Westfield YAP receives $15K grant from Hamilton County Community Foundation

The REPORTER

Westfield Youth Assistance Program (WYAP) recently received a $15,000 grant from Hamilton County Community Foundation, a CICF affiliate, to support WYAP's youth-centered services.

Since 2009, WYAP has worked with youth and their families who are facing challenging life circumstances. WYAP's Early Intervention Advocates work with the youth and their families to create a tailored action plan with services that fit that youth's specific needs. This grant will allow WYAP to continue to connect Westfield youth with services such as mentoring, tutoring, mental health supports, camps, and other enrichment activities.

"My son was going through depression, but thanks to the psychologist WYAP helped us find, along with the programs offered," said Martha, the mom of a WYAP youth, illustrating the positive impact WYAP has on the youth involved in the program. "He's given it all in his academics as well. The support is just ... I'm speechless! Thank you so much for all that you've done!"

WYAP continues to see an increase in the number of youth in the program, coinciding with the rapid growth of the Westfield community. Thanks to grants like the one from Hamilton County Community Foundation

Free Mom hugs – and free Dad hugs, too

Here on All American Road, LGBTQIA+ Street seemingly intersects with, and runs straight through, our home.

We embrace the queer lives that are part of the open fabric of our blended family.

We are proud Pride parents.

My stepson, Cameron, is trans male. When I was warmly welcomed into my new family in 2017, Cameron had reached the most personal of turning points; he publicly – and bravely – announced his transitioning from female to male.

It's sad, really, to feel the need to rely on the word "brave," or derivatives of it, when describing someone who is simply being the person they were born to be.

Fortunately, most members of our collective extended families welcomed Cameron's transition with open minds and open hearts.

Just as importantly, he was welcomed with open arms, also. A sincere hug is a powerful thing. It doesn't just end when an embrace ends. It remains a positive memento of total recall.

Open hearts; open minds; open arms: the trifecta of acceptance. Who feels wholly loved if not loved for who they truly are?

Adult baby store picks up its toys & moves a few blocks

By ADAM PINSKER
 WISH-TV | wistv.com

My Inner Baby was forced to close in August 2022 after the Noblesville city government deemed it was a sex shop and violated the terms of its zoning.

Owner Ryan Polokoff tried to fight that in court, but says he lost on a technicality. "They won due to a procedural error by our attorney. We never had a chance to truly argue our case in court."

This month, Polokoff reopened his store at another site near the former location, and he's now heading back to court again.

"We just opened up our shop 2½ weeks ago on June 3, and, on Monday, we got a lawsuit from the city claiming that this is sex shop location 2," Polokoff said Thursday.

Highlighting the project's emphasis on trail-oriented development, Park & Poplar will integrate seamlessly with the Midland Trace Trail, enhancing accessibility and promoting outdoor recreation. The development is expected to attract tourism, building on Westfield's appeal as a destination of choice for visitors, particularly those drawn to events at Grand Park.

As a part of the READI 2.0 "Main Street Matters" initiative, Park & Poplar is expected to fulfill existing community needs for structured parking and to further enhance downtown Westfield's appeal as a vibrant, walkable community. This strategic alignment with the city's initiatives underscores the project's commitment to the city's overall development and its potential to attract further investment.

Remember when Noblesville sued My Inner Baby out of existence for zoning violations? Well, they moved a few blocks and opened the exact same store in the exact same zoning district. Let's see how that works out.

He says he will again try to fight the latest lawsuit, filed June 13 in Hamilton Superior Court 1.

In the first lawsuit, the city claimed My Inner Baby operated as a sex shop by using the #ABDL hashtag, which, he said, "stands for adult baby and diaper lovers."

"They had issues with that and other hashtags on social media, Google maps and our website, and so we stripped that. We removed it all," Polokoff said.

The city still believes the store is a sex shop.

The owner of My Inner Baby says people won't find anything erotic in his shop. What they will find are high-quality diapers that people suffering from trauma use in age-regression therapy. He says some of My Inner Baby's customers include a trucker, and a woman whose mom is in hospice.

"We sell Squishmal-lows, little stuffed animals, and what not. We have adult-sized pacifiers, and a lot of clothing, body suits similar to a One Zee," Polokoff said.

City Attorney Jonathan Hughes shared a statement by email with News 8, referring to the store by the acronym MIB:

"The Noblesville BZA (Board of Zoning Appeal) affirmed in August 2022 that MIB is a Sex Shop, as defined in the Noblesville UDO (Unified Development Ordinance). MIB appealed that decision in both state and federal court, and the City was successful in both lawsuits. By opening this second location in the same zoning district where the first was located, MIB is deliberately disregarding the Director's determination, the BZA's affirmation of that determination, and both lawsuits that followed."

My stepson has evolved into a much happier person. His mental well-being has spiked. His journey continues.

Recently, I was honored to moderate a Q&A with Sara Cunningham, founder of Free Mom Hugs, a nonprofit organization that celebrates the LGBTQIA+ community through visibility, education, and conversation.

"When our first son was born, we were plugged into a mainstream evangelical conservative church," said Sara, who lives in Oklahoma City. Later, as an adolescent, her son announced having "same-sex attraction."

"I thought it was just a phase," she recalled. "I really thought that something bad had to happen to him to make him gay, and I didn't understand. I didn't know any other moms with gay kids. We didn't have gay people in our congregation or in our fellowship."

She added, "I shamed him."

Sara eventually joined a private Facebook support group for moms with gay children. Since then, its membership has increased from 200 to 40,000. She credits the Facebook group for enlightening her on the history and science of human sexuality and showing her that faith and homosexuality don't have to be mutually exclusive of each other.

