Recreational, medicinal, or not at all?

Three out of four neighbors agree: marijuana is profitable

By STU CLAMPITT
news@readthereporter.com

After the November vote in Ohio, three of Indiana's four neighboring states now have legalized and decriminalized cannabis products for both recreational and medicinal use.

Last month, the state legislature formed an interim study committee and members met to discuss important topics relevant to the future of our state, including cannabis legalization. No recommendation was given from the committee to move forward on the topic.

Stash Ventures LLC is a cannabis company based in Michigan with corporate offices in Fishers. Stash reached out to The Reporter to discuss what could happen if Indiana lawmakers vote for legalization in the near future.

Chief Legal and Strategy Officer Katie Wiley told The Reporter the state of Michigan is receiving $3 billion in revenue 2023, with direct impact to the state around $300 million.

Stash has a store on the north side of the Indiana-Michigan state line that has recorded $2 million in revenue directly attributable to people with Indiana driver licenses.

"We have been very active in trying to progress legislation in the state of Indiana," Wiley said. "CEO Scott Moorehead and I have been actively advocating to bring a regulated market to the state of Indiana. We've worked with political leaders one on one. We've met with caucus leaders. I've participated in three rounds of testimony at the Statehouse over the past two years, both on interim study commissions and then in response to last year's decriminalization bill."

Wiley said Stash Ventures commissioned a research study on public opinion of legalized cannabis a few years ago, which Wiley said demonstrated full support within the state on both sides of the aisle. The support she reported has not translated into legalization in Indiana, however.

"We've done a lot of work behind the scenes to try to influence the 13 cannabis-related bills that have appeared in the General Assembly last session," Wiley said. "That was more than any in prior years, obviously. But our goal is really to further the conversation. Even if there is disagreement or discourse, having an open dialogue as to what the concerns are, we are absolutely open to that conversation."

According to Wiley, Democrats in both chambers are more active in lawmaking related to this issue.

Cannabis advocates not letting legislature snuff out their efforts

By ADAM PINSKER
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

It's highly unlikely Indiana lawmakers will consider legalizing marijuana when the next session begins in January.

Republican State Senator Kyle Walker said, "I continue to be supportive of cannabis legalization in Indiana, but will not be filing a bill this session. This is a significant policy discussion and will require more time than available during a short session."

Under the Agriculture Improvement Act of 2018, also known as the hemp bill, Hoosier entrepreneurs can sell CBD-based products since it is hemp-derived.

Scott Hughes opened the WildEye Cannabis Lounge in Fountain Square in 2021. Anyone who enters must be 21 and sign a waiver. Hughes' goal isn't to get people high, it's to educate them, and help those suffering from chronic illnesses.

"We had an 80-year-old grandmother do her first dab at the bar right here," Hughes said. "My parents even come in here for the wellness aspect of it, to get the CBG and CBD."

Hughes says he wants state lawmakers to fully decriminalize cannabis in Indiana, not just so it can be enjoyed recreationally.

"Because we need some sound rules to follow, and guidelines for everyone to participate by, we need appropriate age legislation," he said.

On Nov. 1, Keith Johnson of the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws (NORML) told the Interim Study Committee on Commerce and Economic Development that cannabis helped him recover from a terrible car accident.

"I finally said enough is enough," Johnson said.

Bring joy to your workplace in 2024

Most of us have heard of "The Great Resignation," the record number of people who left their jobs in 2020-2022 due to unhappiness in the workplace. An article in Forbes Magazine from Jan. 20, 2014, titled "8 Common Causes of Workplace Demotivation" states that most people can't say they truly love their jobs.

Studies show that 48 percent of employees worldwide don't even like their jobs, more than 80 percent of U.S. workers feel stressed at the office, and only 30 percent feel "engaged and inspired" by their careers. What should really bother leaders and business owners is that 18 percent are actively disengaged – they're present at work, but they hate every minute of it.

To examine some more depressing reality, let's do a little math. We've all heard the saying that people spend more waking hours at work than they do with their family. According to a survey conducted by Gallup in the summer of 2014, the new average for most full-time workers has risen to 46-47 hours per week. That basically means workers are only getting one true day off instead of the normal two days off.

But wait, what if you're one of the lucky ones whose full-time job is 40 hours a week? You still spend about 50 waking hours per week at work (factoring in the average half hour commute and one hour lunch break) vs. about 62 waking hours at home. That's just a little less than half of our waking lives spent at work.

