Everyone is suspicious in this high school production of Clue

The REPORTER

The cast, crew, and directors of the Westfield High School (WHS) Theatre Department have been working diligently to present their spring performance of Clue, which opened on Thursday evening, with additional shows at 7 p.m. tonight, March 22 and Saturday, March 23, as well as a 2 p.m. Saturday matinee.

Come visit Boddy Manor along with these campy characters as they try to piece together the puzzle of "whodunnit?" before they themselves are done in! The set build is unlike anything the WHS Theatre Department has ever attempted and is a character in the play in its own right.

The show will be held in the WHS Auditorium, 18250 N. Union St. Tickets are $15 and can be purchased at the door or at sites.google.com/www.k12.in.us/whs-theatre/events or linktr.ee/WTCBA.

This production of Clue is older (there are murders, after uses flashing lights, simulated recommended for 12 years and all). Be advised this production gunshots, and barking dogs.

Westfield church to begin offering counseling service

Submitted

Hamilton County has one mental health provider for every 690 residents, well below the state average. When 20 percent of American adults have a mental illness each year and each provider sees only about 25 clients at a time, that represents a significant need for more professionals.

One church in Westfield wants to help improve that statistic.

Christ United Methodist Church in Westfield has been serving the city for more than 150 years, including a very popular preschool for the last 50 years. Based on a similar approach to ministry, the church plans to start a counseling center on Sept. 1.

Fishers announces recipients of first cycle of expanded 2024 Neighborhood Vibrancy Grant

Over $399,000 invested in 28 neighborhoods during Q1 disbursement

The REPORTER

Fishers city officials announced Thursday the recipients for the first cycle of 2024 Neighborhood Vibrancy Grants, a grant program that provides funding for creative and innovative ideas that boost the vibrancy of Fishers neighborhoods.

The first grant cycle of the year featured a record-high of 37 applicants and $399,638.40 in funding awarded to 28 neighborhoods.

Applications for the grant program are accepted on a rolling basis with funds distributed quarterly, a change from previous years when grants were only administered annually in the spring. The expanded timeline encourages opportunities for year-round vibrancy efforts. Deadlines to apply for the remainder of the 2024 grants are April 30, July 31, and Oct. 31.

Under the leadership of Mayor Scott Fadness and the Fishers City Council, this year's grant allocation also saw a significant jump from $100,000 in previous years to $750,000 for 2024. The city now also funds 80 percent of the project cost up to $25,000, requiring participants to contribute just 20 percent of the total. This marks a substantial shift from the previous 50/50 split of funding.

"In this year's first quarter

alone, we've seen an unprecedented level of community involvement and creativity through the Neighborhood Vibrancy Grant Program," Mayor Scott Fadness said. "This is a significant step toward realizing our collective vision of making Fishers an even more vibrant and engaging place to call home."

Grants can be used to fund a wide range of projects, from entrance landscaping and green-space preservation to creating community spaces within residential areas. Community engagement initiatives, like community gardens, playgrounds, and communal gathering hubs, are also eligible for funding.

In addition to beautification, residents and homeowner associations are encouraged to pursue sustainable initiatives and projects that support the environment and natural habitats. All funded projects featuring landscaping utilize native species. A dashboard of past projects is available at map.fishers.in.us/grants.

Homeowners' associations or neighborhood groups within city limits are encouraged to submit applications for the next grant cycle by April 30 at fishersin.gov/Grants.

Noblesville Parks Easter Egg Hunt set for Saturday

The REPORTER

The Noblesville Parks Department in partnership with Hare Chevrolet will hold the annual Easter Egg Hunt on Saturday, March 23 at Forest Park Shelter No. 5. The hunt will be for children aged 3 to 10.

Festivities will begin at 10 a.m. and include a DJ, pictures with the Easter Bunny, and vehicles from the police, fire, and street departments.

The Egg Hunt, which features more than 10,000 eggs, will begin at 11 a.m. sharp. Participants are split into three age groups: 3-4, 5-6, and 7-10. Children aged 2 and younger are invited to stop by the Parks and Recreation tent where toddler-related activity bags will be handed out to the first 50 kids.

