Baby New Year turns 50

A story that could only happen in Noblesville

By STU CLAMPITT
news@readthereporter.com

"Sherman, set the Wayback Machine to Jan. 2, 1975," thus quoth Mr. Peabody. Or at least he would, if Mr. Peabody were real and if he knew what we were writing about today.

Hamilton County's Baby New Year in 1975 was named Candice Castor. On the cusp of her 50th birthday, she is now Candice Johns.

Back in 1975, she and her parents were given a bundle of gifts from local businesses. There was a baby book, flowers for her mother, a free portrait, multiple gift certificates, a savings account, and many other things including a sterling silver cup engraved just for her.

Over the intervening decades, that cup was lost. With a little help, Candice Johns tracked down an old article from The Noblesville Daily

Ledger and learned it came from Smith's Jewelers, 98 N. 9th St., Noblesville.

You see where this is going, don't you, dear readers?

Yes, thanks to an anonymous donor, The Reporter helped 1975's Baby New Year get an identical silver cup from the very same store as the original.

When The Reporter first spoke to Smith's Jewelers CFO Johanna Hieser, Johns had left the store only moments before.

"She showed me the news article on her phone," Hieser said. "She was basically wanting to know if we have the baby cup here and if we were able to engrave it. I told her yes and yes. Candice was going to try to go look through some pictures because she thought it looked a little bigger. We were really just trying to figure out if there was a size difference. I know these are the ones that they carried, but there is only one little caveat: she was going to look at some pictures to see, size-wise, if it's about the same."

Johns was clearly satisfied it was at least very close to the same size cup, as you can see in the photo in today's edition where Hieser is giving the replacement cup to Johns just a few weeks after that first visit to Smith's Jewelers.

Johns told The Reporter she knew the original article had been published in The Ledger. When she reached out to this newspaper for help, she had no idea The Ledger had been sold to The Indianapolis Star, then rebranded, then finally dissolved.

"I was looking everywhere for it," Johns said. "It was through Ancestry.com and Newspapers.com that I finally found it."

According to Johns, the original cup was lost in a common, but still tragic way. Having been stored at her mother's home, through inheritance and happenstance, the cup was lost.

2024 mayhem

What you believe before you need to believe makes a difference in getting through hard times.

I wrote that thought in my journal this week after pondering over all that happened in 2024.

If my 2024 were filmed as a commercial, it would feature the mayhem man. Even being diagnosed with Bell's Palsy gave me the appearance of handling mayhem.

2024 has been brutal. While journaling, I noted all the crises I faced this year: eleven. I wasn't sure if I somehow had signed up for the 2024 Crisis of the Month Club or the Oprah Crisis Giveaways.

The hardest part of the year was watching those I love have to deal with so much hurt. I could not fix them. I have a "fixer's" heart.

In my research of Bell's Palsy, Dr. Google said we often respond to trauma with a fight or flight response. We can also get stuck. Stuck? I could not even process one trauma before I found myself dealing with another. Could layers of trauma really be a thing? Sort of an emotional lasagna?

I'm a fighter. I put on my "virtual" breastplate, my boots and my helmet and go to war. I wore them every day and even slept in them. I bundled up my worries like a baby and carried them wherever I ventured.

Had you seen me, would you not have recognized that I was carrying some heavy stuff? Of course not. You see, my smile is my secret weapon to hide my hurt. It's always been there. It hides a lot.

Now, before you start thinking – oh, poor Janet. Stop, I'll be fine. There isn't a person reading this who hasn't gone through some really hard times; I mean gut-punching, heart-breaking, and mental overloading crises.

Sometimes, I deal with a crisis better than others. I've had enough therapy to know how to process hurt, but that doesn't mean I do what I know to do. Anyone else?

The crises I dealt with last year were coming so fast I felt as if I was running in a minefield while dodging bullets, carrying that bundle of worries. The mental weight of processing numerous worries at once was exhausting. Which of them did I need to worry about the most? Do you know that the voices of worries get louder at night?

While writing in my journal and reading my devotions this week, I read what I wrote in my Bible in December 2022, when my heart was hurting: Psalm 27:13-14 NLT. Oh, my goodness.

Yet I am confident I will see the Lord's goodness while I am here in the land of the living. Wait patiently for the Lord. Be brave and courageous. Yes, wait patiently for the Lord.

Change of Heart! brings justice & dark humor to stage

Cardiologist-turned-playwright Dr. L. Jan Eira debuts gripping tale of vigilante justice

Submitted

This January, audiences will be drawn into a thought-provoking journey of love, morality, and justice as Change of Heart! takes the stage at the Switch Theatre, 10029 E. 126th St., Suite D, Fishers.