So, to put it simply: a lot of us are unhappy campers in our workplaces and we're spending a big ol' chunk of our lives there. To prevent all of us from wanting to leap off the top of the nearest cliff or tallest building, let's examine how we can turn this picture around – and do it quickly.

The good news is that two of the biggest causes for the previously mentioned workplace demotivation are within our control – unpleasant co-workers and boredom. But wait, we can't really change other people, right? True, but we can make certain we're not one of those unpleasant co-workers.

And we can take easy steps to genuinely brighten everyone's workday, even the Mr. and Mrs. Grumpy Butts of the world. And these steps not only reduce boredom, but they also kick it to the curb!

Being positive and joyful isn't just a fluffy-cutesy-nice thing to do each day – it increases productivity and is super-important for any company or organization.

Fishers ranked No. 2 safest city in America

The REPORTER

Fishers has been named the second safest city in America for 2024 by MoneyGeek in its annual analysis of 302 U.S. cities with populations of 100,000 or more.

With a crime cost per capita of $296, Fishers is one of only two Midwest cities in the top eight. In its assessment of safest cities, MoneyGeek analyzed crime data from the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) and calculated each city's cost of crime, ranking cities based on the cost of crime per capita.

Earlier this year, Fishers was ranked No. 4 on the list of America's Safest Suburbs of 2023 from SmartAsset, with a violent crime rate lower than 84 percent of other suburbs in the study.

"This recognition demonstrates our commitment to strive for the highest standards of quality of life and safety in our community," Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness said. "As a regional leader in law enforcement, forcement agencies, community engagement initiatives, and use of smart technology. I'm incredibly proud of the work they have done for our community, from their role in developing the Indiana Gun Crimes Task Force to the work of our School Resource Officers in mentoring and keeping our kids safe."

"Fishers is at the top of this list because of the proactive work our officers do day in and day out to keep our city safe," Fishers Chief of Police Ed Gebhart said. "This continued success wouldn't be possible without the support we receive from our community. We will continue to hold true to our policing values of protecting and serving our city, securing the future of our children, and supporting our officers to continue to achieve the highest standards."

Three local golf professionals earn national awards from PGA

By ANTHONY CALHOUN
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

Three Indiana golf professionals are recipients of some of the most prestigious honors from the PGA of America.

Tony Pancake was named the 2024 PGA Golf Professional of the Year, the highest honor given by the organization every year.

According to the PGA website, the Golf Professional of the Year award goes annually to a club professional who displays outstanding "leadership, strong moral character, and a substantial record of service to the Association and the game of golf."

Pancake, the Head Golf Professional at Crooked Stick Golf Club in Carmel, was selected from over 29,000 golf professionals nationwide.

Mike David, the executive director of Indiana Golf, had glowing reviews of Pancake's work in central Indiana.

"Tony is the epitome of what a PGA Professional should be," David said. "He is involved in all aspects of the club, including tournaments, merchandising, giving lessons, running events, and general club operations. And he is able to do all of these things at a pretty demanding club. In addition, he finds time to give back to the game and the community. He is truly a leader in the golf industry and is tremendously deserving of this award."

Pancake was not the only golf professional from the state of Indiana recognized by the PGA this year.

Crystal Morse received the PGA Player Development Award, while Rob Koontz was named the PGA Merchandiser of the Year in the Resort category.

Morse is the Director of Junior Golf Development at the Legends Golf Club in Johnson County.

David had high praise for Morse's accomplish-

"Crystal is a forward thinker," David said. "She is willing to try new programs and understands that even though golf is riding a high right now, we need to continue to think about the next generation of players. She is 100 percent committed to introducing the game to new people and to making the game more enjoyable for those already playing."

Koontz is the PGA Head Professional at The Pete Dye Course at French Lick Resort in southern Indiana.

According to the PGA website, the Merchandiser of the Year award "recognizes PGA Professionals who excel in business and merchandising for the promotion of golf."

David loves the recognition that Koontz is getting on the national stage.

"I could not be happier for Rob," David said.

PROFIT

“The Republicans are coming a little bit slower, but they are doing a diligent job trying to get educated,” Wiley said. “I would say that leadership in both the House and the Senate have been adverse [sic] to any kind of conversation around policymaking for legalized cannabis.”

