A new Chapter opens in October

The REPORTER

Noblesville, Reporter columnist Janet Hart Leonard peeked into the bookstore and chatted with Brooke Heffernan and Jen Todderud.

Once upon a time, two little girls who loved to read met in college and then moved next door to each other. One night, they chatted and shared their thoughts about opening a bookstore. What if dreams come true, and a new chapter in their lives leads them to open that bookstore?

Jen Todderud and Brooke Heffernan were those little girls, and Chapter Books and Lounge is their bookstore, which will open in early October in downtown Noblesville.

Who doesn't love walking into a bookstore and finding an adventure in the pages of a book? What if that bookstore had a place where you While walking downtown could sit and enjoy a cocktail or mocktail named after real people? What if you could enjoy a small plate from Bica Café and a cup of coffee or tea while sitting in a comfy chair, reading your book, and snacking on truffle popcorn?

You can soon find your way to 996 Conner St., where your favorite authors' books will be tucked into the shelves. Signature Candles by Michelle Mallaber, as well as other gift items, will be available.

Think cozy. Think sweet ambiance. Think just what you dream the perfect bookstore could be.

Themed parties are in the works. Book clubs will be invited. Gently loved, preowned books for sale will be tucked into a corner.

The search for an endgame to tobacco use, part 1

For decades, public health officials and anti-tobacco activists have talked about the "endgame" in tobacco control. It refers to laws and policies that would virtually end tobacco use.

COLUMNIST RICHARD D. FELDMAN, M.D. State of Our Health

Great strides have been made in reducing smoking in the past half-century. These measures include smoke-free laws, increasing cigarette taxes, anti-smoking media campaigns, state tobacco prevention and cessation programs, and the Master Settlement Agreement requiring the tobacco industry to pay states billions of dollars to compensate for state-incurred health-care costs.

Congress restricted tobacco advertising, mandated tobacco warning labels on product packaging, banned flavored cigarettes (except menthol), increased the legal age for sales to 21, and gave the U.S. Federal Food and Drug Administration authority to comprehensively regulate tobacco products including product nicotine content (natural or synthetic).

These efforts have resulted in the reduction in the social acceptability of smoking, especially in public. It has also drastically reduced the percentage of adult smoking to an all-time low nationally of 11 percent (Indiana is 19 percent). Adolescent tobacco smoking has also greatly decreased in the past 25 years but unfortunately has been replaced by vaping.

Cicero Christian Church, 1715 Stringtown Pike, will soon sponsor a "Fall Into Giving" Versiti Blood Drive in the church gym. The upcoming blood drive is set for 2:30 to 7 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 9.

In the United States, nearly 7 million people selflessly give blood every year, serving as a lifeline for countless individuals in need.

The goal for this drive is 25 units of blood. Did you know: if all donors gave just once more during the year, the risk of blood shortages would decrease. By giving once every season, you can help bridge the gap for those who don't give as often.

With the upcoming holiday season, it is even more important to make sure there is an adequate supply of blood available in local hospitals. One in seven patients entering a hospital requires the availability of blood for various medical reasons. Additionally, a staggering 25 percent of all blood donations are used for cancer patients, and blood transfusions are essential in one out of every 83 newborn deliveries in America today.

The need for blood is urgent and constant. Every two seconds, someone in our country requires blood, and on any given day, an average of 42,000 blood components are used by patients. That amounts to more than 15 million red blood cells, platelets, and plasma transfused last year alone. Despite this high demand, only 3 percent of all Americans choose to donate blood.

If you can donate during this drive you will be entered into America's Superstar Ticket Sweepstakes for a chance to win two floor tickets to Taylor Swift's Eras Tour stop on Nov. 1, 2024, in Indianapolis, as well as a $500 Visa gift card to assist with related expenses. disease and premature death in the U.S. with 521,000 tobacco-related deaths yearly. One in five deaths is caused by tobacco use; one-half of smokers will eventually die a threshold birthdate after from their tobacco addiction.