"The annual Easter Egg Hunt marks the first outdoor event of the year for our Parks and Recreation Department and we always look forward to seeing families and children enjoying the egg hunt, taking photos with the Easter Bunny and having fun in historic Forest Park," Recreation Program Coordinator Erin Hinshaw said.

Young artists hone their craft with HCAA

Photos provided by HCAA

The Hamilton County Artists' Association's youth group includes high school art students from across the county. They meet every third Wednesday of the month at the HCAA art center. Melinda Hamilton, who is a board member, heads the group. On Wednesday, they sculpted with dry clay and the theme was insects and fantasy creatures. As teenagers, they all display a good amount of natural art talent. HCAA encourages them to explore and hone their skills – and even expand their horizons. Each month, they learn something new and it's all about having a good time and being part of the camaraderie. This is open to all high school art students in Hamilton County.

Did you know you can get your property taxes electronically?

Submitted by Bob Bragg

Republican candidate for Hamilton County Treasurer

Do you know, as a property owner in Hamilton County, you can sign up to receive your annual property tax bill by email? I only learned of this after I filed my candidacy for the office of Hamilton County Treasurer.

The Hamilton County Treasurer's Office printed and mailed over 125,000 statements last year and the number is growing rapidly. In addition to the high cost of postage, over two tons of paper was used as well as a lot of ink.

In addition to the convenience of receiving an e-bill, it is more environmentally friendly and reduces taxpayer costs. All reductions in local government spending can assist in lowering the tax rate which can help offset the continued increase in assessed values in Hamilton County.

Go to ebilling.hamiltoncounty.in.gov and sign up today. If you escrow, your mortgage company will still receive an invoice to pay the bill. You will also be able to opt out of the service if you change your mind and want to go back to a paper statement. You will need your "bill code" from a previous statement to sign up. Your bill code is confidential and not visible online.

We can all work together to operate our government as efficiently and effectively as possible.

The vision behind the Counseling Center is rooted in the church's understanding of the profound impact counseling can have on individuals' lives. With an aim to significantly enhance the accessibility of quality mental health services in Westfield, the people of the Counseling Center aspire to be a pivotal resource for those in need, offering a wide range of counseling services. The initiative is driven by a belief in the power of healing and the potential for counseling to foster growth, resilience, and recovery.

They will host seven full-time therapists who will provide individual and group therapy for mental health, relationship, and family counseling. To realize this ambitious project, the church has launched a fundraising campaign with the goal of raising $40,000 to cover construction costs. This foundational step underscores the community's role in bringing the vision to life, inviting members and supporters to contribute financially and through advocacy. Beyond the initial setup, the center plans to achieve sustainability through rental fees from participating therapists, ensuring its ongoing impact on the community.

"This initiative is not just about establishing a counseling facility; it's about creating a movement towards a healthier, more resilient community," Christ United Methodist Pastor Dr. Jeremiah Gibbs said. "We envision a future where everyone in Westfield has access to the mental health support they need, embodying a collective effort to address and mitigate mental health struggles. With community support and professional collaboration, we are poised to make a significant difference in the lives of many, fostering a culture of care, understanding, and healing."

A generous donor has provided matching funds to double the first $10,000 in gifts before March 26. You can contribute to the effort at christwestfield.org/counselingcenter. Licensed therapists, including those with associate license, who are interested in practicing at the center may also inquire through the website.

Update No. 125

It is hard to believe we are in our fourth quarter of the 2023-24 school year. Time flies when you are having fun! As we prepare for the school year to draw to a close, let's concentrate on making this quarter the best and finishing the year strong!

I am excited to share that Hamilton Heights will be changing the way it recognizes the academic excellence of its graduating seniors. To celebrate a greater number of deserving students and encourage a variety of academic pursuits, Hamilton Heights High School will transition to the Latin Honors System as a way to recognize students for their academic successes beginning with the Class of 2026.