Wiley said the comment she makes most often to lawmakers is that cannabis is already here in the state of Indiana. It's just not regulated.

The particular type of regulation Stash is advocating for, however, would not include medicinal use.

“We've advocated to lawmakers to not go the medicinal first, then adult use route that other states have,” Wiley said. “The one benefit of coming later in the list of states to legalize this is we can learn from what other states have done. And so what we have proposed in our regulatory environment is to go with an adult use-only policy, but to do the standards of the adult use testing at the medical level.”

While Wiley did talk about the benefit to the millions of people who suffer from chronic pain, stress, anxiety, and PTSD who could be helped by cannabis products, the position she – and by extension Stash – is taking is that Indiana should not legalize for medicinal use first as other states did.

“Our job right in this policymaking phase, or after it's legal in the business phase, is to make sure that we're keeping people safe so that it is tested, that it is free of chemical and microorganisms and all of the other things that our local drug dealers frankly don't have to comply with,” Wiley said. “We want responsible legislation that does have a conversation around safety. It does have a conversation around how and who can get their hands on it. We want to protect teens and children and would approve of a regulatory landscape that navigates advertising, tamper-free products, and all of those things. But none of that can happen until it's regulated.”

The Reporter had to press a bit for clarity on this point.

If marijuana becomes legal and regulated in Indiana, but it is regulated for adult use and the law does not also contain a medicinal component, then the people who would derive health benefits from it will be forced to pay out-of-pocket rather than having insurance help.

“You're right,” Wiley said. “This wouldn't be an insured product. I suppose that is something that they could deal with in the regulation if that is something that they wanted to provide.”

If marijuana is legalized under the terms that Stash advocates for, then Hoosiers who need it for medical reasons would have to pay out-of-pocket for it.

EFFORTS

“They maxed me out on morphine and pain management therapy, and I stopped all that and picked up cannabinoids.”

NORML is encouraging Hoosiers who want cannabis legalized to write their lawmakers, since unlike other states, marijuana can't be legalized via ballot referendum.

“I really do believe that 50-state legality is inevitable,” Johnson said. “It's just how long are we going to wait? How many more excuses are we going to have to come up with?”

A spokesperson for the Indiana Chamber of Commerce told the study committee the chamber opposes the legalization of marijuana for recreational or medicinal use until its efficacy and safety have been proven through clinical trials.

AWARDS

“He is a soft-spoken guy who simply goes about his business of providing great service to guests who come to French Lick. For a PGA Professional at a resort tucked away in southern Indiana, this is a tremendous achievement.”

Pancake, Morse, and Koontz are the first national winners from Indiana since Chip Essig won PGA Professional of the Year in 2011.

Indiana had three national winners in the last 33 years before this year.

The awards will be presented to the trio at the PGA of America Annual Meeting on Nov. 5, 2024.

Gallup research has shown for years that strong work friendships boost employee satisfaction by 50 percent and people with a best friend at work are seven times more likely to engage fully in their tasks.

We don't have to have our “best buds in the world” at work, but we do need to be able to relax around our colleagues and enjoy their company.

Forbes also states in a more hopeful March 6, 2017, article “Millennials, Here's Why You're Dissatisfied at Work” that studies show a clear link between strong employee ties and a business's overall output.

As team bonds strengthen, productivity and sales increase – 31 to 37 percent on average, according to the Harvard Business Review. This magazine also revealed in a January 2012 article that research proves when people work with a positive mindset, performance on nearly every level – productivity, creativity, engagement – improves.

Most people think that happiness is something we arrive at versus create within ourselves. But Folks, it's up to us to change to a more joyful mindset – and to spread that joy to others, whether we're at an entry level, middle, or top position in a company or organization. We can make a huge difference by doing quick, simple stuff each day to improve our workplaces.

I look forward to sharing more with you in 2024! Happy Holidays to all my readers.

Instead of candy bars, these vending machines can give out baby goats as gifts

By HERNAN GUTIERREZ
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

A new way to spread holiday cheer by using a vending machine has come to central Indiana.

The Light the World Giving Machine initiative allows users to give to at two locations, Clay Terrace mall in Carmel, or Newfields art and nature museum in Indianapolis.

Co-chair Paul Sinclair says it's been a great first season for these machines in the area.

It is "a remarkable experience for everybody here," Sinclair said. "We have as many as a couple hundred vaccines that we've given to children, for example, and hundreds of meals to lots of people around Central Indiana."

