. “More importantly, he's a great person, and we're excited for how he will support the continued growth of both of these practices.”

In light of his outstanding performance, renowned coaches across the country have expressed their admiration for Hernandez's dedication and skillset. Here's what they are saying:

“Aaron Hernandez is one of the people I count on in my professional and personal pursuits,” said Matt Rhule, head football coach at the University of Nebraska. “First, in his work at the NCAA and then with guidance when needed after, Aaron is intelligent, informative, and has built great relationships all across the country. I have always believed that having knowledgeable people I can trust is the best way to build an organization and I am grateful to count Aaron amongst those people I count on.”

From coast to coast, Hernandez has been praised for his remarkable athleticism and unwavering commitment to the sport.

“I have known Aaron Hernandez for a number of years while he worked for the Enforcement Department of the NCAA,” said Charlie Strong, football analyst at the University of Alabama. “He was responsible for supervising our school on rules and guidelines of the NCAA. He did an excellent job in this position and was an asset to our organization. I found him to be very motivated and dependable. He has the ability to take good advice and the ability to accept constructive criticism. A very hard worker who would add value to any organization.”

It comes as no surprise that coaches from prestigious institutions have been quick to acknowledge Hernandez's exceptional abilities.

“Aaron Hernandez is one of the finest attorneys, professors, and collegiate athletic administrators I have been associated with,” said Charlie Jackson, assistant head coach at the United States Air Force Academy. “He is whip-smart and his labor produces results at an elite level. I have witnessed firsthand his dedication to excellence in many organizational leadership capacities and know him to be an extremely well-rounded, passionate, and committed executive.”

Letter to the Editor

Reader says Reporter should pay better attention to details

Dear Editor:

As a former teacher who has left education to pursue other interests in recent years, it's becoming increasingly problematic for me to hear the confused interpretations of education shared in the public realm.

A column published on Wednesday, Nov. 29 in The Reporter was no exception.

In her column, Melba Kiser discussed highlights of the new Noblesville teachers contract with unique and uneducated opinions given on the New Dependent Leave clause. Since Ms. Kiser seems to have misinterpreted the contract, I thought it prudent to discuss it more in depth.

Teachers receive their sick leave at the start of the year. Noblesville awards 13 days the first year, according to the contract, and 10 thereafter. These days are labeled as “sick leave,” and include a separate delineation of paid time off (PTO). Hamilton Southeastern has a similar structure. There are restrictions on how many days of PTO a teacher can use, regardless of accrual, and there are restrictions as to where these days can be taken, such as in conjunction with other scheduled days off or holiday breaks. Each year, teachers accrue their number of days, even if they haven't used them all. The Noblesville contract states teachers can accrue up to 184 days.

The New Dependent Leave allows teachers to use up to 30 days of their accrued time to be with their new baby. The language reads: “a bargaining unit member may elect to use up to 30 sick days within a year of a child's birth or foster or adoptive placement ... the thirty day maximum applies regardless of the number of births or placements in a given year. If the bargaining unit member does not have accrued sick leave, PTO may be substituted ... New dependent leave runs concurrently with FMLA.”

In her column, Ms. Kiser stated that “this is a new addition to the teachers' contract and is over and above all other time out of school ... I believe that the 30-day policy may be ripe for misuse.” This statement is factually incorrect according to the Noblesville teachers contract language. This is not 30 “EXTRA” days to take – it is allowing teachers to use the sick or PTO time they have accrued with less restriction than usual.

As an example, if a teacher had 30 days saved up, and wanted to go on an Alaskan cruise all through March, they would not be able to do so. That would connect to spring break, first of all, and second of all, they would not be granted permission to use those days concurrently during the school year. However, a teacher who has a newborn at home, or a new foster placement, may need to take multiple days in a row during the first year. Teachers, like anyone, can have premature babies or babies with health problems. Additionally, there can be multiple issues that arise for mothers following birth, and Indiana does not have stellar maternal health statistics.