To earn a Latin Honor designation, students must have a cumulative grade-point average (calculated at the completion of first semester of the senior year) of: Summa Cum Laude (4.0+ GPA), Magna Cum Laude (3.8-3.99 GPA), and Cum Laude (3.6-3.79 GPA). Valedictorian and Salutatorian will no longer be recognized. Latin Honors are widely used by colleges and universities and by a growing number of high schools across our state and throughout the country. As a result, it is familiar and understandable to parents, college admission officers, and prospective employers. Stay tuned! More info on this program to come.

Maddi Martin (HHHS '22), a student at Anderson University, and her high school business teacher, Kim Kaiser, were reconnected as part of the "Realizing the Dream" program. The program, made possible by a grant from the Lilly Endowment Inc., recognizes first-generation college students from the 29 private, non-profit colleges and universities in Indiana. Martin was among 29 students selected to receive additional money toward completing their bachelor's degrees. Kaiser, the educator Martin named as being the most influential in high school, also receives money for professional development. Congratulations to both of these incredible Huskies! Read the

This competition does not disappoint and is well worth attending to see student innovation, teamwork, and robotics at its best!

The little things you can do to bring joy your work

Westfield Winds head to state competition Saturday

The REPORTER

The Westfield Winds head to Avon High School on Saturday evening, March 23, to compete in the IPA Winds state finals.

This is the first year the Westfield Winds will take part in this elite, highest level of competition "world" class, so the community is invited and encouraged to Come gather around Door 32 at 5:30 p.m. Saturday at Westfield High School to send off the Westfield Winds.

Then, if you are able, help make some noise at Avon High School for their performance at 8:24 p.m. The bigger the crowd, the better they perform!

Today we'll talk about three little things you can do to bring joy to your workplace: warmly greeting others, taking breaks, and wearing your smile.

How do you greet others when you begin your shift? Are you barely moving or alive? Do you at least smile and say, "Good morning, afternoon, or evening"? Or is the thought of speaking to others when you begin to work dreadful for you?

I am not a morning person. When I worked for the City of Noblesville, my day started at 8 a.m. (like many offices). Thankfully my morning walks helped me wake up and transformed me into my joyful self.

You may have to find your own routine to psych yourself up to greet others in a pleasant manner. Remember how we talked about acting enthusiastic to be enthusiastic? Some mornings even my walk wasn't enough. Once I announced, "Good Morning, Suite 275!" when I entered the mayor's suite, my mood and that of others who heard me were instantly uplifted.

A few people may not appreciate your positivity each day. But most will enjoy a happy person and they'll benefit from a positive ray of light to start their work.

Once our work begins, sometimes it can feel like there is no way we can possibly take 10 minutes for lunch, let alone any other break in the day. But that's exactly what we should do to be as productive and happy as possible.

Dale Carnegie said that it's important to rest before you get tired. His book How to Stop Worrying and Start Living shares examples of how successful people are more productive when they allow themselves to take breaks.

Let's think about a car.

When a car starts to over-heat, should we let it keep running or turn it off so the engine cools down? Of course we need to do the latter.

What about if it's low on fuel? Do we just keep driving and watch the warning light flash and the countdown of miles left until it's empty? Absolutely not. Unless we want to get stuck somewhere by the side of the road, we need to find the nearest gas station and refuel.

The same thing applies to human beings. Whether your job is physical or more sedentary, you're using energy in some way. Our bodies need the occasional rest or meal so we can keep going.

And don't just take breaks during your work time. Remember to take the occasional long weekend or vacation to get completely away for a while. Fortune magazine says that Americans are terrible about taking the time off that they so desperately need.

The publication shares that more than half of us did not take all our allotted vacation time in 2016. The reasons for this vary, including worry about returning to a mountain of work and the feeling that no one else can do the job. However, Fortune states that most managers agree that vacation time helps with health and well-being, boosts morale; and alleviates burnout.

As counterintuitive as it is, to be joyful in our workplaces, we need to get away from them occasionally.

Finally, sometimes we just gotta be our own little cheerleaders. My last tip in this column is probably the easiest thing to do, but it's also easy to forget. We gotta smile. It involves that "fake it til' you make it" mentality.