It's as easy as buying a candy bar, with options to donate to local charities including Gleaners Food Bank of Indiana or international organizations such as the Red Cross.

The initiative is sponsored by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints and has been operating since Black Friday.

Instead of candy bars, these vending machines dispense cardboard pictures of items such as sports equipment for the Boys & Girls Clubs of Indianapolis or a baby goat for the nonprofit Mentors International.

There are seven charities to choose from, with donations ranging from $3 to $300.

Rich Schroering and his family planned to donate at the machine in Carmel on Christmas Day. He says it's always been a family tradition to either volunteer or donate during the holidays, and these machines make it easy.

"I feel like the whole world has something inside them, deep inside them, that makes them want to care about others," Schroering said. "Sometimes that goes awry, of course, but I think for the most part people want to see others being well off and taken care of."

Since 2017, the machines have generated more than $21 million in donations.

This year, Light the World has these machines in 61 locations across the globe. Sinclair added, "When we only have 60 in the world, it's remarkable because it gives us a sense of the giving spirit that Hoosiers have."

Three machines are in central Indiana: two at Newfields and one at Clay Terrace. They will be open for donations through Jan. 7.

4,000 Hoosiers donate with The Giving Machines

Submitted

More than 4,000 Hoosiers have flocked to the Light The World Giving Machines at Clay Terrace and Newfields this holiday season to donate to local and global charities.

The popular "vending machine" style donation experience opened in Indianapolis and Carmel just after Thanksgiving. Indiana is one of 61 locations worldwide chosen to host Giving Machines.

"We know many Hoosiers want to donate over the holidays, but don't always know where to turn," said Light The World Giving Machine Indy Co-Chair Paul Sinclair. "It's been remarkable to see how many people have discovered the Giving Machine and brought their families and friends. We're inspired to see 'Hoosier Hospitality' translating into

'Hoosier Generosity.'"

Here's a look at just some of the donation totals as of Dec. 20:

- Hoosiers have donated more than 50,000 eggs through Gleaners.
- Flanner House can feed 350 people a healthy, nutritious meal thanks to Giving Machine donors.
- So far, almost 200 winter clothing bundles and 200 sports items have been donated to children at the Boys and Girls Clubs of Indianapolis.
- Hoosiers are sending 360 baby goats to people in developing countries to start a small business through Mentors International.
- 350 bags of high-quality seeds have been purchased and donated through iDE.

These are just a few of the examples of how the Giving Machine allows people to truly "love your neighbor."

About the Giving Machine

The Giving Machine is sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and provides an instant act of kindness and service for people looking to help those in their Indiana communities and around the world.

Visitors can make donations by purchasing items ranging in price from $3 to $300, and 100 percent of your donation goes to the charity cause of your choice. Items include clothing, hygiene items, meals, school supplies, life-saving medicine, even livestock. For example, you can swipe your card for $55 and purchase a baby goat that will be delivered to a farmer in Africa who in turn can produce milk, cheese, and more goats.

Donations can also be made at GivingMachine.org for those not able to use the machines in person. The machines will remain in place through Jan. 7, 2024.

Submissions open for Missing Children's Day Poster Contest

The REPORTER

The Indiana State Police (ISP) will proudly partner once again in 2024 with the U.S. Department of Justice in promoting the National Missing Children's Day Poster Contest.

In 1983, President Ronald Reagan proclaimed May 25 as National Missing Children's Day. This day is dedicated to encouraging parents, guardians, caregivers, and all concerned individuals with the well-being of children to make child safety a priority. It serves as a reminder to continue efforts to reunite missing children with their families and loved ones. It also serves as an occasion to honor those who are dedicated to this very noble cause.

The National Missing Children's Poster Contest

provides an opportunity for schools, law enforcement, and parents/guardians to discuss and promote child safety.

The state winner will receive a national award certificate from the U.S. Department of Justice and their poster will be selected to go to the national judging competition. Orville Gilbert Snow Jr.

September 3, 1953 – December 26, 2023

Orville Gilbert Snow Jr., or Butch as he was known to his family and friends, passed away on Tuesday, December 26, 2023, at IU Health University Hospital in Indianapolis following a short illness. He was the first child born to Orville Sr. and Alma (Benge) Snow in Noblesville on September 3, 1953.