Perhaps Ms. Kiser needs to reflect more on raising children and how difficult it can be in the first year. How would supporting your new child or growing family be “ripe for misuse?”

As the parent of a child with complex medical issues, I had to take multiple days off while I was a teacher to prepare my child for procedures and to be with him while he recovered. Had my district enacted such a policy, I wouldn't have had to submit doctor's note after doctor's note and hope I would be approved to take four consecutive days while he was in the hospital or recovering at home. Any teacher in Noblesville or Indiana as a whole has a right to use their accrued sick time to support their new or growing family without judgment or manufactured confusion. How this could be “misused” is beyond me, but I do know this: we can't continue to pretend to be family-focused communities if we don't work to support families.

Kudos to the Noblesville School District for enacting a policy that allows for its teachers and their families to do whatever they need in their first year.

Going forward, I hope The Reporter and Ms. Kiser pay more attention to details and evidence before insinuating problems that do not actually exist.

Police: ‘No clear motive’ for deadly shooting of Noblesville man on I-65 in Indianapolis

By RICHARD ESSEX
WISH-TV | wishstv.com

Almost every single day, someone on the interstate in Marion County pulls out a gun and, almost once a week, someone pulls out a gun and pulls the trigger.

Just before 2 p.m. Sunday, a caller to 911 reported a man in a Nissan van was having a medical issue. Police arrived to find Luis Martinez, 52, Noblesville, slumped over the steering wheel in the driver’s seat. Martinez had been driving north on Interstate 65 when his van veered onto the shoulder and came to a stop on the West Street/

The Indiana Department of Transportation traffic camera caught the last half mile of his drive.

INDOT cameras cover nearly every mile of interstate within Marion County, but the video is not recorded or saved by the state.

Sgt. John Perrine of the Indiana State Police said Monday, “Right now we don’t have a clear motive. All we know is that there was a homicide, and a man lost his life on I-65.”

About the need for using the state’s cameras more effectively, he added, “We are still looking for optional technology that may be out there that would be of assistance to the investigations.”

I-Team 8 has reported extensively on interstate shootings. According to police, in the past two years, central Indiana has recorded an increase of more than 200 percent in interstate shootings.

In 2019, state police investigators, on average, had one case a month. Now, they have more than one a week.

The latest numbers from state police show 54 reported interstate shootings since Jan. 1, and another 213 incidents where someone displayed a gun but didn’t pull the trigger.

“For context, in 2018 and 2019, each of those two years, we only had nine interstate shootings, and the following year we had in the 20s, and then, in 2021, it shot up significantly,” Perrine said.

In 2022, 66 interstate shootings were recorded in Marion County.

Police have been alarmed at how easily drivers will pull a gun.

Investigators have asked that drivers on that section of I-65 about 1:45 p.m. Sunday who have dashcam video to contact the state police post in Indianapolis at 317-899-8577 or call Crime Stoppers of Central Indiana at (317) 262-8477.

Arts prove to be wise investment for Carmel

Dear Editor:

As President and CEO of the non-profit Center for the Performing Arts and the Great American Songbook Foundation in Carmel, I read with interest the letter to the editor submitted by local resident Bill Shaffer under the headline “Shaffer concludes Center for the Performing Arts has enough money.”

He questions the fundraising and the public support that enable us to continue serving the community with fine arts performances, popular entertainment, arts education opportunities, and free community events.

Mr. Shaffer has every right to express his thoughts about public spending, but when he repeatedly attacks the city’s investment in the arts, he leaves out a key fact: that investment is paying off handsomely for this community.

According to a national study by Americans for the Arts, nonprofit arts and cultural events in Carmel in 2022 supported the equivalent of 981 full-time jobs and generated $42.7 million in economic activity, $30.2 million in personal income, and $10 million in local, state, and federal tax revenue. The Center alone attracts more than 100,000 ticketed patrons each year, most of them from outside the city. With each event they attend, according to the study, those visitors spend an average of $36.43 at local shops, restaurants, and hotels.

