

I LOVE — KNOWLEDGE —

I am grateful for my job and students. I teach at Saint Matthew Catholic School in Indianapolis. I have been there for 14 years. My job came into my life at a time when I really needed a sense of belonging and that is exactly what it has always afforded me. I've been embraced by the community of Saint Matthew and am grateful for that. I began my job as a kid and since starting there. I met my husband, had two children, and met my best friends.

I am grateful that I work in an environment where we freely speak of Christ. Some days are easier than others, but I love my job and keep showing up because I really love the kids and feel like it's where I belong.

The more purposeful we are with intentionally and labeling our gratitude, the more our mindset changes and our outlook shifts towards positivity. There is simply too much that I am grateful for to list in one column, so tune in next time to see what else I am thankful for. In the meantime, take a minute to reflect on what makes you grateful.

Megan Rathz is a wife, mother, and teacher. She says everything she has ever learned in life came from her Master Gardener mother.

"The mere presence of books profoundly impacts a child's academic achievement," explained Dr. Derek Arrowood, Superintendent of the Hamilton Heights School District. "Regardless of how many books a family already has, each addition to a home library and books young readers can call their own, helps the children get a little further in school. When it comes to the role of books and reading in increasing achievement, the facts are indisputable. The Kiwanis Club of Cicero's program will help us get books into the hands of our younger students, helping to build the foundation of academic achievement."

How important are time and engagement with books? Research shows that the difference they make is nothing short of miraculous. Engaged readers spend 500 percent more time reading than do their peers who aren't hooked on books. All those extra hours inside books they love gives them a leg up in everything that leads to a happy, productive life. A deep conceptual understanding of a wide range of topics, expanded vocabulary, strategic reading ability, critical literacy skills, and engagement with the world that's more likely to make them dynamic citizens drawn into full civic participation.

Sharing books, talking about them, and reading them aloud is the greatest precursor of success for children in all areas, especially reading. Again and again, it's found that the most important indicator of students' success in school and beyond is captured in the simple question: do they read?

Nowhere is access to books and the intellectual benefits they hold more evident, than in the phenomenon known as the "summer slide" or "summer setback." Research by Richard Allington and Anne McGill-Franzen in 2009 showed a decline in reading skills through the months when students have no access to school or books to read. Summer reading loss accounts for at least 80 percent of the reading gap by ninth grade, according to their research.

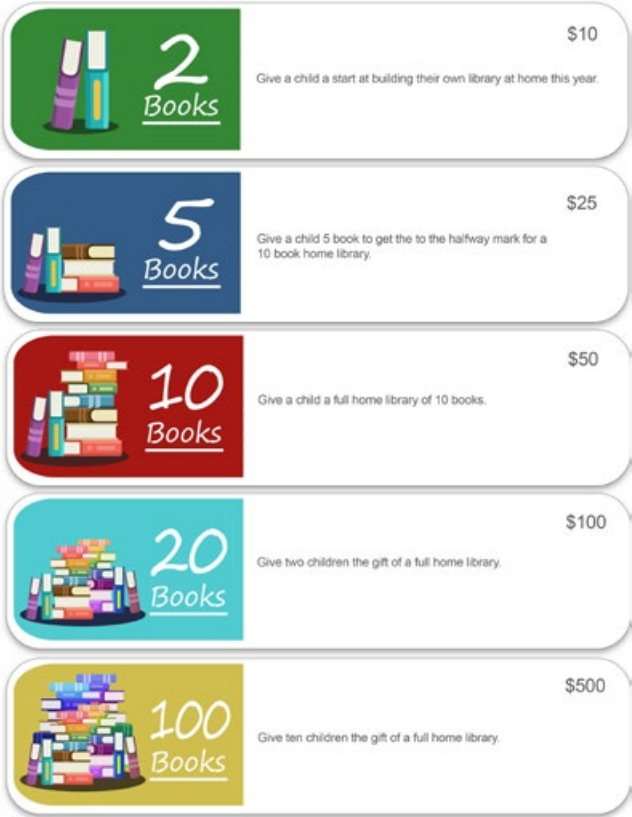

"I read somewhere, Johns Hopkins research maybe, that children who receive and read free books over the summer experience the equivalent of attending three years of summer school, and the difference in fall reading scores is twice as high," Clevenger said. "This obviously is a fact not lost on the Heights School District as they instituted a summer bookmobile program providing access to books for students throughout the months of summer break. The Books For a Bright Future program will also provide free books for every student, regardless of grade level, that visits the bookmobile throughout the summer."