"We all had the same story of feeling alienated from our families, from our church homes," she said. "When Parker came out of his closet, I went into mine, and I had to reexamine everything that I believed. I deconstructed and reconstructed and eventually found faith-based resources that I needed. I needed to hear from someone who shared my faith that it's OK to search this matter out, because when you do, you get educated. I know the power of fear and ignorance, and I know the power of love and education. I've lived in both worlds. I really put my family through a very difficult time in that place of fear and ignorance."

Attending the 2014 Oklahoma City Pride Festival proved life-changing.

"I'm standing at the end of the parade. People are mingling in the street. I see a crowd of diversity, color, and vibrancy. It was beautiful. I looked to the heavens, and I really did feel God's favor there. And I thought, 'God, thank you that I am the one changed. I fell in love with this beautiful, spirit-filled community.'"

In 2015, Sara returned to the Pride event wearing a button she made that stated, "Free Mom Hugs."

"If anyone made eye contact with me, I offered them a free hug. The first hug I gave went to a beautiful young woman who said it had been four years since she got a hug from her mother because she's a lesbian. I pulled her in tight and said, 'Well, I'm a mom. Here's a hug. I'm not letting go until you do.' That night I went home covered from head to toe with glitter from the Pride Festival."

That first hug was the impetus of Free Mom Hugs.

To date, the organization has chapters in all U.S. states, with more than 14,000 volunteers. It recently developed a global foothold.

According to Sara, a hug is "an acknowledgement from one person to another. It's magic. It's life-giving. It's empowering. It's the essence of humanity."

Now then, a bit more about my stepson.

In the past year, Cameron's father died. He took the loss very hard. Recently, on Father's Day, I sent a text to show that I was thinking of him – what with it being his first Father's Day without his father. True, a text pales to a hug, but ... we do live in different cities.

The next day, I found a Father's Day card in our mailbox – to me, from Cameron, mailed a couple of days earlier.

He could've written "Happy Stepfather's Day" (if there's such a thing), but instead, he wrote "Happy Father's Day!"

Today, I'm working hard to not refer to Cameron as my stepson. I have always felt an awkwardness when reserving this descriptor for him, as if bound to a borderline defined by unshared bloodline – perhaps out of respect for his "real" father. Strangely, now, "stepson" has been easier to not say due to Cameron's recent loss. Still, it requires discipline and thoughtfulness, similar to how I had learned to naturally address Cameron by his new pronoun.

Cameron sent me a Father's Day card.

It's nice to feel accepted by a son.

Meijer recognized as "Great Place to Work" for sixth consecutive year

The REPORTER

Midwest retailer Meijer was named a Great Place to Work for the sixth consecutive year, demonstrating its ongoing commitment to championing a culture of dignity and respect for its team members.

The Great Place to Work certification recognizes employers for creating outstanding employee experiences based on responses to The Trust Index Survey, an organization-wide assessment of culture. This survey measures employee feedback across organizational culture, credibility, fairness, respect, camaraderie, and pride.

"From the beginning, Hendrik and Gezina Meijer established a special culture that makes our company a great place to work," Meijer President & CEO Rick Keyes said. "This team member feedback is a testament we're living the legacy our founders envisioned."

In its sixth year of participating in the program, Meijer achieved its highest survey score, particularly excelling in three areas: strong commitment to diversity, equality, inclusion, and belonging; providing a physically safe place to work; and making team members feel welcome upon joining the Meijer team.

Meijer celebrates its 90th anniversary this year and continues to care for team members by treating them like family. For example, Meijer team members are eligible to receive a variety of benefits, including weekly pay, team member discounts, and flexible scheduling.

"These are our highest scores to date on this survey, which is really meaningful," said Michelle Hall, Senior Vice President & Chief Human Resources Officer.

"Our leaders are not only creating a positive environment for team members across the company to learn and grow, but they're doing it in a way that makes Meijer a Great Place to Work and also a great environment for our customers to shop."

The retailer also invests in the success of its team members, offering career advancement opportunities, free college education, paid parental leave, child care discounts, access to multiple health insurance plan options, and the option for 401(k) retirement contributions.

AG Rokita responds to Pornhub's plan to block access to Indiana

By KYLA RUSSELL
WISH-TV | wishv.com

Indiana Attorney General Todd Rokita on Thursday defended a state law that will require porn website users to verify their age with personal information. The law is set to go into effect July 1.

The law was first signed by Republican Gov. Eric Holcomb in March and lays out the verification needed by users to access the porn website's material. In addition, the law gives the state's Republican attorney general, and other people, the power to sue the websites if minors can access "harmful" material.

"Would you be OK with a child, walking, physically walking, into an adult novelty store, where there's magazines, videos, toys? No," Rokita said Thursday. "You'd at least, if it was questionable, ask for an ID, so why is it any different online?"

On June 11, Pornhub's parent company, Aylo, filed a lawsuit aimed at blocking the law. The lawsuit argues the state law interferes with free speech and constitutional rights by violating the 1996 Communications Decency Act.

Aylo then announced they would block access to Pornhub in Indiana, claiming they do not take issue with performing age-verification protocol for users, but take issue with the amount of personal information the state wants to require from users.

"Any regulations that require hundreds of thousands of adult sites to collect significant amounts of highly sensitive personal information is putting user safety in jeopardy," part of Aylo's statement to News 8 said. "Moreover, as experience has demonstrated, unless properly enforced, users will simply access non-compliant sites or find other methods of evading these laws."

Rokita spoke directly to privacy concerns, saying the law requires porn websites to destroy confidential user material.

"The General Assembly considered this, and they put the onus on your favorite adult website that you want to go to to erase your data," Rokita said.