Running Jan. 10 to 19, this darkly humorous and thrilling production comes from an unexpected source: accomplished cardiologist and author Dr. L. Jan Eira, a man whose life has been as compelling as his fiction.

A unique tale of love & justice

In Change of Heart!, Dr. Eira introduces audiences to Vijay and Anita, an elderly couple of retired medical professionals turned vigilantes. Together, they form Souled, Inc., an organization with a morally

But when secrecy and suspicions collide, Martha and Bernard uncover far more than they bargained for. With gripping twists, ethical dilemmas, and questions of sacrifice and salvation, Change of Heart! challenges audiences to consider the boundaries of justice and the price of redemption.

From saving lives to storytelling: the journey of Dr. Louis Janeira

Dr. Janeira's path to the arts is as captivating as the play itself. A renowned Indianapolis cardiologist,

Dr. Janeira found time to write murder mysteries, thrillers, and plays – transforming a hectic schedule into a platform for creativity. Dr. Janeira's passion for storytelling comes alive on stage with Change of Heart!, blending his love for intricate narratives and his desire to support the arts. His latest work reflects his ability to examine human nature, morality, and the complexities of life, all while keeping audiences on the edge of their seats.

At their annual Christmas Dinner and Program Night held Dec. 19 at the Wyndham Hotel, the Westfield Lions presented several awards to well-deserving Lions. Prior to the awards portion of the meeting, the Lions were served dinner by the Westfield High School Foodies and entertained by the WHS Signature Sound Choir.

After the Signature Sound Choir, Lion President Bill Nesbitt presented Perfect Attendance pins to 24 Lions. This included a 50-year perfect attendance pin for Ted Engelbrecht and a 55-year pin for Bob Benson.

The Club's signature fundraising event is its semi-annual Texas Hold'em "Poker for Sight" tournament. This year, Tournament Chair Mike Birk recognized three Lions for their outstanding efforts to make the tournament the biggest and best in the Midwest. Lion Don Collins received the "Tournament Star" award for his work collecting donations for each tournament's "high hand" 50/50 pots. On average, Collins raises about $2,000 per tournament with his hard work.

Lions Ted Engelbrecht and Bob Benson also received Poker for Sight

"Special Recognition" awards for their dedicated work over the years at the tournament. Engelbrecht has manned the player registration table and Benson has served as the concession stand co-manager at each session. These Lions have served in these roles since the tournament started in 2008 and are now stepping back for a well-deserved break.

The top award a Lion can receive is the Melvin Jones Fellowship (MJF), named after the founder of Lions Clubs International. Lions earning additional MJFs after their initial award receive Progressive Melvin Jones Fellowship (PMJF) awards. This year the Westfield Lions presented the first two 2-time PMJFs in the Club's 94-year history. Lions Tracy Rogers and Mike Birk were the recipients of the award. Rogers is recognized as the lead "pit boss" at the poker tournaments and Birk continues to elevate the quality of each tournament and drive repeat business.

The last two awards presented at the meeting were also new awards for the Westfield Lions Club. Lion Dave Sobczak received the Westfield Lions Club "Life Membership Award" for the countless hours he has put into developing the plans for their clubhouse renovation project and shepherding the project through the regulatory and permitting phases. Sobczak is also serving as the construction manager for the project, which is nearing completion. When finished the Westfield Lions will arguably have the nicest Lions clubhouse in the state.

A second Westfield Lions Club Life Membership was presented to Jeff Larrison for his years of service as the Club's secretary. Since serving as Club president in 2010, he has been the Club's secretary. In addition, he has served as the Indiana Lions District 25D Cabinet secretary four times. He currently

GET AHEAD OF THE WEATHER

WINTER IS COMING... ARE YOUR PIPES PREPARED?

When temperatures start to drop, freezing pipes become a serious problem for Hoosiers at home. A frozen pipe can burst, prevent water from flowing, and even disrupt your heating system.