"The negative consequences of lack of access to books are devastating for individual students, but in reality, their collective setbacks affect us all, often leading to higher dropout rates, lost earnings and tax revenues, increased need for public assistance, and so forth," Dr. Arrowood said. "We need to find ways to get books into our younger students' hands and into their homes, because it's the right thing to do. The Cicero Kiwanis' Books For a Bright Future program is exactly the type of initiative to make that happen."

The Kiwanis Club of Cicero's goal is to raise $10,000 to jump start this program and begin providing books at the May Elementary School bookfair.

"We are well on our way to our financial goal of $10,000 in part due to a generous grant award from the Kiwanis Children fund of $4,000, as they truly believe in the mission of the program," Clevenger said. "But we are looking for additional funding and more permanent funding to sustain the program long-term."

Graphic provided

The Kiwanis Club of Cicero is looking for community partners such as church groups, business groups, other service organizations, local businesses, and individuals to help sponsor and fund the Books For a Bright Future program moving forward. To contribute to the program, you can go to cicerokiwanis.org scroll down and click on the Books For a Bright Future photo halfway down the page and make a secure online donation.

"Every dollar raised will undoubtedly have a lasting impact on the lives of the young students we aim to serve," Clevenger said. "Together, we can empower these children to unlock their full potential and create a brighter future for our community."

People then look at this art so much differently after seeing the life of Dalí and this artwork come alive. Like the elephants with long legs – that's one of our paintings. When you look at it, it's like, 'Oh, I just saw that in there!' You go into THE LUME and 'wow, this is great technology.' By the time that you're in that last gallery, we've tricked you into becoming an art lover."

Celebrating progress of all women across this country during Women’s History Month

Dear Editor:

As we celebrate Women’s History Month in March, I encourage readers to reflect on not only those women who we know have been trailblazers, leaders, legislators, and authors, but others who have also made their mark in society and the history of our nation.

Let’s include along with Florence Nightingale and Betsy Ross some others: Sarah Bradley Fulton, a field nurse during the Battle of Bunker Hill; Margaret Fuller, an early women’s rights activist; Lydia Taft, a woman who voted in 1756; Susan B. Anthony; Sojourner Truth – and the list goes on.

The commemoration began in 1978 as “Women’s History Week” in Sonoma County, Calif. In February 1980, President Jimmy Carter issued a presidential proclamation declaring the week of March 8, 1980, as National Women’s History Week. In 1981, Senator Orrin Hatch (R-Utah) and Rep. Barbara Mikulski (D-Md.) co-sponsored the first join Congressional Resolution proclaiming a Women’s History Week. In 1987, Congress passed Pub.L.100-9 designating the month of March as Women’s History Month.

As we remember and celebrate not only the famous women noted above, let’s give pause to consider how far women have progressed in the past 100 years. It was just over 100 years ago that we achieved the right to vote. Along the way, we have fought for equal rights in employment, legal matters and property rights, and advocacy in health care issues. (Keep in mind that cardiac symptoms are the No. 1 cause of death for women.)

If you wish to know more about what those women in your life have endured, overcome, enjoyed, and experienced ... talk to them! If your mother or grandmother is living, ask her to share her journey with you or another family member’s journey. Those women who went to work in the factories when so many men were deployed during WWII have a very special story to tell of their experiences. Sadly, most are gone now, but if you have access to those stories, I encourage you to pass them along in your family legacy.

Finally, Hoosiers ... isn’t it time the State of Indiana elected a female senator or governor?

Actors Theatre of Indiana welcomes new executive director

The REPORTER

Actors Theatre of Indiana (ATI) welcomes Brian E Frost to the ATI family. Frost took over as Executive Director following the retirement of James A. Reilly. Reilly retired in December after more than 12 years with ATI.

Frost has been involved with ATI for several years, first as a fan and supporter, then as a member of the ATI Board. He served on the board for two years, the last six months as the Treasurer. He said he feels his background served him well in the role of treasurer and now as Executive Director of ATI.

“I was on the board for two years, but wondered, ‘What is my niche’?,” he said. “I really had no artistic talent and no musical talent. When they asked for a volunteer for treasurer, I knew I had found that niche!”