It's widely thought that the remaining percentage of people smoking is extremely difficult to reduce, hence the endgame-strategy discussion. One strategy gaining steam is referred to as a "birthdate phaseout" approach. Recent commenleading cause of preventable taries including an article in the May 30 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine call attention to this age-based strategy.

> The idea is to institute which it would be illegal to sell tobacco products to anyone with later birthdates. For example, using a birthdate of Jan. 1, 2009, would prevent individuals currently too young to legally purchase tobacco from buying it their entire lives. Eventually, no one would be able to purchase tobacco, and depending on the law, other nicotine-containing products.

This strategy would not affect tobacco access to those born before the threshold birthdate and current addicted smokers. It would also not sanction those illegally buying tobacco but only the retailers selling it.

The concept of a birthdate phaseout has been circulating worldwide for decades. New Zealand passed such a law in 2022 but subsequently repealed it with change in governmental leadership. The approach is currently being considered in the U.K., the European Union, Norway, Australia, and some Asian countries. In the U.S., Brookline, Mass., enacted a phaseout in 2020, and since being upheld by the state's Supreme Court as constitutional, it's being considered by other Massachusetts localities. A municipal law would have relatively little impact; eventually it would have to be followed by state or federal laws to be truly effective.

Legislative proposals differ in what products are prohibited. Some include only combustible tobacco products as in the U.K. Others like Brookline's are broader and include vapes.

Endgame strategies including the birthdate phaseout could create a tobacco/ nicotine-free generation and eventually a society free from tobacco product toxins and carcinogens. Millions of lives and billions in healthcare costs would be saved. But there are substantial barriers to enactment such as loss of state tobacco-tax revenue and opposing business and political pressures.

Next month, I will review another novel endgame strategy.

35 local artists represented in Fishers Juried Exhibit

The REPORTER

Fishers Municipal Center welcomed the Fishers Arts Council (FAC) into its bright, open gallery space for the fifth annual Juried Exhibit of Hamilton County Artists awards ceremony on Friday evening, Sept. 13.

As in the previous four years, Jiffy Lube of Indiana was the art competition's title sponsor, and Jiffy Lube of Indiana CEO Steve Sanner was present to welcome artists and guests. This vear. Noblesville Creates stepped in as the new People's Choice award sponsor, with its executive director, Ailithir McGill, presenting the award. This year the boundary for the exhibit was extended to a mile beyond the county line, permitting artists who consider Hamilton County their home, but reside in surrounding counties

The "Best in Show" winner was Carmel resident Jerry Mannell for his painting "Harbinger." He received an award of $1,000, a solo exhibit for 2025, and the following comment from the show's judge, Dan Annarino:

"Anyone looking at this painting for the first time needs to think about it. 'What's it all about?' Might the viewer see a bird -aCardinal, perhaps - and a mailbox? There are so many ways to look at this painting because it has so much depth. The subtle colors work well. The composition/balance is very good because the painting itself is so active. There is lots of movement in this kinetic presentation."

Best Landscape, sponsored by Wasson Nursery, was awarded to Karissa Rumsey of Fishers for "Pemaquid Lighthouse."

Casey Williams of Mc-Cordsville won Best Floral/ Other for "Garden Goddess." Noblesville artist Deborah Smith received Best Portrait/Figurative for her oil painting, "A Midsummer Day's Dream." "Nature's Layers," a mixed media piece by Caroline Hays of Noblesville, won Best Abstract. Each of these artists received $600.

Two merit awards were also presented, courtesy of a grant from Walmart #5767. Recipients were Brinton Farrand of Cicero and Craig Mullins of Indianapolis. All winners were selected by juror Dan Annarino of West Lafayette.

There was also stiff competition for the Noblesville Creates People's Choice award, with patrons voting on Facebook and in-person in the gallery. The winner was Fishers resident Stephanie Carignan with her impasto work, "Weathered & Woven Grassland." It received the most overall votes, both online and in-person and a $250 cash prize.