The city built, owns, and pays to maintain the Center’s three-venue campus. To manage and operate the facilities, the city pays the Center an amount equivalent to just over 20 percent of our annual budget. The vast majority of our revenue comes from ticket sales, event rentals, individual donations and corporate partnerships. As part of our management duties and mission, the Center coordinates maintenance and security, books performers, conducts educational programming, provides rent-free rehearsal and performance space to six outstanding Resident Companies, provides the community with free events such as school matinees, public debates, military band performances, masterclasses, naturalization ceremonies, and much more.

Great cities have great amenities, including excellent schools, outstanding fire and police departments, well-maintained roads, beautiful parks and trails, and yes, arts and cultural offerings. Most of these amenities do not generate any direct income, but we know they attract new residents and businesses that enable the community to grow and thrive. The Center for the Performing Arts is a key attraction for the corporate headquarters and other investments that keep the City of Carmel’s property tax rate among the lowest in central Indiana.

In other words, Carmel’s investment in the arts is a proven success in terms of economic development and quality of life. All one needs to do is look at the big picture.

Submitted by Gutrich for Indiana

Republican Bill Gutrich has officially launched his campaign for Indiana State Representative in District 24. Gutrich is a corporate executive leader and small business owner with a profound commitment to his community.

Gutrich is driven by a vision to serve the 24th District as a representative who brings a business-focused, results-driven approach to public office. His extensive experience in corporate leadership equips him with the skills necessary to navigate complex legislative issues, drive economic growth, and promote a business-friendly environment in the district.

“As your state representative, I will first and foremost serve,” Gutrich said. “I have been fortunate to gain broad experiences and perspectives through my upbringing, career, and raising a family in Hamilton County, and I will work hard to accurately represent the true voice of Indiana’s fastest growing area. I will work to assure that we continue to be one of the best places in the country to live, raise a family, start a business, or build a career.”

Gutrich will focus his campaign on the themes of: Transparent and Responsible Government, Excellence in Education and Parent Empowerment, People-Centric District Representation, and Public Safety.

“I believe in a limited, fiscally responsible, and citizen responsive state government, applying smart budgeting principles to keep taxation low. The legislature should be truly empowered only by the people and working only for the people of Indiana,” Gutrich said.

Gutrich’s overarching goal is to be the voice of the people, not just a legislator making decisions on their behalf. He recognizes the importance of understanding the district’s needs. Gutrich’s vision aligns with the district’s values, emphasizing affordability, strong schools, and the preservation of great Midwest values.

“I believe deeply with humility, as Indiana House Representative for the 24th District, I will be entrusted to cast ‘our’ vote, not ‘my’ vote,” Gutrich said. “We have much to reflect proudly on in our communities that comprise the 24th District, yet so much more to do. I believe our future is incredibly bright. I will work with all my ability to assure Indiana’s 24th District remains the very best for future generations to come.”

With a strong business background in leading major partnerships for industry giants like Coca-Cola and Samsung, and extensive experience in agriculture – having served with Indiana-based industry leader Elanco, Gutrich is well-prepared to represent the 24th District.

Gutrich and his wife, Janet, moved to Hamilton County in 1996 to pursue their careers and raise their three children, Eric, Emily, and Alexander. He also plays an active role in his community as HOA President for the Woodshire Neighborhood in Westfield, and as a former board member of the Ronald McDonald House of Indiana.

Indiana State Representative District 24 includes Westfield, Sheridan, and portions of west Carmel and eastern Boone County.

“While I do not personally know the opponent, I know I will fight for the House District. I know I am the best choice for House District 24. My experience defending clients as a lawyer, foster dad, and committed community member has prepared me to advocate in this role.