Frost grew up in Plattsburgh, N.Y., and received a Bachelor of Arts from Union College in Schenectady, N.Y., in 1972 with a major in Economics. He then came to Indiana University School of Business in Bloomington to get his MBA in 1977.

From 1982 to 1992, Frost worked as an Investment Advisor for Robert W. Baird & Co. and Prudential Securities, and from 1992 to 2017 he worked to provide investment advice to individual and small business clients of Fifth Third Bank.

Since 2017, Frost has been a Realtor/Associate Broker with his wife, Julianne Deely, in her real estate business, Berkshire Hathaway HomeServices.

Frost had not planned to become Executive Director of ATI. Upon Reilly’s retirement, Frost was filling in until a replacement was found.

“Judy Fitzgerald (Artistic Director/Co-founder of ATI) and Darrin Murrell (Associate Artistic Director) asked me ‘Why don’t you do it?’” Frost said. “Once I realized they were enthusiastic about me in this position, that convinced me.”

Frost said he is excited about what is coming for ATI. He is looking forward to the time leading up to ATI’s next production, Forbidden Broadway, which will be performed at The Studio Theater at the Center for the Performing Arts in Carmel from April 26 to May 12. He is also excited as ATI prepares for the return of a four-program season.

“One of my jobs is to provide leadership. I want to continue moving things in the right direction,” Frost said. He is doing what he can to share information about ATI – including programming and fundraising.

“I take brochures with me to share with people I meet,” Frost said. “I have shared them with my fellow tennis players. So far, I’ve had some very positive responses as I try to get people involved with ATI.”

Frost’s interests outside of work will also combine to strengthen his leadership with ATI. He served on the board of Very Special Arts of Indiana in the late 1990s and was elected as President of VSA in 1999. He is an avid tennis player and has a membership with Indianapolis Racquet Club.

Near black-box theater seems ideal setting for Violet to shine

By VERONIQUE DUPREY
A Seat on the Aisle

I had the pleasure of attending opening night of Violet, the Musical at the Switch Theater in Fishers, presented by Carmel Community Players. This gentle musical reminded me of Spitfire Grill in its focus on the story, and in tone, musical style, and absence of big dance numbers (or dance numbers at all, unless you count the hand-raising from the high-praisin’ gospel choir as dancing).

Inspired by the short story The Ugliest Pilgrim by Doris Betts, the award-winning Violet takes us on the journey of Violet, who was accidentally disfigured by an axe in her youth and now (in 1964) travels across the South in hopes of being healed and made beautiful by a TV evangelist. On the way, she meets a pair of soldiers and manages to heal from deeper, hidden scars. It is a story of yearning, of faith (perhaps misplaced), of redemption, and of seeing others more than skin-deep.

The almost black-box set is enhanced by projections and the smart use of minimal set pieces and works well to move us from one location to another. Kudos to the production staff, too numerous to mention, for well-designed and well-executed time-appropriate costumes and hair, props, and sound and lighting.

Music by Jeanine Toseri ranges from American folk to gospel, with a little Memphis blues. Sarah Marone-Sowers truly shines in the title role, with rich vocals and a wide range of emotions. Notwithstanding a little vocal fatigue on opening night, Onis Dean is excellent as the African American soldier Flick, who also longs to be seen past his appearance, and his duets with Marone-Sowers are delightful. Dominic Piedmonte as the self-assured Monty provides the third point of the love triangle in a well-balanced performance.

Other performers of note include Darrin Gowan as Father and Kenzi Stewart as Young Violet in touching flashbacks and intertwined visions, Scott A. Fleshwood as a spot-on Joel Olsteen-type character, and Christine Sanserino who makes the most out of her stage time.

I personally love gospel choirs and thoroughly enjoyed those numbers, even as I was aware we were supposed to think they were disingenuous. As a woman of faith, I was glad that the musical managed to poke fun at flashy televangelism without disparaging faith entirely. Miracles do come in a myriad of ways, and the healing we may be blessed with is often not the one we thought we needed.

Bottom line: No doubt guided by able direction by Kathleen Clarke Horrigan, the actors manage to tell this story – which has difficult elements of racism, casual sex, and resentment – with some humor and moving authenticity, plus soaring voices to transport us through the journey. Highly recommended!

Noblesville man dies in hit-and-run accident

The REPORTER

At approximately 2:57 a.m. Sunday, officers from the Noblesville Police Department (NPD) responded to the intersection of Cicero Road (State Road 19) and Field Drive in Noblesville regarding a report of a motor vehicle crash involving a pedestrian.