I'm not saying that we have to smile when something truly sad or upsetting is happening in our lives. Even I can't do that. But when we're having one of those "meh" days, sometimes putting that smile on our faces can help us sound and feel better. This works when we're on the phone, interacting with customers, or encountering a difficult coworker.

And let's smile and celebrate the little victories at work even when we're by ourselves! Why not do a little happy dance when we close that sale, impress our boss, get that raise or promotion, or put on a successful event? Sometimes no one else knows how hard we worked, so giving ourselves those silly rewards can mean a lot.

Smile and celebrate the little things as much as possible and you will be a positive force to everyone around you in the workplace.

New traffic pattern coming to 146th Street on Sunday

The REPORTER

This is a reminder of the traffic pattern switch for 146th Street, which begins this weekend.

Temporary lane restrictions along 146th Street will still be necessary from time to time.

Other than those temporary restrictions, both eastbound and westbound 146th Street will have two lanes of travel in each direction.

Friday, March 22 into Saturday, March 23

The contractor will complete work in preparation of the upcoming phase switch of 146th Street. At various times between 9 a.m. Friday and 7 p.m. Saturday, the contractor will have workers in or near the travel lanes to complete pre-phase switch work items. Short-duration lane closures when in-lane preparation work is required should be expected.

Saturday, March 23 into Sunday, March 24

Beginning at 7 p.m., the contractor will use lane closures and short-duration closures to implement the traffic pattern change. The new traffic pattern will be in place by Sunday morning.

Be sure to use extreme caution while driving through this construction zone. There has been a lot of traffic traveling above the posted speed limit of 35 mph, so the Fishers Police Department, Noblesville Police Department, and the Hamilton County Sheriff's Department have increased patrols along 146th Street. Be cognizant of the speed limit – it is posted at 35 mph for a reason. This will ensure construction crews stay safe through this heavily traveled thoroughfare. 'Total Eclipse of the Park' event offers secluded gathering at Eagle Creek Park

The REPORTER

Nature enthusiasts are invited to experience the April 8 total solar eclipse during an intimate, day-long event at Eagle Creek Park.

"Total Eclipse of the Park," sponsored by the Eagle Creek Park Foundation, will be held at the secluded Eagle's Hideaway, 8901 W. 65th St., Indianapolis, on the park's west side. The event runs from 9 a.m. to 7 p.m. and includes:

- Continental breakfast
- Self-guided hikes on the park's recently opened West Side Trail
- Lunch
- Eclipse informational presentations
- Certified commemorative eclipse-viewing glasses
- Dinner
- Yard games and additional activities for all ages

Cost is $60 per person ($50 for Eagle Creek Park Foundation members). Tickets are limited to 200 guests and must be purchased in advance at Eventbrite. Proceeds benefit the Eagle Creek Park Foundation, the park's primary nonprofit fundraising partner organized in 1978 to preserve, promote, protect, and enhance Eagle Creek Park.

"We know people have many choices for where to view the eclipse," said Adam Hibshman, Foundation Marketing & Program Coordinator. "But at 'Total Eclipse of the Park,' you'll be totally surrounded by nature, making this a one-of-a-kind location for this once-in-a-lifetime event.

"Our event guests are invited to bring chairs, tables, blankets, pop-up tents, games – basically anything that will make their day fun and comfortable," Hibshman continued. "On-leash dogs are welcome to attend with their owners (but dogs will not be permitted inside the Hideaway). And coolers with food and beverage are permitted, even though we'll be serving a continental breakfast, lunch, and dinner. We anticipate that traffic in the area of the park will be heavy following the eclipse which is why we're offering dinner to our guests, hoping they'll remain with us at the park until traffic clears up."

The actual eclipse – the day's big event – happens between 1:50 and 4:23 p.m., with totality occurring at 3:07 p.m. and lasting for approximately four minutes.

"Eagle Creek is a superb location for anyone who loves nature and wants to experience the eclipse among a limited number of like-minded enthusiasts, all while immersed in nature," Hibshman said. "Our guests will have two locations to choose from to view the spectacle: next to the aptly named Hideaway or along Eagle Creek Reservoir, an easy mile's hike away."