All of these award-winning paintings are for sale, as are almost all of the other equally amazing works in the gallery through Sept. 28. FAC hopes that many Hamilton County residents, and others, will visit the Art Gallery at City Hall in the Fishers Municipal Center and experience the art and enjoy the work of many talented people in our area.

Guests can visit the gallery in person at 1 Municipal Drive from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday to Friday, and from 10 a.m. to noon Sept. 28. You can also see the juried exhibit in the online gallery on Facebook page at Facebook.com/ FishersArt.

Changing your diet to fit the season

"It was а beautiful, bright autumn day with air like cider and a sky so blue you could drown in it." – Diana Gabaldon, Outlander Let's talk about seasonal eating, something that was common most humans simply due to necessity. No "Chick-fil-A" around the corner!

The changing of the seasons has a marked effect on our bodies. The arrival of autumn brings with it shorter days, and lowering the influence of the sun can also be seen on a physical level, because UV rays stimulate the production of vitamin D, which is useful to bones and able to strengthen our immune systems. Sunlight also stimulates the production of serotonin, helps muscle relaxation and regulates biological rhythms. Even when the days become shorter, it is important to spend some time outdoors which allows the body to produce melanin during the night, improving the quality of sleep and acting directly on the hormonal balance.

To help us stay on the right side of Vitamin D, look to items such as figs, mushrooms, salmon and other oily fish, cashews, and hazelnuts, as well as Vitamin D-fortified cereals and drinks. (I personally add a Vitamin D supplement; please check with your physician for a recommendation of supplementation.)

Root vegetables are definitely in season and would include carrots, squash (butternut is my favorite!) pumpkin of course, sweet potatoes, turnips (which I admit are an acquired taste) and vegetables such as bell peppers, spinach, kale, artichokes, and broccoli.

Whole grains such as brown rice, quinoa, and oats are also good sources of Vitamin D. Don't forget the fiber of beans, chickpeas, and fitness activity.

to add fresh garlic, herbs such as rosemary and basil, and spices to your recipes. By doing so, we can boost our immune systems. For centuries, humans have used herbs, spices, and fresh through the centuries for foods to treat illness and ailments. Continue to use your outdoor grills as well; veggies are very tasty when grilled with herbs as spices as noted above.

Trips to local apple orchards are de rigueur this time of year and many different varieties are available depending on your personal preference of taste. One of my favorite items as we move into Fall is roasted chestnuts. I first became acquainted with their warm, sweet taste in Rome a few years ago on a rainy and chilly November day. There were street vendors on many corners selling these delights and I recommend for a tasty, delicate, and warm treat. You can roast these at home in your oven and it is simple project for one of those chilly Fall days. Depending on your oven, there is a variety of ways to achieve the best result and you can find that information easily online.

As we prepare our palates for this change of season, experiment with recipes which incorporate many of the items mentioned above and I imagine you will find that you feel better, have more energy, and even sleep better because your body will thank you for giving it the attention it deserves!

Bon appétit my friends, Sharon McMahon, CNWC

Noblesville man dies after jumping into retention pond

The REPORTER

Last Friday, Sept. 20, at approximately 4:01 p.m., Noblesville police officers and firefighters responded to the area of Windwood Parkway and Hague Road in reference to a 911 call of a person in a retention pond.

The caller stated that the middle-aged man was seen in the pond standing on top of the water fountain located in the middle of the pond. The caller stated the subject then jumped back in the water and never resurfaced.

Officers and firefighters arrived on the scene a short time later and immediately attempted to locate the subject. A diver from the fire department was able to locate the subject submerged underwater near where he was last seen. Immediate medical attention and care was provided, and the subject was transported by ground ambulance to Riverview Health in Noblesville in critical condition. The subject was pronounced deceased a short time after arriving at the hospital.

The deceased has been identified as Zachery R. Polson, 35, Noblesville. The cause of death will be determined by the Hamilton County Coroner's Office.

nounced last week that WTIU Public Television's documentary Major Taylor: Champion of the Race will be part of its lineup for the 33rd Heartland International Film Festival, taking place Oct. 10 to 20 in Indianapolis and Noblesville.