Officers arrived on the scene a short time later and located an adult male lying in the middle of Cicero

Road just south of the Field Drive intersection. Officers immediately assessed the man's condition subject but quickly concluded that he was deceased.

Hamilton County Coroner Jeff Jellison has identified the deceased as John Finch, 52, Noblesville. The cause of the accident is under investigation and the official cause and manner of death are pending autopsy and toxicology results.

Based on his injuries and a large amount of glass in the area, it appears the subject was struck by a vehicle that eventually fled the scene.

Officers from the Hamilton County Sheriff's Office and Cicero Police Department assisted NPD in searching the area for the suspect vehicle.

The NPD Crash Reconstruction Unit was summoned to the scene to investigate the crash and to collect evidence.

Northbound and southbound traffic on Cicero Road from Forest Park Drive to Field Drive was closed during the crash investigation and reopened in both directions at 7:12 a.m.

The crash is still under investigation. Anyone with information regarding this crash is urged to contact Detective Joseph Jerrell at jjerrell@noblesville.in.gov or (317) 776-6371.

Two Hamilton County natives awarded Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarships

The REPORTER

Bryn Edwards and Tierra Williams, Hamilton County natives and Honors College students at Ball State University, have been awarded Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarships to support their study abroad endeavors.

This federally-funded, nationally competitive program provides up to $5,000 to U.S. undergraduate students pursuing academic studies abroad to better prepare them to assume significant roles in an increasingly global economy and interdependent world.

Additional support is available to selected students who will study Critical Need Languages or conduct STEM research while abroad.

Edwards, a junior from Carmel, will study at Johannes Gutenberg University in Germany from April to July 2024. With majors in German and Psychology and a minor in Counseling, she intends to pursue a career as a therapist.

"Through studying abroad, there are opportunities to learn about other cultures, which is very important in counseling, as every individual is different and has different experiences," Edwards said.

Williams, a sophomore from Fishers, is participating in a winter break trip to Greece. She has a major in Computer Science, with concentrations in Data Analytics & Machine Learning and Cybersecurity & Secure Software Design.

Williams

Having studied Greek culture in many history courses, Williams said, "I want to try authentic Greek foods, shop at popular markets, and see how life in Greece is different from life in America and from my preconceptions of how life in Greece should be."

Upon their return to the U.S., recipients of the Benjamin A. Gilman International Scholarship are required to carry out a follow-on service project that helps promote international education and understanding.

For her follow-on service project, Edwards intends to give presentations

AG Todd Rokita co-leads 27 states to victory, SCOTUS finds Trump eligible to appear on ballot

The REPORTER

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita co-led the charge in support of former President Donald Trump's right to appear on the Colorado ballot, and on Monday, the U.S. Supreme Court unanimously agreed.

"I predicted this unanimous decision since the beginning," AG Rokita said. "This was a clear attempt to disenfranchise and dilute the voices of millions of voters who benefited from former President Donald Trump's time as Commander in Chief."

The U.S. Supreme Court opinion embraced the central argument put forward in two amicus briefs — one with 25 states, another with 27 states — led by Indiana and West Virginia. In this rare instance, the Constitution rightly gives Congress, not individual states, authority to decide who is eligible to run for federal office under Section 3 of the Fourteenth Amendment.

Rokita

"With a 9-0 decision, I hope we can all now finally agree that Trump has a right to appear on the ballot," AG Rokita said. "This is a huge win for liberty and preserves confidence in the integrity of our elections."

As a result of the Supreme Court's decision, individual states cannot wield Section 3 to deny a candidate for federal office from the ballot — this resolves the issue nationwide.

War in Ukraine: United States cannot lose to Russia & China but cannot win with Biden in charge

According to the media and the failed foreign policy establishment, you either support giving Ukraine an unlimited blank check written by American taxpayers while America's borders are overrun, or you are pro-Putin.

Nothing could be further from the truth. It's not a binary choice. It's just another false choice given to us by the same book-smart "intellectuals" who gave us Vietnam and Iraq, and who handed Afghanistan back to the Taliban in disgrace.