All "Total Eclipse of the Park" guests will receive a pair of certified commemorative eclipse-viewing glasses. However, for those viewing the eclipse elsewhere, the glasses are available by order or walk-in pickup at the park office, 7840 W. 56th St., Indianapolis, for a suggested donation of $5 per pair. Those interested in ordering eclipse glasses can use this link to order and then pick-up at the park office.

ISO presents Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto No. 1 featuring Assistant Conductor Su-Han Yang & pianist Michelle Cann

The REPORTER

Pianist Michelle Cann makes her Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra (ISO) debut with some of the most popular melodies in Western music in Tchaikovsky's Piano Concerto No. 1.

ISO Assistant Conductor Su-Han Yang conducts Rachmaninoff's expressive Symphony No. 3.

Despite being prolific, with several concertos, symphonies, chamber works and piano pieces to her credit, Polish composer Grażyna Bacewicz has received little attention in the U.S. until recently. The ISO will feature her piece Overture – composed in 1943 – during the evening concerts.

About Su-Han Yang

Su-Han Yang joined ISO as Assistant Conductor in January 2023. In this capacity, he hosts the ISO's Words on Music pre-concert discussions, conducts the ISO's annual Discovery Concerts, and assists Classical Series conductors during rehearsals.

Yang takes the reins from former ISO Resident Conductor Jacob Joyce, who served for four years in the role. Yang has also served as Associate Conductor of Taiwan Philharmonic (the National Symphony Orchestra of Taiwan). He won the First Prize in the 10th International Grzegorz Fitelberg Competition for Conductors in 2017 and received numerous invitations to collaborate with the Polish National Radio Symphony Orchestra, the Hungarian Radio Symphony Orchestra, the Sinfonia Varsovia, the Silesian Philharmonic, the Kraków Philharmonic, the Łódź Philharmonic, the Pomeranian Philharmonic, the Brandenburger Symphoniker, the Polish Sinfonia Iuventus Orchestra, the Gliwice Chamber Orchestra, the Capella Bydgoszczensis, and many others. Since 2016 he has regularly conducted the Camerata Taiwan in their annual concert tour of Taiwan and took them on a three-concert tour of Germany in 2022.

About Michelle Cann

Michelle Cann has become one of the most sought-after pianists of her generation. She made her debut with The Philadelphia Orchestra in 2021 and has recently performed concertos with The Cleveland Orchestra, the National Symphony Orchestra, the Orquestra Sinfônica Municipal de São Paulo, the Los Angeles Philharmonic, and the symphony orchestras of Atlanta, Baltimore, and Cincinnati. In March, Cann was announced as the American Pianists Association's first Christel DeHaan Artistic Partner.

In her new role, a position made possible by a Legacy Grant from the Christel DeHaan Family Foundation, Cann will provide further support and mentorship to the five APA finalists and oversee all artistic aspects of the competition, including managing the nomination process, jury selection, and concert programming. In spring 2022, she performed on the American Pianists Association's recital series and has since fostered a strong collaborative relationship with the organization.

Highlights of Cann's 2023-24 season include appearances with the Charlotte, Hawaii, Indianapolis, Québec, Sarasota, and Winnipeg symphony orchestras, and recitals in New York City, Portland, Berkeley, Beverly Hills, and Denver. She also has teaching and performance residencies at Indiana University South Bend and Meany Center for the Performing Arts at the University of Washington.

Recognized as a leading interpreter of the piano music of Florence Price, Cann performed the New York City premiere of Price's Piano Concerto in One Movement with The Dream Unfinished Orchestra in July 2016 and the Philadelphia premiere with The Philadelphia Orchestra and Music Director Yannick Nézet-Séguin in February 2021. Her recording of the concerto with the New York Youth

Symphony won a Grammy Award in 2023 for Best Orchestral Performance. Her acclaimed debut solo album Revival, featuring music by Price and Margaret Bonds, was released in May 2023 on the Curtis Studio label. She has also recorded two Price piano quintets with the Catalyst Quartet.