The 11-day festival, which was named on Mov*ieMaker Magazine's* Top 25 Coolest Film Festivals in the World for 2023, will showcase more than 110 feature films – 28 World/North American/U.S. Premieres, 73 regional premieres, 20 Special Presentations from major distributors, and 10 Indiana Spotlight films, including Major Taylor.

Major Taylor: Champion of the Race explores the life and legacy of track cycling champion, civil rights activist, and Hoosier hero Marshall Walter "Major" Taylor. Born in Indianapolis in 1878, Taylor was the world's first black sports fastest man in the world by reporters, Taylor's talent in cycling – the most popular and lucrative sport of the era – was celebrated by leading publications across the globe and by notable figures such as Booker T. Washington and Theodore Roosevelt.

On the track, Taylor captured more than 20 world records during his career. Off the track, he was an early civil rights pioneer who fought for greater social opportunities for African Americans in the heart of Jim Crow America.

Major Taylor will be screened two times during the Heartland International Film Festival: 7 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 12 at Landmark Glendale 12 (6102 N. Rural St., Indianapolis) and at 3:45 p.m. Friday, Oct. 18 at Living Room Theaters (745 E. 9th St. Suite 810, Indianapolis). Major Taylor producer and director Todd Gould will attend both events and participate in Q&A sessions following the screenings.

Tickets to the Heartland International Film Festival can be purchased at HeartlandFilmFestival.org or at the theater 30 minutes before the film starts.

The Heartland International Film Festival selection is one of several honors that Major Taylor has recently received. In May, Todd Gould was named the winner of the Marshall "Major" Taylor Trailblazer Award for his work on the documentary. This award was a joint presentation by the Bronzeville Trail Task Force, a citizen activist group dedicated to preserving and promoting the historical legacy of Chicago's African American community, and U.S. Representative Jonathan L. Jackson (D-Ill.-1). Then in June, Major Taylor was screened on Capitol Hill before members of Congress, staff-

9 to 5 is about to clock out, so get your seats before they are all gone

By DANIEL SHOCK A Seat on the Aisle

The Belfry Theatre of Noblesville kicks off its 60th season with a production of 9 to 5: The Musical. The show is based on the hit 1980 movie of the same name, which stars Dolly Parton, Lily Tomlin, and Jane Fonda as three employees who have become fed up with the leering sexism of their boss, portrayed by Dabney Coleman in the film.

Turning the movie into a musical required more songs, and Dolly Parton who wrote the original "9 to 5" song – came through with 13 new numbers for the show. These new songs blend well into the familiar storyline, helping bring the bold personalities and struggles of the lead characters to life with Dolly's signature style of humor and charm. I confess, I've never actually watched the movie, but its impact on popular culture is hard to escape.

This production, co-directed by Carla Crandall and Barcia Alejos, gets off to a shaky start with the opening number, "9 to 5," which caused some concern for how the show might go. The ensemble seemed under-rehearsed and struggled to keep their dance movements in sync. However, after the opening, as we are introduced to the various characters, the cast seemed to find their footing.

The three leads were well cast in their roles. Amanda Falcone, as Violet, portrayed a woman who is excellent at her job, impatient, and eager to ascend the corporate ladder while also growing weary of her boss Franklin Hart Jr.'s constant belittling and dismissive attitude toward her. Claire Donnelly steps into Dolly's role, Doralee, with a strong voice and a great sense of humor, perfectly capturing the character's charm. Kristin Hilger rounds out the trio as Judy, the new employee who, inexperienced and suddenly left on her own after her husband leaves her, starts off lacking in confidence. Hilger plays the part well, showing Judy's transformation into a more self-assured woman as the show progresses. All three leads sing well and share great chemistry on stage.