As someone who spent over a decade in business and finance, I ran for Congress to fix our destructive national debt, broken health care system, and burdensome regulations. I guess my plate was not full enough, and I had to become directly involved with major national security crises abroad – dealing with evacuating Americans in Afghanistan and a major war in Europe. I probably could write a book about all the things I have learned being on the ground in Europe, the Middle East, and the frontlines of a war-torn Ukraine, but now is not the time for writing books. We already have too many book writers.

It reminds me of what Cicero said when the Roman Republic was falling: "Times are bad. Children no longer obey their parents, and everyone is writing a book."

The situation in Ukraine is difficult and dangerous. Unfortunately, my appeals to Congress and the Biden Administration to implement proper oversight and a clear strategy for Ukraine in July 2022 were not implemented by and large, and I was right when I said at the beginning of the Russian invasion of Ukraine that if we do not deal with Russia decisively, we will have a further escalation of conflicts.

Now, the world is on fire.

Russia is again advancing in Ukraine; Israel, our key ally in the Middle East, was attacked by Hamas terrorists; Iran is on the brink of obtaining nuclear weapons; Iranian-backed Houthis, who were taken off the terrorist list by the Biden Administration and given $1 billion from the Ukrainian aid, are attacking our ships; and Iranian-backed terrorists attacked our base in Syria, killing Americans. Meanwhile, China continues to flex its growing military muscle on the world stage and threatens Taiwan.

Unfortunately, our foreign policy has been run by book writers in the Washington bubble, 25-year-old college graduates, and naive political creatures with little understanding of the real situation on the ground and the aggressive efforts of our adversaries to redefine the world order. Perhaps they missed the joint statement issued by Putin and Xi on Feb. 4, 2022, outlining plans for "transformation of the global governance architecture and world order."

Obviously, we can tell who the statement was addressed to. Ukraine just became one of the obstacles to Russian and Chinese ambitions, with the Ukrainian people's pro-American and pro-Western sentiment being dangerous to Putin's regime, and Trump's efforts to push Ukraine to prohibit Chinese takeover of critical resources. We know which countries will be next on the list, but we do little in the way of deterrence as evidenced by Biden's recent decision to suspend liquid natural gas exports.

With this backdrop, two years into war, brave young Ukrainians die in the trenches while incompetence, political games, Russian infiltration, and corruption abound within Ukraine's bureaucracy and governing elites. Widespread corruption among Russian governing elites hurts the Russian people, too, as does the brutal KGB tyrant running the country, still brooding on the collapse of the Soviet Union, something he has called "the greatest geopolitical catastrophe of the century." He also forgot to mention in his recent interview that the ninth century Rus he yearns for was actually Kievan Rus, and Mongolia would have claims to Siberia if we go back that far.

In 1993, Ukraine, the third largest nuclear country by its arsenal, was pressured into giving up its nuclear weapons in exchange for assurances of its territorial integrity by Russia, the U.K., and the U.S. The implications of Ukraine losing this war would be significant for the west, but also for nuclear nonproliferation. Unfortunately, I do not believe that Ukraine can win this war with President Biden in charge and his administration's strategy "not to lose." You can never win with this strategy, but actually might lose. We also should resolve conflicts not with "as long as it takes," but with "as fast as we can" strategies.

No one knows what President Trump would do in Ukraine, but we know what he has done, and what Presidents Obama and Biden did not do. President Trump provided Ukraine with lethal aid, pushed China out, demanded Germany decrease its dependency on Russian gas, pressed NATO to increase military spending, and unleashed domestic energy production to reduce dependence on Russian energy. We also know that President Trump does not like for America to lose, and we can expect a return to Trump's peace through strength policies.

The next election in the United States will probably determine the result of this war, but in the meantime, Ukraine needs to survive.

Congress needs to loan, not give, lethal aid to Ukraine with proper accountability (Biden never invoked lend-lease passed by Congress almost two years ago), put pressure on the Ukrainian government to transition its economy into military mode, as Russia has already done, enhance oil sanctions on Russia, and put pressure on Europeans to step up military aid, and start confiscation of Russian sovereign assets.

Americans have every right to demand their leaders put their needs and defense of our borders first, but we are also generous people and understand the need to defend our allies and the free world from tyrants like Putin and Xi.

We don't need to write blank checks. We can be smart and loan Ukraine what it needs to win the war while protecting American interests first.

You otter know: DNR closes otter trapping season early

The REPORTER

The Indiana Department of Natural Resources (DNR) closed the river otter trapping season on Tuesday after the statewide quota of 750 river otters was reported harvested by licensed trappers. The season was scheduled to run from Nov. 15 to March 15, or until the quota was reached.