To ensure this happens, he will have enforcement authority over that destruction.

"I think that these porn sites don't want to take the risk of having a data breach," Rokita said.

In addition to his enforcing power, the law gives people the right to take legal action against the site if their private information is compromised.

Aylo says the fear of private information leaking simply drives users to different, perhaps more dangerous, sites.

"These people did not stop looking for porn," Aylo's statement said. "They just migrated to darker corners of the internet that don't ask users to verify age, that don't follow the law, that don't take user safety seriously, and that often don't even moderate content. In practice, the laws have just made the internet more dangerous for adults and children."

Similar laws are in effect in Louisiana, where Aylo has seen this scenario play out. A Texas law is also in effect while the U.S. Supreme Court weighs an appeal from the same free speech group suing in the Indiana lawsuit.

A judge will hear arguments on Monday on whether to allow the law to go into effect July 1 or issue an injunction.

Rokita said he plans to defend the law, claiming the porn sites do not want to pay for the correct verification process.

"What this comes down to is that they don't want to spend the money to protect kids," Rokita said. "Because of that, they are part of the problem, they are part of the problem for why our kids are so corrupted."

Good news from Stony Creek Church of Christ

“Behold, I have played the fool” – 1 Sam. 26:21

In 1 Samuel 15:17-23, we read of Saul, king of Israel, but whom God had rejected as king because of his disobedience. Saul was very foolish on many occasions, which is one reason God rejected him as king. But Saul had one redeeming quality: he knew and admitted his foolishness.

JOHN A. SMITH
Think on These Things

Consider these words of the Psalmist: Psa. 19:1 The heavens declare the glory of God, and the sky above proclaims his handiwork. Psa. 14:1 The fool says in his heart, “There is no God.” They are corrupt, they do abominable deeds, there is none who does good.

The disobedient is playing the fool when he rejects the commands of God.

When king Saul disobeyed God, He was told: And Samuel said, “Has the LORD as great delight in burnt offerings and sacrifices, as in obeying the voice of the LORD? Behold, to obey is better than sacrifice, and to listen than the fat of rams (1 Sam. 15:22). God has always demanded obedience from man. Beginning in Eden until the present God expects and deserves obedience.

Consider these words of Solomon: information in no uncertain terms: “The end of the matter; all has been heard. Fear God and keep his commandments, for this is the whole duty of man” (Ecc. 12:13). Jesus asked:

“Why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things that I say?” (Luke 6:46). When one tries to claim the blessings of God before doing His will, such can truly say: “I have played the fool.”

He who trusts in the material things of this world is playing the fool.

Have we learned the truth of what Jesus is teaching in the “Parable of the Rich Fool” (Luke 12:15-21)? We work and we struggle to save and hoard a little of this world's goods, then it is gone, and/or we are gone. Really, what have we accomplished? Solomon says that it is just “striving after the wind” (Eccl. 1:14,17).

What if we do gain much of this world's goods, what then? Jesus asks the question: “For what is a man profited, if he shall gain the whole world, and lose his own soul? or what shall a man give in exchange for his soul?” Mt. 16:26.

How foolish it is to spend a lifetime in pursuit of THINGS which must then be left behind when we depart this life.

But, Paul shows the wisdom of living a true life of Christianity. Note what he says in 2 Cor. 4:16-18: 16 So we do not lose heart.

Though our outer self is wasting away, our inner self is being renewed day by day. 17 For this light momentary affliction is preparing for us an eternal weight of glory beyond all comparison, 18 as we look not to the things that are seen but to the things that are unseen. For the things that are seen are transient, but the things that are unseen are eternal.

Only fools trust in those things that soon perish. It is said that he that works only for the things of this life is smart for a little while but is a fool forever. The Christian puts his trust in the spiritual, the eternal.

To blame others for our own mistakes is to play the fool.

This type of thing started with Adam and even in the Garden. Gen. 3:12.

• Man has been “passing the buck” ever since.

• Mr. Truman had a sign on his desk that said: “The buck stops here.”

• Aaron tried to excuse himself for making an idol, a golden calf, by trying to place the blame on the people. Exo. 32:22-24.

• Saul tried to place the blame for not completing his job of fully destroying the Amalekites on the people. Even though he was the king responsible for such.

Some complain, “No one likes me.” If it is true, one should read Prov. 18:24: A man of many companions may come to ruin, but there is a friend who sticks closer than a brother.

• In other words, if you don't have any friends, you should take a long look at yourself for the reason.

• Thomas Edison is reported to have said that his many inventions were the result of “ninety-nine percent perspiration and one percent inspiration.”

• Success, or if you want to call it “luck,” will usually follow the one who prepares the best and works the hardest.

• And those who do not prepare themselves and refuse to put forth real effort are often the ones who cry loudest about the cruel lot in life which is theirs.

Jesus has said, “Lo, I am with you always, even to the end of the world.” Mt. 28:20.

• But that doesn't mean He will do for us what He tells us to do for ourselves.

• One day, each one of us will stand before the judgment bar of God give an account. Rom. 14:12; 2 Cor. 5:10.

• If we fail that test, we cannot blame God, or Christ or our fellowmen.

Yes, it is very foolish to blame someone else for our failures.

• If we are lost eternally, we can blame no one but ourselves.

• We need to now accept the responsibility for what we do or fail to do. For, in that final day, we will have to.

Conclusion

Yes, Saul said, “I have played the fool.” But I am sure that the majority of us, if we are honest with ourselves, have at one time or another been guilty of the same thing ourselves.

So, let us determine to study and learn God's will:

• After learning it, obey it.

• Serve God, and our fellowman.

• And be ready to accept all the blame that is ours.