Darrin Gowan, as the villain of the show – boss Franklin Hart Jr. – delivers a solid performance and is, at times, shocking in his portrayal of the sexist man who sees his female employees as nothing more than pets existing for his pleasure. I say shocking because the leering and comments writ- Fielding. The costumes by ten for the character are so out of bounds that they remind me how far we've come – and still how relevant this story still is.

The supporting cast features some standout moments as well. Two performances that surprised me were from Stephani Gable, who portrayed Roz, and Jared Gaddis, who played Joe, everyone's favorite accountant. When each of them began their respective solos, I was genuinely taken aback – in the best way. Both are strong singers, and their performances significantly contributed to my enjoyment of the show. Also worth mentioning is Ben Ohning, who gave a natural and believable performance in the role of Violet's son, Josh.

The set was a very nice design by Jay Ganz and Jose Alejos, bringing to mind the modern art of Edward Gail Sanders, Justice Nielsen, and Carla Crandall were very fitting for the era. Unfortunately, the sound was a bit hit or miss, with microphones sometimes going in and out, but it was easily overlooked.

I enjoyed the show. With a few more dance rehearsals and some tech improvements to the microphones, the show could really blossom into a fine community theatre production.

The Belfry's 9 to 5: The Musical will be performed at Noblesville First United Methodist Church, 2051 Monument St. The remaining performances are:

- Thursday, Sept. 26, 8 p.m. • Friday, Sept. 27, 8 p.m.

Celebrate Beethoven at Carmel Symphony Orchestra's opening night

The REPORTER

The highly anticipated opening night of the Carmel Symphony Orchestra's (CSO) 2024-2025 season will pay tribute to the legendary composer Ludwig van Beethoven. Conducted by Damien Geter and featuring soloists from the Indianapolis Opera, the CSO will perform Beethoven's Symphony No. 9, including Ode to Joy, and Les Pre*ludes* by Franz Liszt at 7:30 p.m. Saturday, Oct. 5 at The Palladium.

Beethoven's Symphony No. 9, completed in 1824, was his final major work. It premiered in Vienna when that city had become a police state and historians have noted that Beethoven wrote this inspirational work to serve as a cry for unity, freedom, and brotherhood. The piece is the first example of a composer scoring vocal parts in a symphony and it is one of the most frequently performed in the world. The fourth and final movement of the symphony, commonly known as the Ode to Jov, features four vocal soloists and a chorus in the parallel key of D major. The poem by Friedrich Schiller inspired Beethoven's choral component of this symphony.

What makes this piece so remarkable is that it was written when Beethoven's deafness meant he would never hear this work performed or the thundering applause from the audiences who experienced it. He would have had to imagine what it would sound like based on his auditory memory.

Four soloists from the Indianapolis Opera will be performing with the Carmel Symphony Orchestra for Beethoven's 9th Symphony Ode to Joy. They are:

- Rachel Purvis, Soprano
- · Lyndsay Moy, Mezzo-soprano
- Will Upham, Lyric Tenor

Conductor Damien Geter

The conductor for the Oct. 5 performance will be the accomplished Damien Geter, an Indiana favorite, who will bring the perspective of a vocalist and composer to his direction of this show. He is an acclaimed composer, having created chamber, vocal, orchestral, and full operatic works. An accomplished bass-baritone, Geter started his career as a resident artist with the Indianapolis Opera and later with the Metropolitan Opera in New York. He has performed in various venues from the operatic stage to television. Geter also has ties to the Carmel community, having taught music classes at University High School from 2004 to 2015.

The Meijer Pharmacy team is preparing for a busy vaccination season ahead. The Midwest, family-operated retailer is encouraging customers to protect themselves and their communities by getting vaccinated against influenza, RSV, COVID-19, and other illnesses, offering both scheduled and walk-in appointments during pharmacy hours.

"As the one-stop shop for all your health and wellness needs, Meijer makes it easy and convenient for our customers to stay up to date on their vaccines," said Jackie Morse, Group Vice President of Pharmacy and Health at Meijer. "With children back in school and Midwest temperatures expected to drop later this month, it's the perfect time for everyone to review their vaccination needs and make sure they're protected. Vaccines help prevent health issues that can cause people to miss work and family time, placing an unnecessary strain on their lives."