The framework of Indiana's river otter season was carefully designed to limit the total harvest and support Indiana's river otter population. Databases and reporting allow regular monitoring of the total season harvest. By rule, when total harvest levels approach the statewide quota, the season closes automatically.

"Mild winter weather gave licensed trappers great opportunity this year," said

Gerriann Albers, DNR furbearer and turkey program leader. "Indiana is fortunate that our systems and regulations allow us to strike a good balance between providing trapping opportunity and ensuring our river otters continue to thrive in Indiana."

Additional information on river otters and the trapping season can be found at on.IN.gov/ottertrapping.

Former Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard endorses Raju Chinthala for Congress

Submitted by Raju for Congress

Former Carmel Mayor Jim Brainard has officially endorsed Raju Chinthala in the 5th District Congressional Race. Brainard, who served as mayor for 28 years, led the revitalization and growth of Carmel from a small suburb of Indianapolis to the fourth largest city in Indiana.

In his endorsement, Brainard states his reasons for choosing Chinthala over his opponents.

“Raju has worked hard for the people of central Indiana, bringing good jobs to Indiana,” Brainard said. “He cares about people and he cares about the issues that are important to me. That’s why I’m voting for Raju Chinthala for Congress, and I hope that you do, too. Raju is for you!”

Chinthala humbly responded to the endorsement with gratitude.

“I am honored to be endorsed by Mayor Brainard and thank him for his support,” Chinthala said. “Mayor Brainard led Carmel through vibrant economic development, with a focus on the needs of the people and a long-term vision for success. These are attributes that I plan to take to Washington, D.C., on behalf of all the citizens in the 5th District.”

Alerding endorsed by Indiana Family Action PAC in House District 29 race

Submitted

Laura Alerding of Noblesville has received the endorsement of the Indiana Family Action PAC.

Indiana Family Action PAC works to create and promote an environment where Hoosier families can thrive and endorses candidates they believe will defend traditional moral values.

Executive Director Ryan McCann said the following in his endorsement of Laura Alerding:

“We firmly believe that the family is the key institution of society, and that the overall health of any city, state, region, or nation is largely determined by the health of this bedrock institution. Our organization is encouraged by your willingness to defend the conservative values that so many Hoosier families hold dear. “Our organization applauds you for standing for truth, liberty, and Hoosier families. I wish you the best of luck in your campaign and look forward to the opportunity to work with you after the November election on policies that champion our shared values that will protect Hoosier children and families.”

Alerding said she is incredibly grateful and humbled by the support she’s received by Indiana Family Action PAC. She says she is the only candidate in the race for House District 29 with a proven track record of standing strong on conservative principles.

“I will continue to work hard every day on the campaign trail and as your next representative to earn the support of the people of House District 29,” Alerding said.

Indiana Democratic Party endorses Jennifer McCormick for governor

Submitted

On Feb. 29, the State Central Committee (SCC) of the Indiana Democratic Party unanimously endorsed Jennifer McCormick to be Indiana’s next governor in the 2024 election during its February meeting.

Dr. McCormick goes into the May primary as the only Democratic candidate on the ballot for governor. She is building a bipartisan, grassroots coalition across Indiana.

She served as Indiana’s last statewide elected Superintendent of Public Instruction between 2017 and 2021. Previously, she served as Superintendent of Yorktown Community Schools. She got her start in education as a local public educator in east central Indiana, teaching special education and language arts.

Following the SCC meeting, the IDP released the following statement from Chair Mike Schmuhl:

“Throughout her life, Jennifer McCormick has been an advocate for Hoosier families and children. That’s why she’s never been afraid to stand up for what’s right – regardless of party. As a statewide elected official as superintendent, she took on the GOP supermajority to fight against cuts to public schools and worked to increase teacher pay. She’s seen special interests threaten the future of education in Indiana, and as governor, she’ll be a tireless advocate to improve schools for every family and remove politics from the classroom.

“As a mother, she trusts Hoosier women and families to make incredibly important reproductive health decisions with their doctors, families, and faith leaders – not the government. As governor, she’ll veto any attempts to ban IVF treatments in Indiana, and work to restore the right to choose for women.