To combat this icy threat to your comfort and safety, always prepare your pipes for the upcoming cold weather. The experts at Indiana American Water recommend taking the following precautions before the thermostat drops too low:

1. Check your pipes for cracks and leaks.

3. Insulate pipes in unheated areas of your home.

2. Turn outdoor faucets off for the season.

It was in the moment of reading that scripture that I realized my strength to face any crisis comes from what I believe before I must deal with a crisis. Therein lies the foundation of my faith. I believe God is a good God. He walks beside me through every crisis. He brings people into my life who speak words of encouragement. He gives me His promises in the scriptures. So, yes, it is what you believe before you need to believe that lays a foundation for you to get through the hard times. That is the essence of Faith. I am learning a lot during this "Winter of Discontent," as I refer to my time with Bell's Palsy. I will never again take blinking for granted. The fatigue I am feeling is brutal. (Imagine pulling a log wagon up a steep hill while fighting the wind.) My wish for 2025 is that all will be calm, we can sleep in heavenly peace, and I can figure out how to unsubscribe from the Crisis of the Month Club. # Glynn set to serve as next director of Office of Community & Rural Affairs

Lieutenant Governor-elect Micah Beckwith and Governor-elect Mike Braun have announced Fred Glynn as the newly appointed Director of the Indiana Office of Community and Rural Affairs (OCRA).

As director, Glynn will lead the agency as it works with local, state, and national partners to provide assistance and resources to help all communities meet their goals in economic growth and community development. The incoming administration continues to emphasize the importance of balance between service to the public and success in the private sector.

"Fred is the perfect combination," Beckwith said. "It takes a resilient and determined person to succeed in the corporate world, but it takes a selfless, genuine person to willingly give that up to serve their community. Fred checks both boxes, which makes him an excellent choice, and I look forward to collaborating with him in the future."

Prior to his appointment to OCRA, Glynn worked as a true Hoosier entrepreneur with over 20 years of experience in both business and finance. His emphasis on practical and innovative solutions gave him a leg up and helped numerous Indiana-based companies thrive.

Despite his private sector success, Glynn primarily focuses on giving back to his community and assisting in the betterment of Indiana. He has also served Hamilton County as a councilman.

"I appreciate the confidence Lt. Governor Micah Beckwith has placed in me for this pivotal role," Glynn said. "I look forward to working on bringing a more interactive experience with local government agencies, and a more streamlined process to OCRA for the betterment of our communities across the state of Indiana."

"It went to my sister when my mom passed away because my sister acquired the residence," Johns said. "Then she moved to Ohio with all this stuff that my parents kept of mine. Junior trophies, pictures, all of those things went with them to Ohio, and unfortunately, they couldn't pay their storage bill. Instead of saying, 'hey can I borrow some money?' the locker was sold."

When she held the new version of her baby cup earlier this month, Johns was that particular brand of happy that brings tears. "The jewelry store is still here, the hospital I was born in is still there, and my daughter works at that hospital," Johns said. That hospital, of course, is Riverview. Hieser told The Reporter she had not heard of anything like this happening before, but she didn't find it very surprising that it could happen in Noblesville. "I do love the historical aspects about the city and definitely the building that we're in," Hieser told The Reporter. "I'm not necessarily surprised by it, but doesn't it make you feel like you're a part of something bigger than yourself?" Johns, on the other hand, was surprised. "It's pretty cool, and I don't know what other cities in the United States do this for their first baby of the year," Johns said. "Do they even do that anymore?" Candice, even if they do, they almost certainly do not do so with gifts from a business that will be in the same location 50 years later to help with something like this.

Donate to Hamilton County Harvest Food Bank as part of your year-end giving

The REPORTER

Here's some food for thought:

There are 32,160 food-insecure people in Hamilton County. At three meals a day, 365 days a year, that's 35,215,200 meals – a lot to comprehend.

The good news? Hamilton County Harvest Food Bank (HCHFB) isn't doing this on its own. Many friends and neighbors just need a little help; SNAP and other food assistance helps with a large amount. There is a tremendous food support network in Hamilton County.

This year, HCHFB provided 197,000 meals. This may seem like a very small portion of the total need, but consider how even just one healthy meal can make a difference.

That's HCHFB's goal: keep providing healthy meals, every day of the year, year in and year out. Over 1.5 million healthy meals have helped local friends and neighbors since HCHFB began.

... and maybe that one healthy meal that was provided today made all the difference.

How can you help?

As 2024 comes to a close and you finalize your year-end giving decisions, have you considered how your charitable donations can impact HCHFB's mission?

What are doctors to do when abortion laws are not clear?

This column neither supports or opposes abortion rights. It focuses solely on the adverse unintended consequences of restrictive state abortion laws and their exceptions affecting obstetrical practice.

Most laws have exceptions including preserving the mother's life, preventing significant harm to the mother's health, the presence of lethal fetal abnormalities, and pregnancies resulting from rape and incest. These latter two have problematic aspects, but let's focus on maternal life and health exceptions.

Abortion-law exceptions often leave clinicians in impossible, confusing, and uncertain situations attempting to practice appropriate evidence-based medicine while risking adverse consequences. Sanctions include loss of medical licenses, monetary fines, lawsuits, and even imprisonment if their decisions are second-guessed and legally challenged as violating medical-exemption provisions.