According to CDC guidelines, everyone aged 6 months and older should get an updated influenza (flu) vaccine to help prevent the highly contagious respiratory virus and the updated COVID-19 vaccine this fall. The updated COVID-19 vaccine is developed every vear to align with circulating COVID variants, similar to how the flu vaccine is reformulated annually.

Respiratory syncytial virus (RSV) is a respiratory virus that usually causes mild, cold-like symptoms. All adults over age 75 should be protected with the RSV vaccine. Adults aged 60 to 74 who have certain at-risk conditions, such as severe diabetes, heart disease, and chronic lung conditions, should also be protected.

Meijer is also emphasizing the importance of staying up to date on other critical vaccinations, such as shingles, hepatitis A and B, tetanus, and pneumococcal. These vaccines play a vital role in preventing serious illnesses and maintaining overall health.

To make an appointment, please visit the Meijer Pharmacy website, text "vaccine" to 75049, or visit your local Meijer Pharmacy today.

Lt. Gov. Crouch participates during Brain Days, part of 79th United Nations General Assembly

The REPORTER

Lt. Gov. Suzanne Crouch joined other leaders from around the world last Friday, Sept. 20, for a discussion on mental health during Brain Days at The Science Summit, part of the 79th United Nations General Assembly (UNGA79).

The panel brought together influential state leaders who have spearheaded initiatives in school-based youth mental health support.

The goal of the panel was to explore the journey from conceptualizing support systems to actual implementation, offering attendees actionable insights for applying these ideas in their states. Attendees walked away equipped with strategies to transform big ideas into impactful, sustainable statewide programs. "It was indeed an honor to be invited to participate in Brain Days during the Crouch 79th United Nations General Assembly for my advocacy of Hoosiers fighting mental illness and addiction," said Crouch, who also serves as Indiana's Secretary of Agriculture and Rural Development.

Joining Crouch on the panel were North Carolina Secretary of Health Kody Kinsley, Colorado Lt. Gov. Diane Primavera, and Chair of House Education Comton) Sharon Tomiko Santos.

"I am encouraged with what we're doing in Indiana as evidenced by the General Assembly earmarking historic amounts of funding in the current state budget, $100 million over two years, solely to address the state's mental health crisis," Crouch said. "2023's Senate Enrolled Act 1 allocated funding for various efforts to expand services and bolster local infrastructure across Indiana to better meet the mental health needs of Hoosiers. While we are making progress in sup-mittee (Washing- porting those who struggle with mental health challenges, we must do more to fully overcome the crisis at hand. Particularly, we must continue to analyze and address mental health issues in our most vulnerable populations - the youth and aging populations - as well as ensure the mental health industry has a sufficient workforce, capacity and resources to meet current demand."

Long an advocate for early childhood development, Lt. Gov. Crouch was the co-author of legislation in 2013 that created the On My Way Pre-K Program in 2013 when she was a state representative. The program is now offered in all 92 counties.

Ruth Ellen Edwards July 14, 1933 – September 22, 2024

Ruth Ellen Edwards, 91, entered eternal rest on Sunday, September 22, 2024, at her home in Arcadia. Ruth was born in the small town of Dugger, Ind., to Floyd and Ethel Waddell on July 14, 1933.

On October 22, 1960, she married Gene Edwards and they spent 42 years of marriage together before Gene's passing in 2002.

Ruth graduated from Windfall High School in 1951, after which she had a few different jobs until choosing to work in the cafeteria for Walnut Grove High School and then Hamilton Heights High School for over 37 years.

A homemaker in the truest sense of the word, Ruth enjoyed and excelled in all things domestic. When she wasn't outside tending to the garden or the family farm, she could be found inside cooking and baking; she was especially known for her pies and cookies. Ruth also loved reading and was a faithful member of Omega Christian Church, but by far her greatest delight was found in spending time with her friends and family.