“It’s time that we show the people of Indiana that someone is listening to them. I am running to give Hoosiers a voice in local government. Let’s ensure families control their household decisions. Let’s ensure Hoosiers have a great lifestyle for themselves and their families’ future. I know that when we work together, that is when we can bring Hoosier Hospitality back to the district.

ATI invites you to “Celebrate the Holidays” with actor & jazz vocalist Wayne Powers

The REPORTER

Actors Theatre of Indiana has announced that jazz vocalist and actor Wayne Powers will be a special guest for ATI's Celebrate the Holidays.

Powers promises two unforgettable performances as he and his jazz trio join ATI on Dec. 13 and 14 at the Studio Theatre in Carmel.

Known as one of the last of the real “Saloon Singers,” Powers is internationally acclaimed for his extensive work on stage, screen, recordings and his 20-year network TV career. “The Great American Songbook” is Powers’ playground. This, along with some Hollywood stories, laughs, surprises and a swingin’ 108th birthday tribute to Frank Sinatra will provide a generous helping of Christmas cheer.

Powers started out as a nightclub singer in New York at age 16. He performed across the country, finally landing in Hollywood where he worked for Henry Mancini. He launched his decades-long network television career after being discovered in a live improv comedy show with a then-unknown Robin Williams.

Williams went on to Mork & Mindy and movies, while Powers went on to Laverne & Shirley, Elvis and Me, One Day at a Time, Murder She Wrote, Simon & Simon, Full House, Alf, Doozie Howser, M.D., and many others, including starring for two seasons in his own popular NBC sitcom, 13 East. Equally at home on television, radio, theatre, club or concert stage, music is his first love. He has played top jazz rooms and jazz festivals, consistently drawing large, enthusiastic star-studded crowds.

The critics agree: “Get yourself to a Wayne Powers show. The guy is really terrific!” (L.A. Jazz Scene) “Powers invests deep emotion into standards ... bringing a mature understanding to lyrics that sound as if he has lived each one. Like the Jazz greats before him – Sinatra, Eckstine, Prysock, Hartman – Powers understands that great singers are equal parts poets and performers, technicians and thespians. As he’s proven over the course of a long career, he’s the complete package.” (JAZZIZ Magazine)

Don’t miss this chance to catch Powers at the Studio Theater at the Center for the Performing Arts on Dec. 13 and 14. Both shows will begin at 7:30 p.m. You can get your tickets at atistage.org or by calling The Center for the Performing Arts box office at (317) 843-3800.

Larry Eugene Kinkead June 1, 1940 – December 1, 2023

Larry Eugene Kinkead, 83, passed away at his home in rural Kirklin, Ind., surrounded by his loving family, on Friday morning, December 1, 2023. Born on June 1, 1940, in Lebanon, Ind., he was the son of the late Ray and Annabelle Marie (Snyder) Kinkead.

He graduated with the Sheridan High School Class of 1958.

Larry was a self-employed carpenter, who, with the right set of tools, could tackle just about anything. He was a hard-working jack-of-all-trades who never met a project he couldn't figure out. Many people who work with their hands always have a passion project, and for Larry, it was building houses. Building homes for both himself and his daughter was among his favorite accomplishments.

Larry enjoyed crossword and jigsaw puzzles and loved to play Bingo. He also enjoyed hunting, fishing, and camping whenever he had some free time. When he needed downtime, Larry had favorite TV programs. Watching Jeff Gordon race was always high on the list, as were Western movies, but afternoons were reserved for The Young and the Restless. He watched enough of his favorite soap that even his grandkids became avid fans.

There was nowhere Larry would rather be than at home with his family. He and Jannette considered themselves homebodies; that gave them plenty of time to spend with their growing family. Larry loved his grandkids and cherished every minute he was able to spend in their lives. He got a real kick out of teaching them to walk and talk ... putting their feet on his and walking them around the house over, and over, and over again, until they got the hang of it (or The Young and the Restless came on), then after some quality soap time with them, it was back to the lessons at hand.