Braun gets his fellow U.S. Senators to admit $34T debt is national security threat

The REPORTER

On Wednesday, the U.S. Senate unanimously passed Senator Mike Braun's (R-Ind.) resolution to recognize the national debt as a threat to national security. The national debt now stands at over $34 trillion, which is $102,776 for every single person in America.

This is the first year in American history that more money will be spent on interest payments (debt service) than on national defense, according to the nonpartisan Congressional Budget Office.

"We have more than doubled our national debt in just 10 years," Sen. Braun said.

"America is moving down a dangerous and unsustainable path of reckless spending and the federal government has yet to take it seriously. Our colossal national debt is an absolute threat to national security and I'm glad that I was able to make the Senate to unanimously recognize this dire threat today."

MadeLabs makes move to Fishers

Remote-first technology consulting firm plans to expand team in 2024

The REPORTER

MadeLabs, a technology consulting firm, has relocated its headquarters to Fishers. This move comes as part of the company's strategic plan and commitment to better serve clients across the country.

The remote-first company currently employs 25 full-time staff in seven different states, with plans to hire five to 10 additional team members in 2024.

Co-founders Nicholas Barger and Adam Broadbent were drawn to Fishers because of the growth they've seen in the city, as well as the proximity to premier academic institutions with strong engineering talent. The thriving business community and support from local organizations and government were also influential in the decision-making process.

"We are excited about the opportunities that come with our move to Fishers," Barger said. "Not only is it a great place to work, but it also felt like a great place to raise my two daughters, and we had some family already show us all the great amenities Fishers has to offer."

MadeLabs advises companies on how to build impactful and profitable software solutions. With deep experience in industries such as aviation, supply chain and medical devices, MadeLabs is well-positioned to help midsize and enterprise companies with their technology strategy.

"Even though we work with clients throughout the United States, we believe the Midwest is a region with extreme potential and we'd like to support it any way we can," Broadbent said. "This move will not only allow us to better serve our existing clients but also enable us to expand our reach and establish new partnerships."

In addition to working remotely, MadeLabs will operate out of Launch Fishers, where they can have in-person meetings and do other collaborative work. Fishers is known for its business-friendly environment and commitment to fostering entrepreneurial growth, with more than 600 members currently involved with Launch Fishers. Launch Fishers is the largest co-working space in the Midwest, offering opportunities for entrepreneurs to innovate and collaborate while "launching" their ideas into the world.

"We have been very intentional with our efforts to bring entrepreneurial-minded people together in Fishers, both at Launch Fishers and the Indiana IoT (Internet of Things) Lab," Fishers Mayor Scott Fadness said. "We are excited to see MadeLabs continue to grow in our city and look forward to their successes this year and beyond."

Crouch & Rainwater: all gubernatorial candidates must be included in debates

Submitted

Editor's note: Two gubernatorial candidates, Republican Suzanne Crouch and Libertarian Donald Rainwater, issued statements this week calling for all candidates to be included in upcoming debates so that voters can be better informed heading into Primary Election Day.

The Reporter has published their statements in full below.

Crouch's statement

Throughout my years of public service and as a candidate for governor, I have always stood for fairness, transparency, and accountability. The more voices we have in our democratic process, the better.

The gubernatorial campaigns of Jamie Ritenour and Curtis Hill collected thousands of Hoosier signatures and qualified for the May Primary ballot – but these candidates are being denied an opportunity to participate in upcoming televised debates.

I call not only on the organizations sponsoring the debates to include all Republican candidates, but also the campaigns of Mike Braun, Brad Chambers, and Eric Doden to join me in this request as well.

Crouch

Rainwater

Indiana stands for fairness, not a Washington, D.C.-style insiders club where only certain people are popular enough to get on stage.

Rainwater's statement

As an advocate for fair and inclusive democratic processes, I firmly believe that every candidate who qualifies to be on the ballot should be given equal opportunities to participate in candidate forums, debates, and receive mentions by the mainstream media. This principle applies across party lines, encompassing Republicans, Democrats, Libertarians, Independents, and any other qualified candidates.