“We’re behind Jennifer because 20 consecutive years of Republican governors is enough. One-party control and a legislative supermajority creates unbalanced policies, and it’s simply dangerous for our state’s future. We need more balanced leadership at the Statehouse that uplifts working families, and takes the best ideas from both parties. That’s the leader Jennifer McCormick will be as our next governor.”

Libertarian gubernatorial candidate Donald Rainwater signs Taxpayer Protection Pledge

Submitted by Rainwater for Indiana

Donald Rainwater signed the Taxpayer Protection Pledge on Saturday, March 2, immediately following his gubernatorial nomination at the Indiana Libertarian Party Convention. This supports one of his main focuses: tax reform.

“I make the commitment of signing the Taxpayer Protection Pledge very seriously,” Rainwater said. “Hoosiers need a governor who will oppose and veto any state budget that includes new spending and/or tax increases. Hoosiers need to be able to determine how their hard-earned money is spent instead of the state government spending it for them. Calvin Coolidge said that collecting more taxes than is necessary to run the essential functions of government is legalized robbery. I will not allow that legalized robbery to continue in Indiana.”

Rainwater’s run for governor in 2020 exceeded all expectations. His message then and now is that a smaller government is best. He understands that the purpose of government is to protect people’s rights and provide a system of justice when problems arise.

“Hoosiers don’t need the government to run their lives,” Rainwater said. “They need opportunity, and a small efficient government will create that. We need Better Government, NOT Bigger Government.”

An employee at an elementary school in Fishers was arrested Tuesday morning after a gun was found on campus, police say.

Fishers Police Department officers responded to Hoosier Road Elementary after someone reported that a food service staff member brought a concealed firearm onto school property.

The School Resource Officers responded to secure the firearm. The staff member was questioned and taken into custody by Fishers’ police, a release said.

The investigation is active and ongoing. Police say more details are expected to be released Wednesday:

“This incident is another reminder of the importance of our ‘See Something, Say Something’ culture. We urge anyone who notices any potentially unsafe situation to report it promptly to law enforcement.

“Furthermore, according to Indiana State Law and HSE Board Policy, it’s crucial to note that firearms are strictly prohibited in school buildings.”

Three county girls tapped for Junior All-Stars 2024

The REPORTER

Three Hamilton County girls basketball stars are among the 18 players that have been selected to play for the IndyStar Indiana girls' Junior All-Stars for 2024, All-Stars games director Mike Broughton announced Monday.

Hamilton Southeastern's Maya Makalusky and Noblesville's Meredith Tippner are part of the six-player Core Group. In addition, Sheridan's Kenzie Garner is part of the Blue Group; six players each were voted to squads labeled Red Group and Blue Group.

The other Core Group players are Addison Baxter of Columbia City, Jaylah Lampley of Lawrence Central, Monique Mitchell of South Bend Washington and Brooke Winchester of Warsaw.

The Red Group players are Lilly Bischoff of Center Grove, Lily Graves of Franklin Central, Ellie Richardson of Scottsburg, Aniah Smith of Avon, Gabby Spink of Gibson Southern and Leah West of Greensburg.

The other Blue Group players are Laila Abdurraqib of Lawrence Central, Addie Bowsman of Twin Lakes, Avery Gordon of Brownsburg, Kira Reynolds of South Bend Washington and Vanessa Wimberly of Lake Central.

In addition, Hadley Crozier of Lanesville -- who was injured in the Class A State Finals -- is recognized as an honorary Junior All-Star player. Her health status, however, will prevent her from playing in the games.

Kaley May of Danville will be the head coach and three-time state champion Angie Hinton of Lanesville will be the assistant coach for the 2024 Indiana girls' Junior All-Stars.

May has compiled a 234-83 record in 11 seasons at Danville, including a 24-4 mark with sectional and regional titles in 2023-24. Hinton is 145-20 in six seasons at Lanesville, including Class A state championships in 2023 and 2024. She has an overall ledger of 326-95 in 18 seasons as a varsity coach. Her overall record includes a 173-73 mark -- and the 1999 Class 4A state title -- at New Albany.

The Junior All-Stars will play one game against the Kentucky Junior All-Stars on Sunday, June 2 at a site to be announced. The Junior All-Stars also will play one game against the Indiana All-Star senior girls on Wednesday, June 5 at Kokomo High School. Both games will be doubleheaders with the 2024 Indiana boys Junior All-Stars, who will be chosen later.