Physicians are trained to "First, do no harm." They must follow accepted ethical standards, practice within "standard of care," deliver care in "good faith," and exercise "reasonable medical judgment." These responsibilities are actually used in exemption language.

How does one determine with certainty and objectivity that a medical decision was made consistent with these obligations?

Most exemptions are written broadly and are open to opinion and subjectivity. How ill must a mother be to qualify as being at risk of death or substantial and/or permanent morbidity? Must the risk be immediate or likely over time? What maternal conditions qualify if there is no list in the law? If there is a list, are other conditions excluded? These laws do not account for combinations of medical conditions that together become life-threatening. Some states have multiple bans with conflicting exception provisions producing uncertainty and confusion. And there are unresolved conflicts between federal and state laws that place hospitals and doctors in "catch-22" situations.

There is peril in exceptions being underdefined, and conversely, too specific. It's impossible to create inclusive lists of qualifying conditions. In Texas, attempts to clarify vague exemptions with more detail resulted only in minimal improvements.

Recent articles including a report by the Kaiser Family Foundation give clinical examples. They include descriptions of patients who were refused emergency abortions because they were not sick enough or not bleeding enough, only to return in critical condition. A woman with a life-threatening ectopic pregnancy was refused treatment until it ruptured. Termination care was delayed in cases of inevitable miscarriage until serious predictable complications arose. In states with restrictive abortion laws, pregnancy-termination delays have even occurred in fetal demise cases placing mothers at risk for severe complications.

A March of Dimes report found that one-third of U.S. counties do not have an obstetrical provider, and the situation is worsening. The fewest number of obstetrical providers are in states with restrictive-abortion laws.

During a General Assembly hearing, an obstetrician from Indiana University School of Medicine was testifying. She interacts with practicing obstetricians, medical students, and residents. I publicly asked her, "Is it true that threats of legal sanctions arising from navigating abortion laws discourage medical school graduates from entering OB/GYN and prompt OB/GYN's to avoid practicing in abortion-restrictive states, leave practice early, or drop obstetrics and limit their practices to gynecology?" She answered without hesitation or qualification, "Yes."

No one really has answers to these untenable situations. It's impossible for a law to completely capture whether an exception applies. Second opinions and expert review panels would help, but these wouldn't be realistic in situations demanding immediate actions.

Imagine doctors watching while patients grow sicker and sicker until the condition deteriorates to the point of the exception indisputably applying.

What are doctors to do?

Richard D. Feldman, M.D. is an Indianapolis family physician and former Indiana State Health Commissioner who served in the administration of Governor Frank O'Bannon.

During the Dec. 17 Noblesville school board meeting, staff made presentations on both the updated English Language Arts and the Multi-Lingual/English Language programs at Noblesville Schools.

For the ELA program, the ELA committee members identified trends such as science or reading, intervention for struggling readers, and direct instruction in word recognition across all grade levels. Some of the practices included practicing fluency reading, writing, and reading together, as well as pairing multi-lingual students with monolingual students. They spoke to a recommendation to have teachers receive ongoing professional learning to work with all learners.

The rollout of the revised program will start with a snapshot of the strengths of the current program and identify areas for improvement. The next two years will involve revisions to the existing curriculum followed by monitoring and implementation of recommendations.

Included in the curriculum will be classical novels so that there is a balance and blend of texts that are important to the student's understanding of the humanities and the community. In the middle school and high school level, they have included Shakespeare, traditional British literature and American literature, and a balance of contemporary literature.

Dr. Shelley Bethel gave a presentation of Multilingual Education. There are currently 23 educators serving students speaking more than 55 languages. ML student enrollment continues to grow having almost doubled since the 2018-2019 school year. Currently, there are 692 students enrolled. This growth poses a challenge for the program with almost double the number of students who score below proficiency (level 1) in the English language since the 2020-2021 school year.

The stated goal is to "provide ML support so that students meet + exceed their full potential." There are new initiatives to support the multi-lingual students two of which are technology-based such as pocket talk translators and translation support through a platform called Magic School.

While I believe and support all of the recommendations and practices that are being implemented in the ELA and ML programs, I believe that more out-of-the-box thinking is needed. As a multi-lingual speaker who arrived in this country knowing only a handful of words in English, I know firsthand how difficult it is to become proficient in the English language. For students, that process can take several years encompassing a large part of their school years.