To follow any other course than this will be “playing the fool.”

What Will I Take with Me?

When all is said and done and this world is no more, what will I have to show for my life? When I cross the great divide from life to death what will I take with me? I cannot answer the first question for you, but I can the second – NOTHING but my soul. The only thing of eternal value is my soul. Am I making prudent use of it?

We meet at 15530 Herriman Blvd. in Noblesville. Our building is behind the doctor's office and at the stop sign.

At the Stony Creek Church of Christ, we assemble on Sundays and Wednesdays to seek a better understanding of Jesus and His ways. You are encouraged and invited to join us for those studies or call for a private study.

We are working to eliminate Veteran suicide here in Hamilton County and you can help

The 'Stronger Veterans, Stronger Communities' Coalition on the Prevention of Suicide in Service Members, Veterans, and their Families and Caregivers has been a collaborative effort since late 2021 to reduce the number of veteran suicides in Hamilton County. Under the umbrella and leadership of A Healthier Hamilton County: Systems of Care, anyone is welcome to join the Coalition who is interested in preventing suicide. Members include veteran-serving organizations, non-profits, local government, and other entities throughout the county including volunteers and veterans and service members themselves.

The coalition has teamed up with the Indiana Department of Veterans Affairs (IDVA) and will be launching the Governor's Challenge to fight suicide in Veterans here in Hamilton County. We are working collaboratively to leverage all resources for our service members, veterans, and their families to bring meaning and value to their lives. We plan to do this through three the Pillars of the Governor's Challenge - 1. Identifying the service members, veterans, and their families and caregivers, 2. connecting them to resources no matter the level of need, and 3. promoting safety for those in a suicidal crisis.

How will we do all this? We need everyone's help!
The Ask The Question Initiative is part of the Governor's Challenge and has become part of our Plan in Hamilton County. Five local entities have partially launched our Pilot Group and we plan to close that gap soon. We will then promote the initiative to the community, asking that any person-serving organization go through the Ask The Question Initiative process.

The key to Ask The Question is changing how we identify Service Members, Veterans, and their Families and Caregivers in our county. We encourage and will help organizations change their current identification question to the more inclusive "Have you or a family member ever served in the US Military?". If the answer to that broader question is yes, the person will be provided with a QR code that will start the process of linking them to resources.

There are a myriad of resources available for those who are serving, have served, or are related to or caring for someone who was/is in the US Military. The Ask The Question Initiative will help those folks link to helpful resources from the multiple Dimensions of Wellness and Social Determinants of Health. As we know, mental health is impacted by other aspects, and stressors, of our lives. As we identify those in or adjacent to the military and connect them to resources, the community, and one another, potential suicidal crises decrease.

We have built a team and grown alongside the Governor's Challenge with the IDVA, who we recently requested funding to further our projects in here Hamilton County. We were encouraged to think BIG with our ideas and include those organizations that currently serve our Military Veteran community to incorporate their ideas in our 12-24-month strategic plan. This plan will include our Coalition working hand in hand with many community partners to reach our Military and Veterans who are not connected. We will introduce them to those who will get them their benefits and resources they have earned, helping them be more connected thus building stronger Veterans through stronger communities. The more we all know about where to get the benefits and resources we need to address our issues/needs the stronger more connected we all will be!!

Speaking of resources, our partner, the Hamilton County Veterans Corp (HCVC) is hosting a Hamilton County Community Resource Fair July 20, 2024, from 11am to 3pm at the Noblesville Schools Community Center 1775 Field Drive at the north end of the stadium at Noblesville High School. This resource fair is not just for our Military Veteran Community (MVC), it's for all our Hamilton County neighbors! Sure, maybe 30 resources are specific for our MVC but there will be over 85 resources setup inside and outside the community center to help us all live a more fulfilled life right here in Hamilton County. Bring a Veteran, bring a neighbor!

If you are interested in learning more about how you can work with the 'Stronger Veterans, Stronger Communities' Coalition to prevent suicide in Hamilton County's service members and veterans, email kludeker-seibert@hamilton-countyphhc.org.

If you are a Veteran or Active Military and wish to become a member of the Hamilton County Veterans Corp, please send an email to secretary@hamilton-countyveterans.com so you too may help us help our MVC. Our dues is only $25/mo and we meet the first Monday of the month at 7pm at the Fishers American Legion 9091 E 126th St in their big American Room. See you there!

Hear ISO's historic "Mighty Wurlitzer" organ in fundraising concert

The REPORTER

The Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra Association (ISOA) and the Central Indiana Chapter of the American Theatre Organ Society (CICATOS) has announced their theatre organ fundraiser.

On Sunday, Oct. 20 at 2 p.m. in the Hilbert Circle Theatre, 45 Monument Circle, Indianapolis, ISOA and CICATOS will present "Remember the Paramount – the Next Generation." This concert – the third in a series of fundraisers highlighting the capabilities of the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra's "Mighty Wurlitzer" theatre organ – will feature Indianapolis theatre organist Justin Stahl and will introduce Pike High School's Jazz Ensemble. First-generation Paramount Music Palace organist Ken Double will serve as master of ceremonies and may even take a turn at the keyboard.

Featured artist Justin Stahl grew up going to the Paramount Music Palace (PMP) listening and "learning" from the original organists Bill Vlasak, Donna Parker, Ken Double, and Dwight Thomas after discovering a Bill Vlasak/Donna Parker album in his great-grandfather's record collection and learning that the PMP was on the east side of Indianapolis.