The players listed as Core Group players each will play in two games. The players listed in the Red and Blue groups each will play in one game, the Red Group on June 2 against the Kentucky Juniors and the Blue Group on June 5 against the Indiana Seniors.

The Indiana senior All-Stars will play the Kentucky senior All-Stars on June 7 at a site to be announced. The Indiana senior All-Stars will play Kentucky's seniors again on June 8 at Gainbridge Fieldhouse in Indianapolis.

The second IndyStar Indiana All-Star "Futures Games" doubleheader will be played on June 3 at Hamilton Southeastern High School. The Futures Games will be a girls-boys doubleheader with Indiana-only squads of sophomores and freshmen in a North vs. South format. The Futures Games rosters will be announced later.

The 2024 Indiana girls' Junior All-Star team was selected through a process that allows all IBCA-member head coaches to nominate players through the IBCA all-state process. The IBCA 20-member Indiana Basketball Coaches Association all-state committee reviewed and voted on players for the 2024 IBCA/Franciscan Health girls All-State teams that were released on Thursday (Feb. 29).

The 20 all-state committee members also provided input to a seven-person IBCA subcommittee appointed by IBCA executive director Marty Johnson and chaired by Brandon Bradley of Kankakee Valley. Bradley, Broughton plus coaches Tyler Choate of Evansville North, Lisa Finn of Indianapolis Cathedral, Carrie Shappell of Leo, Jason Simpson of Greensburg and all-state committee chairman Doug Springer of Northridge finalized the selections for the 2024 girls' Junior All-Stars.

The Indiana Junior All-Star program was founded in 1996 by former Indiana All-Star games director Patrick Aikman. In most years, 18 players have been chosen to the Junior All-Stars. In five years (2005, 2006, 2007, 2018 and 2019), 24 players were chosen to the Junior All-Stars. In 2021, just 12 players were chosen to the Junior All-Stars.

In games from 1996 through 2023 (with no games in 2020 because of COVID-19), the Indiana Senior girls lead the Indiana Junior girls 41-11 and the Indiana Senior boys lead the Indiana Junior boys 41-11. In seven years of games against the Kentucky Juniors, the Indiana Junior girls lead 11-1 and the Indiana Junior boys lead 7-5. Games against the Kentucky Juniors previously have been played in 2012, 2013, 2014, 2018, 2019, 2022 and 2023.

The Indiana portion of the All-Star Games is organized and produced by the Indiana Basketball Coaches Association. The Indianapolis Star, with its IndyStar brand, is the title sponsor. Hoosier Shooting Academic is a presenting partner for All-Star Week. Energy Systems Group is a presenting partner of the Saturday doubleheader against Kentucky.

Is it the first or second sectional title for FHS?

I like high school basketball, especially this time of year. It's an Indiana thing. Our interest in it makes us Hoosiers a little different from folks in other states.

Some say it's not what it used to be, but try telling that to the thousands who attended sectional tournaments last week. My Carmel team didn't win this year, but that's the way it goes. They win their share, and they'll win in the future.

I like history too. So in the meantime, here is a little story about Fishers which was widely reported to have won its first sectional this year.

First? Well, that depends. Fishers can trace its first high school team to the early years of the last century. The original FHS operated until 1968 when a consolidated school district, Hamilton Southeastern Schools, was created.

It operated with a single high school, HSE.

But, by 2003 school officials in the rapidly growing district decided a second high school was needed. Fishers High School was re-established with the same name, school colors, and mascot as the original FHS.

Here is the interesting thing: Fishers won the local sectional in 1922, its first and only title until this year if you count the present school as a continuation of the first.

That's 102 years between sectional titles. So, maybe no one should begrudge Fishers a big win this year. They have waited long enough.

IBCA-member head coaches from schools across the state may nominate their senior student-athletes who meet criteria that include a 3.50 GPA or higher on a 4.0 scale, a class rank in the upper 25 percent of one's class and either an SAT score of 1100 (on the reading and math sections) or an ACT composite score of 24. Once nominations were received, an IBCA committee reviewed the information and determined awards for first team and honorable mention.

Those selected will receive certificates from the IBCA for their honor. Plans are for certificates to be distributed in PDF form to coaches via e-mail during April for the coach to print. The coach then may present the certificate to each honored player sometime before the conclusion of the 2023-24 academic year.

The IBCA has selected an Academic All-State team for boys since 1973. The program was expanded to include a girls' Academic All-State team in 1980.