Jamie Reitenour and Curtis Hill, Republican candidates for Governor of Indiana, are being excluded from candidate forums and debates even though they have qualified to appear on the primary ballot.

As a Libertarian Party candidate, I have seen the exclusion of candidates in debates at the federal, state, and local level by the imposition of arbitrary goals that exceed ballot access requirements. I consider this to be the very definition of interference in an election.

The imposition of these arbitrary requirements to be included in public forums and debates serve to cast these candidates as not legitimate. On the contrary, any candidate who achieves ballot access should be considered legitimate and voters should be afforded the opportunity to see and hear them in the public forum.

In a competitive political landscape, it is essential that voters have access to information about all candidates. By including every qualified candidate in forums, debates, and media coverage, we ensure a robust exchange of ideas and allow voters to make informed decisions.

Let us champion transparency, fairness, and the democratic process by supporting the inclusion of all candidates who achieve ballot access.

Congressional District 5. Campaign handouts, campaign shirts, signs, and buttons are not allowed at the forum.

The forum is free and open to the public. Audience members will be able to submit questions for the moderator to pose to candidates. Questions from the audience will be screened for appropriateness, relevancy, and repetition by League members. As much as possible, the questions will be read as written by the citizen.

Carmel reader: state legislators should repeal "AWP" laws if they truly want lower healthcare costs

Dear Editor:

It is no surprise that during an election year, all politicians are speaking about the economy. But what they should be talking about impacts rising healthcare costs on family and business budgets, along with who is responsible.

Year after year, lawmakers in Indianapolis pay lip service to tackling these costs with "market-based solutions," but each session seems to be just more of the same. Misguided policy efforts continue to take us in the worse direction, like we saw this year. Many proposals were little more than price-controls measures that shield hospitals from consequences for their actions, allowing them to continue exploiting their market dominance to drive prices higher for families and employers.

The "Affordable Care Act" has done everything but make healthcare more affordable. Since its passage more than a decade ago, it has only gotten harder to access affordable, quality healthcare. Unfortunately, lawmakers in Indianapolis don't seem to be helping much as they continue advancing policies that do not address hospitals' role in driving up healthcare costs. As a result, Hoosiers continue to pay some of the highest healthcare costs in the nation while hospitals collect some of the highest profits.

There are actual market-based solutions that would help drive down those costs. Lawmakers should find ways to increase hospital competition so that patients have the ability to make choices that work for their health needs – and their budgets.

One area ripe for reform involves "Any Willing Provider" (AWP) laws, which mandate that health plans accept any legally licensed medical provider into their network, regardless of performance, cost, or patient safety record. While these laws are often pitched as increasing consumer choice, the data shows AWP laws simply act as anti-competitive regulations that limit health plans' ability to drive value by designing networks based on quality outcomes and cost effectiveness, and instead force them to accept any provider regardless of quality or cost.

According to independent economic studies, AWP laws increase hospital spending by 4.7 percent, increase physician spending by 6 percent, and increase drug spending by 5.8 percent.

Another study found that states with "strong" AWP laws had an average increase in per capita health costs of 1.8 percent when compared to states without this anti-competitive law.

Hoosier families are bearing the brunt of these outdated laws when they pay out-of-pocket expenses before hitting their deductibles. On top of this, 80 percent of large employers who self-fund their own health plans are being forced to cover higher cost plans with lower quality of care.

Even though families and employers are paying higher healthcare costs than every state that borders Indiana, we are still suffering potential safety risks, since networks are barred from removing negligent or low-quality providers. As a result, insurers currently lack the tools to incentivize patients to choose higher value, in-network options that cost less.

Indiana has a deeply concerning hospital safety record, which has clearly not been addressed by guaranteeing hospital profits. Half of our hospitals received a "C" grade or lower in national rankings on preventing medical errors and infections.

The last thing Hoosiers need are new laws that eliminate the market-based tools focused on driving down healthcare costs. We need our lawmakers to start reforming some of the existing laws that have made Indiana one of the highest cost states for healthcare in the nation. Repealing AWP laws would be a simple fix that incentives better care and lower costs.