Ruth was a loving mother, grandmother, great-grandmother, and sister. She is survived by her son, Glenn (Jennifer) Edwards of Tipton; stepdaughter, Dinah (Marvin) Thacker of Tippecanoe, Ind.; stepdaughter, Karen (Michael) Gordon of Argos, Ind.; stepson, Tom (Susan) Edwards of Spencerville; stepson, Roy (Donna) Edwards of East Ridge, Tenn.; and sister, Reba Hale of Kokomo. She is also survived by 17 grandchildren, 28 great-grandchildren, and several nieces and nephews.

Along with her husband Gene and her parents, Ruth was preceded in death by her brother, Jack Waddell.

Services for Ruth will be conducted Thursday, Septem-

Ilene K. McHone June 14, 1952 – September 20, 2024

Ilene Karen McHone, 72, Carmel, went to be in the loving arms of Jesus on September 20, 2024, while surrounded by loved ones. Ilene was born on June 14, 1952, to Sheldon and Dorothy Frazier in Kankakee, Ill. Ilene spent her childhood years in the Kankakee/Bradley/Bourbonnais area, helping her parents and four siblings on their family farm and homestead. In her youth, Ilene developed a strong work ethic, generous nature, kind heart, and a true appreciation for family, all of which she carried with her through her life. In reading and often could be found snuggled up with a blanket the early 1970s, Ilene began decorating cakes by learning from a Wilton magazine and helped her sister with her wedding cake. Ilene went on to make cakes for other friends and family at a young age.

Ilene graduated in 1970 from Bradley-Bourbonnais Community High School. Her love for children led her to go on to study at Olivet Nazarene University in Bourbonnais, Ill., where she graduated in 1974 with a bachelor's degree in early education. After graduation, Ilene began teaching elementary school. She eventually taught at Westside Christian School in Indianapolis. It was in Indiana that Ilene met the love of her life, Mike, when the two of them were at the same church and both wanted to hold a fellow churchgoer's baby at the same time. Little did they know at the time that their banter over who should hold the baby would lead them on a lifetime journey full of love, children, and grandchildren of their own, and a wealth of cherished memories.

Ilene and Mike were married on June 30, 1979, at Westside Church of the Nazarene. As a skilled baker and decorator, Ilene made and decorated her own wedding cake for the occasion. Ilene and Mike were excited to start a family of their own and welcomed their first son, Jay, in June 1980. In October 1983, their family grew again with the birth of their son, Ryan. Ilene adored being a mother to her boys, who kept her on her feet at all times. Ilene decided to leave her teaching position to focus her full attention on raising her children. While doing so, Ilene re-discovered a passion for baking and cake decorating, and her love for those activities led her down the path of entering competitions at the Indiana State Fair, which ultimately put her on the path of becoming a professional cake decorator. Ilene decided to open her own business, Classic Cakes, which she owned between 1995 and 2019. Ilene's vision for her business and hard work materialized into Classic Cakes becoming a top-ranked bakery within Indiana. Her beautiful designs and delicious cakes brought joy to families on weddings, birthdays, and all the special days they celebrated, won her many awards, and made her a premier cake artist in Indianapolis and the surrounding areas. Always seeking out a challenge, Ilene competed in gingerbread house competitions and created masterpieces with intricate and beautiful designs as well, and she was always up to the challenge when customers requested complicated cakes.

Ilene's love of baking and her creativity poured over into her family life, too. As Ilene and Mike welcomed seven grandchildren into their family between 2009 and 2016, Ilene shared with her grandchildren her talents, making them amazing cakes for birthday celebrations and having them over to the cake shop or her home to bake with her. She also shared with them her love for learning, by reading to them regularly and teaching them how to garden and how to cook and bake.