Stahl recalls his first and subsequent trips to the PMP: "I'll never forget turning the corner of the long hallway," Stahl said. "It was perfect timing as the organist was just beginning the next set. A low rumble of the bass pipes intoned an experience of music I'll never forget. The whole building shook. The lights came on, the console started rising, and I became instantly hooked ... so began recurring requests to return. Each time I sat at the closest table to the Mighty Wurlitzer so that I could observe the organist operate this amazing machine. I vowed over and over again that I would learn how to play it someday, and the rest, as they say is history."

Stahl, a professional keyboardist and theatre organist who has played the Mighty

Wurlitzer for the Indianapolis Symphony Orchestra's Yuletide Celebration for 11 years, will treat attendees to traditional theatre organ standards, entertain with a silent film to remind everyone of the original purpose of the theatre pipe organ/unit orchestra, and collaborate with the Pike Jazz Ensemble on arrangements that showcase the organ's capabilities and highlight the students' talent.

The Pike High School Jazz Ensemble under the direction of Aaron Burkhart is a talented group of musicians who meet as a class every school day as well as after school rehearsals. Jazz Ensemble 1 is a traditional big band that can also split into different small combos. Jazz 1 participates in festivals, community events, and competitions throughout Indiana. Several Pike Jazz musicians have received outstanding soloist awards at festivals and several graduates of Pike Jazz are studying music at the collegiate level.

Stahl's solo performance will include a tribute to the Sherman brothers with music from Mary Poppins and other popular Disney fare, Dave Brubeck's "It's a Raggy Waltz," and his signature arrangement of "Africa."

As the program concludes, the Pike Jazz Ensemble will join Stahl on stage to delight guests with renditions of the "Cantina Theme" from Star Wars,

Glen Miller's "Moonlight Serenade," and Elton John's "I'm Still Standing."

Proceeds from "Remember the Paramount – the Next Generation" will support ISOA's Side-by-Side educational program that offers high school students an opportunity to perform side-by-side with ISO counterparts during a featured concert. CICATOS proceeds will help fund the continued superb functioning and upkeep of the ISO's Wurlitzer Theatre Organ.

Senator Mike Braun leads bipartisan bill to train more Hoosiers for good-paying jobs

The REPORTER

On Thursday, U.S. Senators Mike Braun (R-Ind.) and Reverend Raphael Warnock (D-Ga.) introduced the Pathways to Prosperity Act. This bill is designed to strengthen America's workforce development pipeline between community/technical colleges and good-paying jobs from local employers.

The bipartisan Pathways to Prosperity Act expands the existing Strengthening Community Colleges Grant Program. This federal program provides competitive grants to community/technical colleges to support partnerships with employers. These partnerships align workforce development programs in community/technical colleges to local industry needs. The idea is to establish, improve, or expand high-quality workforce development programs to get more Hoosiers into jobs that require skills training.

Sen. Braun also authored the JOBS Act with Sen. Tim Kaine (D-Va.), which would make it possible to use Pell Grants for career and technical education programs.

"There are many good-paying jobs out there that go unfilled because of a lack of skills and career/technical training," Sen. Braun said. "This bill will help close the gap and give more Hoosiers access to skills training programs that will put them on the path to a better career and higher pay for their families."

Specifically, the Pathways to Prosperity Act of 2024 would provide funding to:

- Set up, enhance, or broaden the quality of educational or career training initiatives at community colleges

- Enhance opportunities for individuals to attain nationally or regionally recognized postsecondary credentials in high-skill, high-wage, or in-demand industry sectors or occupations

- Develop or scale up career training, career pathways, or work-based learning options like apprenticeships

- Assist individuals with barriers to employment with accessing programs

- Provide support services to help participants complete education and training

Indiana Finance Authority releases update on state water use study

The REPORTER

In November of 2023, Governor Eric Holcomb asked the Indiana Finance Authority (IFA) to conduct a regional water study in the north central region of the state, generally comprised of the upper Wabash River Watershed. IFA staff also determined to expand the study to include the headwaters of the upper Wabash River Watershed.

Two national consulting engineering firms have been retained to perform the 50-year supply and demand study in the region: Stantec Consulting Services and Jacobs Engineering Group, Inc.

The IFA has also formed an advisory committee that meets monthly with the consultants. The committee includes the Indiana Department of Natural Resources, the Indiana Department of Environmental Management, the U.S. Geological Survey, Purdue University, Indiana University, the White River Alliance, and the Indiana Farm Bureau was recently added. IFA staff and or IFA consultants are also collaborating with regional Economic Development agencies, regional utilities, and private industry.

The IFA is committed to providing updates, and since the consultants are wrapping up their work on water demand and shifting their focus to supply, this update has been provided to IFA Board Members on the progress.

Preliminary findings on historical water withdrawals in the 10-county Wabash Headwaters study area (within Indiana) as reported in the Indiana Department of Natural Resources Significant Water Withdrawal Facility database include:

- Total annual water withdrawals increased approximately 136 percent between 1985 and 2005 but have been steadily declining since 2005. The water-use averaged over the entire period of record from 1985 to 2022 reflects an increase of 29 percent. The majority of the variability has been seen in the energy sector.

- All sectors increased their use except public water supply systems (utilities), for which the data show water use decreased by approximately 11 percent over the period of record.

- In 1985, the public water supply sector was the largest water-use category representing approximately 63 percent of total demand, followed by the industrial sector with a demand of 32 percent.

- In contrast, in 2022, the largest water use was in the industrial sector, representing approximately 47 percent of total demand, followed by public water supply systems with a demand of 44 percent.

- Between 2007 and 2009, four new industrial facilities began operations within the region, which is reflected in an increase in water use.

- Although agricultural irrigation increased by 60 percent between 1985 and 2022, it represents a small percentage (approximately 6 percent) of overall use within the region.