I hope that next session our state legislature will advance policy solutions aimed at repealing and reforming anti-competitive laws like this, instead of adding additional regulations that do nothing to increase value or reduce costs.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING

JOSEPH AND POTIPHAR'S WIFE

Now Joseph was well-built and handsome, and after a while his master's wife took notice of Joseph and said, "Come to bed with me!"

But he refused. "With me in charge," he told her; "my master does not concern himself with anything in the house; everything he owns he has entrusted to my care. No one is greater in this house than I am. My master has withheld nothing from me except you, because you are his wife. How then could I do such a wicked thing and sin against God?" And though she spoke to Joseph day after day, he refused to go to bed with her or even be with her.

Noblesville's own Hannah Alexander wins national weight throw championship

The REPORTER

Noblesville's Hannah Alexander won a national championship last weekend.

The Millers senior won the girls weight throw event last Saturday with a top throw of 16.27 meters (53 feet, 4.5 inches), which set a new meet record. This is Alexander's second national championship; she also won the Girls 15-16 discus throw at the 2022 USATF National Junior Olympic Championships.

The weight throw win adds to Alexander's long list of accomplishments. In addition to the two national titles, she has also earned six All-American honors, four All-State honors, and is the defending state champion in the discus.

The weight throw is not an event that is contested in Indiana, so Alexander works on the event outside of her school practice times and competes for her club team. After competing in the Hoosier State Relays indoor meet on Saturday, Alexander will look forward to the outdoor season and to helping the Noblesville girls in their chase for back-to-back team state titles. Alexander will attend Indiana University in the fall and is excited to be part of the Hoosiers women's track and field team.

Purdue guard Braden Smith continues to make impact on Westfield basketball program

By ANDREW CHERNOFF
WISH-TV | wishtv.com

WESTFIELD – Purdue University sophomore guard Braden Smith is having an impressive season for the Boilermakers.

Smith is averaging 12.5 points per game, while also dishing out 7.3 assists per game.

Stats like that have helped Smith become a top-five finalist for the Bob Cousy Award, which recognizes the top point guard in Division I men's college basketball.

"He makes us go," Purdue head coach Matt Painter said. "He's such a facilitator. He's a guy that can make shots, make plays, gets the ball where it needs to be."

This weekend, Smith will get to showcase those skills in Indianapolis, where Purdue begins what it hopes is a long NCAA Tournament run.

What will make this weekend even more special for Smith is that he gets to play in Gainbridge Fieldhouse, which is less than a 40-minute drive from where he grew up in Westfield.

"It's unbelievable," Smith said. "People followed. They still paid attention, not only to Purdue basketball, but me as well. So, it's unbelievable, and I'm sure it will be a good home crowd."

There's no doubt there will be a lot of support for Smith from the Westfield community inside the arena this weekend. One of those fans this weekend who will be supporting Smith is Shane Sumpter, Smith's former head coach at Westfield High School.

"I've known Braden since he's been five years old," Sumpter said. "Just seeing him grow up and doing what he's doing, and doing what he loves. It's very special."

Smith was part of Westfield's 2021-22 basketball team, which captured the program's first-ever sectional title.

His impact though continues to resonate within the program. He's still in touch with some of the players, like senior guard Trey Buchanan. Buchanan told News 8 Sports' Andrew Chernoff that one of the biggest things he learned from Smith was leadership skills.

"Just the way he went about himself and led the team," Buchanan said. "Once he left – that year we had eight seniors I think, my sophomore year. So, when I came in as a junior, I kind of had to take it upon myself to use some of those skills that he had when it came to leadership."

But it's not just high school basketball players who Smith is impacting. He's also having a big influence younger kids in the Westfield community.

"There's a lot of little kids running around wanting to be the next Braden Smith," Sumpter said. "Braden is a big reason why we're so successful."

Smith was named the 2022 Indiana Mr. Basketball award winner.

Smith's Boilermakers are the No. 1 seed in the Midwest Region of the NCAA Tournament. They will play Grambling State in the first round of the tournament on Friday night.