In 2019, Ilene retired from Classic Cakes. In her spare time, she enjoyed creating different kinds of masterpieces via her gardening. Her flower gardens overflowed with beauty every year. Ilene continued to embrace her love for baking and would regularly bake bread for her church community and could often be found handing out cookies to friends and family. She also continued to embrace her love of learning and her love of

with a fire roaring in the fireplace and a book in her hands. Ilene was an active member in her church and sang in the choir, as well as participated in seasonal church shows to celebrate her love of Jesus with her community. Ilene regularly connected with family and friends near and far, reaching out to those she loved to simply check in, send words of encouragement, or let them know she had been thinking of them. Ilene also regularly attended her grandchildren's special events, whether it be a game, concert, church event, or anything else they may have asked her to join them at. Her pride in her family was unmatched.

Ilene fought a strong battle against pancreatic cancer and faced the challenge with remarkable grace and a positive attitude at all times. During this time, she continued to bless her family and friends with her generous nature and she reminded those around her that she found peace in knowing that salvation would be found in Jesus.

Ilene is survived by her loving husband of 45 wonderful years, Michael McHone of Carmel; her two sons, Jay (Koryn) McHone and Ryan (Tiffany) McHone; her seven amazing grandchildren, Brayden, Delainey, Bryson, Ellarie, Amiyah, Brody, and Jocelynn; her sister, Donna (Tom) Hofmann of Sun Prairie, Wis.; her sister, Carol Frazier of Kankakee, Ill.; and one brother, Donald Frazier of Pompano Beach, Fla.; as well as many loving nieces, nephews, and cousins. Ilene was preceded in death by her parents, Sheldon and Dorothy Frazier, and her brother, Roger Frazier.

Visitation will be held from 4 to 6:30 p.m., Friday, September 27, 2024, at Legacy Bible Church, 13490 Howe Road, Fishers. A celebration of Ilene's life will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday, September 28, 2024 (with an additional visitation period immediately preceding this from 1 to 2 p.m.), also at Legacy Bible Church.

TODAY'S BIBLE READING THE WATERS OF MARAH AND ELIM

Then Moses led Israel from the Red Sea and they went into the Desert of Shur. For three days they traveled in the desert without finding water. When they came to Marah, they could not drink its water because it was bitter. (That is why the place is called Marah.) So the people grumbled against Moses, saying, "What are we to drink?"

Then Moses cried out to the Lord, and the Lord showed him a piece of wood. He threw it into the water, and the water became fit to drink.

There the Lord issued a ruling and instruction for them and put them to the test. He said, "If you listen carefully to the Lord your God and do what is right in his eyes, if you pay attention to his commands and keep all his decrees, I will not bring on you any of the diseases I brought on the Egyptians, for I am the Lord, who heals you. Then they came to Elim, where there were twelve springs and seventy palm trees, and they camped there near the water.

Girls Golf-

Rocks & Millers claim sectional titles

By RICHIE HALL

sports@readthereporter.com

WESTFIELD – A 1-2 individual finish helped the Westfield girls golf team to its first sectional championship in three years.

The No. 1-ranked Shamrocks cruised to victory at the Guerin Catholic sectional, which took place Monday at Pebble Brook in Westfield. The Rocks scored 294, had three players finish in the top six and easily qualified for the Lafayette Jefferson regional, which is set for Saturday at Battle Ground Golf Course.

It was the Rocks' first sectional title since 2021 and the seventh overall for the Westfield program.

"We don't take them for granted," said Shamrocks coach Josh Bryant.

The top three teams advance to the regional. Tenth-ranked Carmel, the two-time defending state champion, totaled 323 to finish second as a team, while host Guerin Catholic claimed the third advancing spot with a score of 343.

Westfield junior Kelsey Haverluck put together a solid score of two under par 68 to earn medalist honors (she was one under on both the front and back nine), while senior Addi Kooi carded 71 for second place individually. Sophomore Kate Brown scored 76, tying her for fifth place.

"All of us on the team work really hard, and we try to have really good team chemistry on and off the course," said Haverluck. "And I think it's paid off in the end."

Brown, junior Lilley Ku (79) and sophomore Sophie Raines (83) were all playing in their first sectional for the Shamrocks.