- The remaining water uses include energy production, rural use (such as livestock and fish hatcheries), and self-supplied residential.

- The average water withdrawal in 2022 was approximately 63 million gallons per day, 63 percent from groundwater wells, and 37 percent from surface water diversions.

Preliminary findings on historical water withdrawals in the 15-county North Central Indiana area as reported in the Indiana Department of Natural Resources Significant Water Withdrawal Facility database include:

- Total annual water withdrawals increased by 50 percent from 1985 to 2006 but have been steadily declining since 2006 to 80 percent of 1985 levels. The majority of the decline has been seen in the energy sector.

- The top water-withdrawal categories are: the energy sector (approximately 85 percent of total), public water supplies (approximately 6 percent of total), and industrial (approximately 5 percent of total). Note that energy demand is nearly all non-consumptive water use, meaning most of the water is returned to the river after use.

- The water-withdrawal categories that have shown growth (while representing a comparatively small proportion of the total water use) since 1985 include irrigation and rural uses.

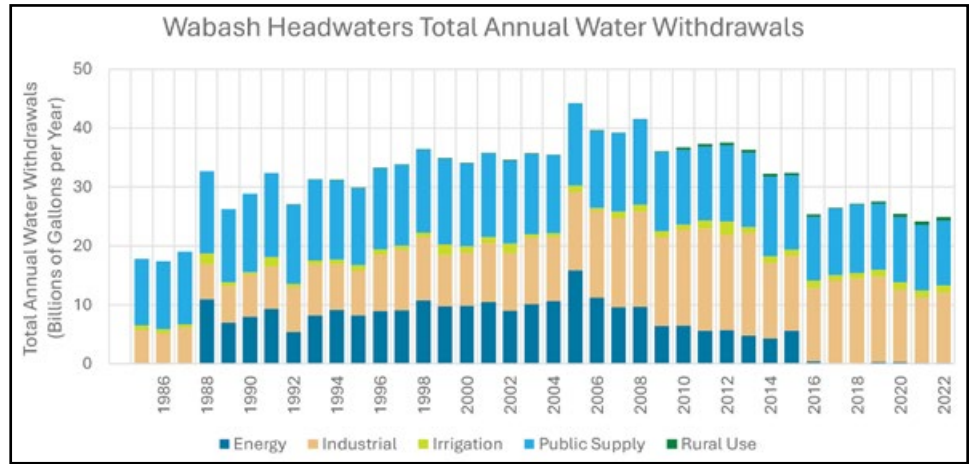

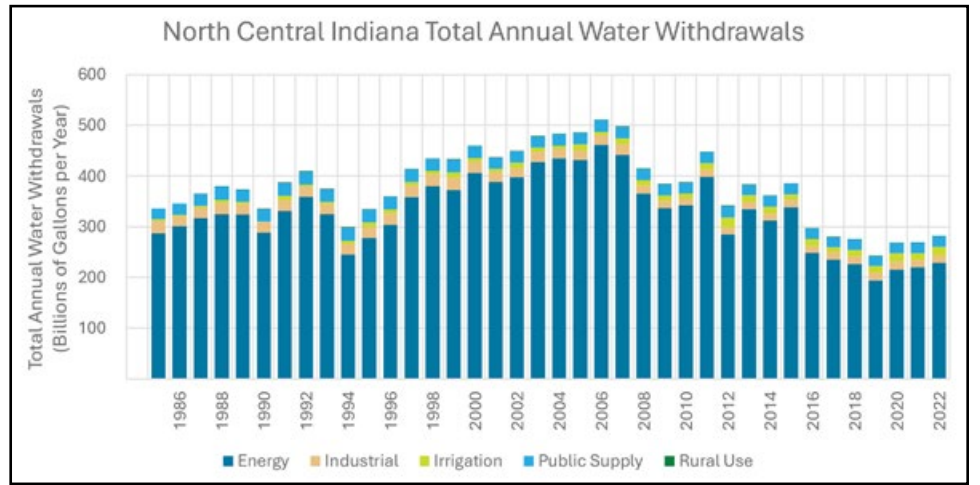

- The water withdrawal categories that have shown declines in water use since 1985 include the industrial, energy, and public water supply sectors.

- The average water withdrawal in 2022 was approximately 770 million gallons per day, 88 percent from surface-water diversions and 12 percent from groundwater wells.

The next steps for the study include collaborating with regional economic development agencies, industry and agricultural representatives, and local utility districts to estimate possible future scenarios of water withdrawals as well as estimate water availability and develop recommendations for the future of resilient water management.

Potential drivers of a change in future water demand include, but are not limited to, energy transition, economic development, changes in population, water conservation, and water-use efficiency.

Graphics provided by IFA

Kent Eric Kercheval
May 22, 1966 – June 17, 2024

Kent Eric Kercheval, 58, Sheridan, passed away on Monday morning, June 17, 2024, surrounded by his wife and loving family, at IU North Hospital in Carmel, following a long and courageous battle with pancreatic cancer.

David and Wanda Kercheval were blessed with the birth of their third son, Kent, on May 22, 1966, in Frankfort, Ind. He graduated from Clinton Central High School in 1984 and later earned a degree in Industrial Illustration from Purdue University.

Kent had a distinguished 15-plus-year career as a Controller for Keystone Cooperative (previously known as Ceres Solutions and Hamilton County Co-Op), where he was known for his innovative problem-solving, matter-of-fact communication style, and infectious laughter. His incredible dedication to providing for his family was evident through his “whatever-it-takes” work ethic. Before working for Keystone, Kent demonstrated an aptitude for anything he attempted professionally. From taxes and accounting with his father, to construction and HVAC; from technical drawing at Allison Gas Turbine, to entrepreneurship; Kent was a self-identified “Jack of All Trades.”