Butch graduated from Hamilton Southeastern, and at 17 years old in June of 1971 he joined the United States Army, proudly serving with the 82nd Airborne Division and holding the rank of Sargent. (AATW!) Not long after, he married the love of his life, Nancy Anne Statzer, and they moved to Germany while he served his country. After coming home, he went to work as a machinist and eventually retired from Rolls Royce/GM.

As his three kids came along, he enjoyed coaching their softball and baseball teams, and was also a boy scout leader. Butch was a history buff and a big Civil War enthusiast. He loved traveling all over the U.S., camping and taking great pictures along the way.

Butch loved sports, always rooting for the Hoosiers, the Reds, and the Colts, but his bigger love was music. Dylan, Fogerty, Prince, Mellencamp, Petty, Stones, Joplin, Young – he loved them all, and most likely got to see them all in concert too!

Butch leaves behind his son, Kevin Lee; daughters, Hannah (Kevin) Stoops and Haley (Christopher) Snow; significant other, Marcia McCord and her grandson, Brandon (his special buddy); sisters, Sharon Carter, Amy (Bruce) Thompson, Melissa (Steven) Keller, and Angela (Norman) Snow; along with several nieces and nephews.

In addition to his parents, he was preceded in death by his wife, Nance Anne Snow; brother, Kevin Lee Snow; brothers-in-law, Bobby and Mick Statzer; and great-nephew, baby Dwight Carter.

Viewing will be held at Randall & Roberts Funeral Home, 1150 Logan St., Noblesville, from 5 to 7 p.m. on Tuesday, January 2, 2024. Services will be held at noon on Wednesday, January 3 at Cyntheanne Christian Church, 13151 Cyntheanne Road, Fishers, with viewing beginning at 11 a.m. prior to services. Burial will be at Oaklawn Memorial Gardens in Indianapolis.

On March 11, Butch climbed the 49 floors of the Sales Force Town (formerly Chase) in Indianapolis for the Fight For Air Climb in memory of his wife, Nancy. In honor of that, memorial contributions can be made to the American Lung Association (lung.org), or the Gettysburg Battlefield Preservation Association (gbpa.org).

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

When Rachel saw that she was not bearing Jacob any children, she became jealous of her sister. So she said to Jacob, "Give me children, or I'll die!"

Jacob became angry with her and said, "Am I in the place of God, who has kept you from having children?"

Then she said, "Here is Bilhah, my servant. Sleep with her so that she can bear children for me and I too can build a family through her."

So she gave him her servant Bilhah as a wife. Jacob slept with her; and she became pregnant and bore him a son. Then Rachel said, "God has vindicated me; he has listened to my plea and given me a son." Because of this she named him Dan.

Millers give primer on winning at their first holiday tournament

By RICHIE HALL
sports@readthereporter.com

NOBLESVILLE – The Noblesville girls basketball team hosted its inaugural holiday tournament on Thursday, and the Millers wanted to be the first-ever winners.

Noblesville did just that, beating two good teams to claim the championship. The Millers beat Valparaiso 65-56 in their first game, then held off a tough, persistent effort from Class 4A No. 4 Fort Wayne Snider 57-51 in the championship contest.

"We were excited," said senior Reagan Wilson. "First time ever hosting the tournament and we knew we couldn't host the first one and not win it."

Noblesville only trailed for a few seconds of the championship. The Panthers scored the first basket of the game before C.C. Quigley and Wilson made jump shots to lead 4-2. A putback from Snider's Jordyn Poole tied the game, but Wilson nailed back-to-back 3-pointers and the Millers never trailed again.

Wilson scored 12 points in the first quarter, a big part of Noblesville leading 18-9 at the end of the period. She then hit another 3 to open the second quarter, giving the Millers their largest lead of the game at 21-9.

"Recently in practice we've just been harping on playing with confidence," said Wilson. The Iowa State commit also said that the Noblesville teammates trusting each other was also important.

That trust came into play as Snider ramped up its pressure during the second half. The Millers led 30-23 at halftime, then both teams scored 12 points in the third quarter. Meredith Tippner scored eight points in that quarter. The Panthers went on a 9-0 run to cut the lead to 34-31 at one point, but sophomore Ally Hutchinson stopped it with two free throws.

"I thought Ally Hutchinson made some huge plays for us," said Millers coach Donna Buckley. "Obviously, Reagan and Tipp did their thing and were awesome."