His infectious smile was always guaranteed to brighten your day, and he will be deeply missed by everyone who had the privilege of knowing him.

Larry is survived by his daughter, Teresa Evans (Tracy) of Kirklin; stepdaughter, Judy Shields (Gary) of Throntown; stepson, Niles Cummins (Tammy) of Sheridan; eight grandchildren, Leana Marcum (Orry), Ashley Boyles (Cory), Jake Evans (Taylor Reed), Shawn Gunn, Ryan Gunn (Brandy), Rachelle Cummins, Josh Lintz (Erin), and Heather Lintz; 16 great-grandchildren, Parker, Paisley, Quinn, Quenton (on the way), Evan, Jamison, Lexie, Carter, Emma, Natalie, Austin, Keegan, Kobe, Kailie, Jordan, Whitney, and Dakota; two brothers, Rex Kinkead (Robert) of Lebanon, and Randy Kinkead (Marilyn) of Sheridan; sister, Marlene Burroughs (Ronald) of Sheridan; brother-in-law, Grover Cooper (Geneva); and many, many, many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Ray and Annabelle Marie (Snyder) Kinkead; brothers, Charles Kinkead, Kevin Kinkead, and Jerry "Smiley" Kinkead; sister, Marcia Ann Kinkead-Melvin-Duncan; father- and mother-in-law, Bee and Vicky (Haynes) Cooper; sisters-in-law, Beverly Irene "Bev" Kinkead and Shirley (Jennings) Kinkead; seven brothers-in-law, Kenny Duncan, Garland Cooper, Leander Cooper, George Cooper, Jimmy Cooper, Calvin Cooper, and Harold Cooper; and by his loving wife, Jannette (Cooper) Kinkead, on February 24, 2007. He and Jannette were married on August 26, 1966.

Services will be held at 2 p.m. on Thursday, December 7, 2023, at Kercheval Funeral Home, 306 E. 10th St., Sheridan, with visitation from noon until the time of service.

Burial will follow at Spencer Cemetery in Sheridan. Larry's nephew, Mark Kinkead, will be officiating.

Sheridan's Trent DeCraene scored 30 points for the Blackhawks during their Tuesday win over Faith Christian.

Blackhawks get their highest score in 10 years, have fun taking down Faith Christian

By RICHIE HALL
sports@readthereporter.com

SHERIDAN – Family and fun are the themes of this year's Sheridan boys basketball team.

The Blackhawks were definitely having fun Tuesday night at Larry Hobbs Hall. Sheridan put on an offensive show and played solid defense while beating Faith Christian 86-53.

It had been almost a decade since the 'Hawks scored that many points; the last time Sheridan had scored 86 points in a game was on Dec. 21, 2013.

The Eagles led 4-0 to start the game, but the Blackhawks skipped off on a 20-1 run to lead 20-5. Caleb Wright scored eight points, while Trent DeCraene threw in two 3s, which was a preview of things to come.

"I think the difference between this year and last year is, we're more connected," said DeCraene. "Our motto this year, throughout the summer ball and just throughout the season so far has been 'Family.' I feel like this team has been more of a family and sharing the ball and having fun."

Faith scored the last six points of the first quarter to cut the lead to 20-11. Sheridan began the second period with another big run, this one a 17-2 spurt. DeCraene poured in the first seven points of the quarter, then Damon Winston made back-to-back lay-ins to put the Blackhawks up by 20 points for the first time, at 31-11. A Tyler Garner putback made it 33-11.

Sheridan coach Bill Bowen called his defense "pretty good."

"We started man and this was okay," said Bowen. "Then we got into some foul trouble, so we were rather small, so we felt we had to go to zone and it was very effective." Bowen said once the Eagles began to handle the Blackhawks' zone better in the third quarter, they went back to man and finished the game with that.

The 'Hawks led 43-19 at halftime. Faith Christian