Kent married his childhood sweetheart, Tamme, in 1986. They shared a beautiful life and marriage for what would’ve been 38 years this July, raising four children: Brandon, Bradley, Benjamin, and Baylee. Kent was a devoted husband, father, and Papaw, always placing family as the priority of his life. He always claimed to have “married up,” but Tamme’s reciprocated love for him left no room for doubt – they shared something extraordinary. If you were to ask him about his family, Kent would beam with pride and tell you about the accomplishments of his kids, their spouses, and his grandchildren.

A notorious tinkerer, Kent loved spending time in the garage or around their property, fixing, improving, and solving. He spent many evenings “facing East,” enjoying the fresh country air, and listening to bluegrass, classic country, and gospel music. He was an accomplished musician and singer, known for his beautiful bass voice.

We could always count on Kent to have music playing and enjoyed listening to him sing along.

He was known for his quiet kindness, quick wit, contagious humor, wise counsel, and unwavering integrity. Friends and family will remember his laugh and hugs, balanced with a playful mischievousness.

Kent is survived by the love of his life, Tamara Lynn (Scobee) Kercheval. She and Kent were married on July 5, 1986. Also surviving are three sons, Brandon Kent Kercheval (Lydia) of Columbus, Ind., Bradley Eric Kercheval (Heather) of Westfield, and Benjamin Lee Kercheval (Ashley) of Evans, Ga.; daughter, Baylee Lynn Demaree (Andrew) of Jamestown; five grandchildren, Hazel, Oliver, Adaline, Corinne, and Kovala; his mother, Wanda Lee (Harris) Kercheval of Kirklintown; three brothers, Kevin Lee Kercheval (Melea) of Michigantown, Kyle David Kercheval (Denise) of Sheridan, and Karl Neil Kercheval (Jessica) of Michigantown; and by many cousins, nieces, and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his father, David Lee Kercheval; paternal grandparents, Everett and Lucille Kercheval; maternal grandparents, Russell “Rut” and Avianell “Avi” Harris; and by his brother-in-law, Mark Aaron Scobee.

A celebration of Kent’s life will take place at 6 p.m. on Monday, June 24, 2024, at Kercheval Funeral Home, 306 E. 10th St., Sheridan, with visitation from 3 p.m. until the time of service. Pastor Jerome Sack of Radiant Christian Life will be officiating. Kent will be laid to rest at Oak Hill Cemetery in Kirklintown, Ind., at a later date. If you wish to donate funds, all proceeds received at the celebration will be made to Pancreatic Cancer Research in Kent’s honor.

The family would like to extend their heartfelt gratitude to the staff of IU North Hospital and IU Health Central Indiana Cancer Center in Fishers for their compassionate care and support over the last 16 months.

Kent’s legacy of love, kindness, and dedication will live on in the hearts and testimonies of all who knew him. Condolences: kerchevalfuneralhome.com

TODAY’S BIBLE READING

THE ISRAELITES OPPRESSED

Then a new king, to whom Joseph meant nothing, came to power in Egypt. “Look,” he said to his people, “the Israelites have become far too numerous for us. Come, we must deal shrewdly with them or they will become even more numerous and, if war breaks out, will join our enemies, fight against us and leave the country.”

So they put slave masters over them to oppress them with forced labor, and they built Pithom and Rameses as store cities for Pharaoh. But the more they were oppressed, the more they multiplied and spread; so the Egyptians came to dread the Israelites and worked them ruthlessly. They made their lives bitter with harsh labor in brick and mortar and with all kinds of work in the fields; in all their harsh labor the Egyptians worked them ruthlessly.

University's Kelsey DuBois experiences perfect start to her college career at NYU

Violets earn NCAA Division III title following 31-0 record

By RICHIE HALL
sports@readthereporter.com

Kelsey DuBois can honestly say that her first season of college basketball was perfect.

After four successful years at University High School, DuBois went to the Big Apple to continue her basketball and academic career, committing to New York University. The Violets had a young team, but it turned out to be a winning team: NYU completed a 31-0 season, culminating with the NCAA Division III championship.

"We never expected anything to actually happen, but we always had it in the back of our minds, there's a chance this group could go all the way," said DuBois. "We didn't want to waste any opportunities."

The 2023-24 Violets could be called a youth-movement team: eight of the women on the roster were freshmen, including DuBois. But there was solid experience on the NYU squad as well. Two players tied for leading-scorer honors: Senior Natalie Bruns and graduate transfer Morgan Morrison both averaged 14.3 points per game.

"I think going into the season, we had great people coming back, we had fantastic upperclassmen coming back," said DuBois. She also said those players "had experience on winning teams."

That's something DuBois also has. She was a four-year player for the Trailblazers, with the team compiling a 77-16 record over that time. University won regional championships in 2021 and 2022, DuBois' sophomore and junior years.

After graduating from UHS in 2023, DuBois and her fellow freshmen moved into the NYU campus a week before school started, giving them time to get adjusted. They began activities a couple weeks later such as lifting and pickup games.

DuBois said that because the game was quicker and the court is longer "you've got to be at a different level of conditioning," calling it "definitely something that took me a while to get adjusted to."

The Violets began their season Nov. 10, 2023 by hosting Massachusetts Institute of Technology – the world-famous MIT – as part of the Scholars Classic. New York won that game 88-55, with DuBois coming off the bench to play eight minutes.

"Something I've been dreaming about since I was super little was actually happening, it was crazy," said DuBois. She admitted that she was "very, very nervous going into" the game.