Buckley was happy to see the younger players step up, noting that some of them were inexperienced coming into the season. But now it seems they are finding their way, and getting increased responsibility, especially since the team's third-leading scorer, Ava Shoemaker, is currently out with an injury.

"It's fun to see all of it come together," said Buckley. "Even without Ava, not having her for four games has been a challenge, but to go out and do the things we did without her has been good. I'm looking forward to getting her back."

Snider continued to press in the fourth period, but Noblesville used bold and precise passing in that quarter to run down the clock and stay ahead. A lay-in by Tia Phenizy got the Panthers within 50-46, but Tippner answered that with a jumper. Wilson stepped up from the free-throw line during the game's final minute, making all four attempts, and helped out on defense with a steal.

Wilson finished the game with 30 points, while Tippner scored 18 points. Quigley collected 10 rebounds and Tippner pulled nine. Tippner also dished out five assists and Quigley blocked two shots.

In the morning game, Noblesville led Valparaiso 15-6 after one quarter, and kept its lead around that margin for the remaining three quarters. Wilson totaled 29 points, with Tippner getting a double-double of 20 points and 12 rebounds, in addition to six assists and five steals. Quigley blocked two shots.

The Millers are 9-7 and play Saturday, Jan. 6 at Cathedral.

Sheridan places second in Alexandria Tournament

The REPORTER

The Sheridan girls basketball team finished second at the Alexandria Tournament on Thursday.

The Blackhawks won their semifinal game over Beech Grove 56-40. Sheridan led 14-8 after one quarter, then dominated the second period to take a 32-14 halftime lead. The Hornets cut into that advantage during the third quarter, but the 'Hawks led 42-30 going into the fourth and held on from there.

Kenzie Garner played an outstanding game, reaching double-double status with 26 points, 10 rebounds, five steals and four assists. Cecilia Timme added 16 points; both Cecilia Timme and Sadie Timme collected seven rebounds each.

Sheridan fell to the host Tigers 54-37 in the championship. Alexandria is ranked No. 7 in Class 2A, but the 'Hawks gave them a battle, coming back from a 16-13 deficit in the first quarter to lead 28-27 at halftime. Kenzie Garner had eight points in the second period. But the Tigers' defense took over after that, allowing Sheridan just nine points in the second half.

Kenzie Garner had 14 points and nine rebounds, followed by six rebounds for Cecilia Timme.

Sheridan is 11-3 and plays Tuesday at Crawfordsville.

HSE gets tournament trophy
after double-overtime nailbiter

The REPORTER

There's no basketball team in the state of Indiana that worked harder to win a holiday tournament this week than Hamilton Southeastern's boys team.

The Royals played four games in two days to claim the Homestead Tournament, which finished up on Thursday. Actually, Southeastern played a little more than two games, as it needed double overtime to win a 57-56 championship over Munster.

"It was a battle, that's for sure," said HSE coach John Ashworth.

In a game that featured 16 lead changes and nine ties, the Royals and the Mustangs were even at 43-43 at the end of regulation. Both teams scored seven points in the first overtime.

Southeastern trailed by one point in the second OT, but got a steal. Braeden Totten was fouled, went to the free-throw line and made two free throws. Seconds later, Totten's blocked shot with three seconds left secured the win.

"We had some guys really step up," said Ashworth.

The coach had praise for Michael Griffith, who reached double-double status with 14 points and 10 rebounds.

"Michael Griffith had an excellent tournament," said Ashworth. "He does a little bit of everything."

So does Donovan Hamilton, who scored 19 points, grabbed seven rebounds and made two blocks. Ashworth said Hamilton was great in all three phases of the game, as he scored, "rebounded exceptionally well and did a good job on the defensive end, getting deflections and steals."

Totten finished with 12 points. Nate Orr and Kam Anthony both had five rebounds, with Orr dishing out five assists.

The Royals beat the tournament host Homestead 48-38 to finish pool play earlier in the day. Southeastern led 28-14 at halftime, which allowed the Royals to weather a third-quarter run by the Spartans.

"They're always a tough opponent that's going to play a lower tempo," said Ashworth. "You have to be ready to grind those games out and I thought our kids did a great job of finding a way to win close games. Winning at Homestead is always difficult, so it was a good win for us to have to knuckle down and play a closer game and a tougher game."

Hamilton had 17 points, eight rebounds and five assists, with Totten adding 16 points.

The Royals are 7-3 and