"I didn't know what to expect," said DuBois. "Even just putting on the jersey for the first time, it was like, 'Oh shoot, this is for real.' But she credited the upperclassmen with doing a "great job of calming my nerves," helping her to remember that she has playing for a while.

New York rolled through its regular season, winning all 25 of their games. Only two teams were able to get within 10 points of the Violets during that stretch. Because of that, NYU was the overall top seed in the D-III tournament.

And the Violets played like a top seed, cruising through six more games to win the championship. New York played its final two games of the year in Columbus, Ohio, beating Transylvania 57-42 in the semifinals on March 14, then taking care of Smith College 51-41 in the March 16 championship.

The 10-point victory was the closest of the tournament for the Violets. DuBois didn't play, but said the atmosphere was "super exciting that whole game."

"It felt a lot closer than what I feel like it actually was," said DuBois. "It was fun to see the team in that manner, that fashion. It was a really loud game. We tried to make it feel like it was a home environment, yelling, calling out plays. It was so fun to watch."

DuBois played in 26 of the Violets' 31 games, averaging 2.3 points and 2.2 rebounds per contest. She got to start in one game, NYU's Dec. 3 date with Connecticut College. DuBois collected eight rebounds in that game and scored four points, all from the free throw in a 4-for-4 effort.

"We had meetings with our coach scheduled that week, and during that meeting, our coach told me that our starting center went down with an ankle injury," said DuBois. She was told she would be starting that game; DuBois was told ahead of time since her coaches were aware she might nervous.

But DuBois said her teammates did a good job of helping her stay calm. The team chemistry was important, as the eight freshmen were joined by three graduate students who transferred on to the team.

"We outnumbered the returners," said DuBois. So, the returners had to teach several new people about being a student-athlete and living in New York. As a result, DuBois said "there was a good adjustment period with everyone" as they figured out how to become a team.

"Within the first week, they had us on the subway, teaching us how to live in New York," said DuBois.

Living in New York is obviously different from living in Noblesville or Carmel, the places in which DuBois grew up. She called the adjustment "a little bit abrupt. But I think I adjusted fairly well." DuBois now loves New York and doesn't want to leave.

"Other girls came from big cities, so they helped me adjust as they were adjusting, which was very helpful," said DuBois.

With her sophomore year soon to start, DuBois said she is considering a major in "public policy, a pre-law track." Her plan as of right now is to go to law school and is thinking about "something in the realm of working with non-profits or things like that."

Rajeev Ram will represent Carmel at Paris Olympics

The REPORTER

Carmel tennis star Rajeev Ram is heading back to the Olympics.

The six-time Grand Slam champion is one of 11 players that will represent the United States on the U.S. Olympic Tennis Team for the Paris 2024 games. Ram will pair with Austin Krajicek to form one of the two men's doubles teams for the U.S. at the Olympics.

Ram is currently ranked No. 6 in the world in doubles, while Krajicek is ranked 15th. The men's team also includes world singles No. 12 Taylor Fritz, No. 13 Tommy Paul, No. 44 Chris Eubanks and No. 53 Marcos Giron. Coached by 2012 Olympic doubles gold medalist and Davis Cup captain Bob Bryan, the U.S. men's team will also feature four singles players (Fritz, Paul, Eubanks and Giron), while Fritz and Paul will play doubles together.

The women's team includes singles world No. 2 Coco Gauff, No. 5 Jessica Pegula, No. 11 Danielle Collins, No. 17 Emma Navarro, and doubles No. 11 Desirae Krawczyk. Coached by USTA Head of Women's Tennis Kathy Rinaldi, the U.S. women's team will feature four singles players in Paris (Gauff, Pegula, Collins and Navarro) and two doubles teams: Gauff and Pegula, Collins and Krawczyk.

The U.S. will also announce its one mixed doubles team that will compete in Paris, taken from the above-named players, at a later date.

Team nominations are subject to approval by the United States Olympic & Paralympic Committee and the International Tennis Federation. The United States Paralympic tennis team will be announced in late July.

The 2024 Olympic Games will be held from July 26 to Aug. 11 in Paris, with the tennis competition staged from July 27 to Aug.

4 at Roland Garros. The U.S. has won 24 Olympic medals (14 gold) in men's and women's tennis since it returned as a full medal sport in 1988, more than any other nation.

Ram, a mixed doubles silver medalist in 2016 in Rio, will compete in his third consecutive Olympics. Competing in their second Games are 2021 Tokyo Olympians Pegula, Paul, Giron and Krajicek, while Gauff – who was named to compete in 2021 in Tokyo but did not compete after testing positive for COVID-19 – Collins, Navarro, Krawczyk, Fritz and Eubanks will make their Olympic debuts.

Ram, 40, will be competing in his third consecutive Olympics, having competed in Tokyo 2021 and earning the mixed doubles silver medal with Venus Williams in Rio 2016. A former doubles world No. 1, Ram has won four major men's doubles titles – the Australian Open in 2020 and the US Open in each of the last three years.

In addition, Ram won two Australian Open mixed doubles titles, in 2019 and 2021. He's won 31 overall career ATP doubles titles, including the year-end ATP Tour Finals each of the last two years. He led the University of Illinois to a 32-0 season and NCAA team title in 2003 in his one season of college tennis, also winning the NCAA doubles title.

Eligible singles players have the opportunity to accept or decline the nomination to the 2024 Olympic tennis team. If a tennis player declines, the next highest-ranked American singles tennis player has the nomination extended to them.

Tennis was part of the Olympic program from the first modern Olympiad in 1896 until 1924. After a 64-year hiatus, tennis returned to the official Olympic program in 1988, becoming the first sport to feature professional athletes.