Recognizing that fact is especially important given the two new bills that impact education, SB1 and SB6, that were passed into law during the 2024 legislative session. Those bills added summer school offerings and the ability to hold back a student if they do not demonstrate proficiency in English. Given the large number of students in our schools who are enrolled in multi-lingual education programs, it is difficult to believe that educators and school staff alone will be able to supply all the additional support those students need to become proficient.

In both the ELA and ML/EL presentations there was talk of a collaborative community approach. The community extends beyond the school environment. Those students and their families have to be able to communicate in and out of the school environment, in other words, in the community. Why not include the community in supporting the multi-lingual students and their families by opening up the programs to include volunteers, such as retired teachers or multi-lingual speakers, who can assist in a small group environment for the enrichment of the programs as a whole?

How I Broke This, ep. 10: Pizza Drone

C O L D OPEN (actual recording of a Nov. 24, 2024 local radio WHCR live news dispatch): Ladies and gentlemen, this is Stu Clampitt again in downtown

Fishers, Indiana. Well, I ... I hardly know where to begin ... the chaos ... the gunshots ... sirens ... screams ... panic ... murder! ... murder!! ... murder!!! ... before me, a fallen unidentified object on Lantern Road right in front of The Well Coffee House which claims it can turn coffee into water ... the object itself doesn't look very much like a drone ... at least not like drones I've seen ... flat really ... not flying saucer shape ... pizza pan shape is more accurate ... 14-inch circumference ... bullet riddled ... smoke wafting from cracks ... a reptilian hiss ... an ooze oozing from the cracks ... a bubbling substance, a boiling goo spreading across Lantern Road ... a white, cheesy gunk ... a dairy-like lava ... mozzarella, I believe ... yes, molten mozzarella ... screaming pedestrians fleeing the cheesy flow specked with pepperoni and mushroom ... blood-like tomato sauce spatter everywhere ... I haven't witnessed downtown pandemonium so intense since IKEA's grand opening ...

GUY RAZZ: I'm Guy Razz, host of How I Broke This. Welcome to my narrative journey about business ineptitude and the failed leaders who failed to learn from their failures. Listen as my guests reveal what led to their crushed entrepreneurial spirits. Today's guest is Buzz Bezos, floundering founder of Pizza Drone, a pizza delivery service prematurely hailed as The World's Original Pizzeria of the Skies, home of the Mile High Pizza Pie.

BUZZ: Thanks, Guy.

Huge fan.

GUY: I must admit I'm surprised to find Buzz Bezos on my podcast. The Pizza Drone concept seemed unsinkable. I mean, no one fails at pizza. Hamilton County loves its pizza. Opening a pizza shop is like shooting fish in a barrel.

BUZZ: Like I've always said, Guy, there are two markets one can depend on for the long run ... pizza parlors and funeral parlors. Everyone loves pizza; everyone dies. There's no two truer truths.

GUY: Why did you choose pizza over burial plots?

BUZZ: Drones fascinate me. Drones are our future, if not the onset of our apocalypse. I want to be part of that. Somehow, I don't think replacing hearses with drones would go over well with the general public. Pizza Drone was to be the world's first pizza delivery involving drone technology, allowing us to provide a guaranteed five-minute delivery - or your pie from the sky is free.

GUY: Now that's fast food.

BUZZ: The whole 30-minute-or-less delivery is so yester-century, Guy. Papa Johns, Pizza Hut, Domino's might as well deliver by stagecoach. With our Pizza Drone app, you could release one of our pizza-shaped drones at either a 12-, 14-, or 16-inch circumference, pending your appetite. Each drone had brick oven technology to cook your pizza inflight.

GUY: Junk food meets the Jetsons! A pizza delivery revolution! What could go wrong?

BUZZ: Unfortunately, a lot, Guy. The radio news broadcast you shared up front summed up the whole mess. Global media headlined our marketing debacle PIZ-

All that remains of the Fishers Pizza Drone marketing fiasco.

ZAGEDDON!!! Had we taken note of the mass hysteria that was being reported regarding the recent alleged drone invasion in New Jersey, we probably would've stalled Pizza Drone's surprise launch until after the holidays. You know, allow time for the whole War of the Worlds and government conspiracy theories to fizzle out. But, instead, we stuck to our unannounced roll-out plan designed to catch our competition off guard. We launched our business by launching 50 pizza delivery drones over Fishers simultaneously. Talk about free brand awareness! We loaded each drone with our trademark Pepper-Droni and Mushroom pizza. We also reserved a few drones for our Around-The-World specialty pizza, which would literally circumnavigate the globe before being delivered - for that one though, we had to offer a 15-minute-or-less delivery guarantee. Still beats Dominos though.

GUY: So, Pizza Drone's immediate demise was due to nothing but bad timing?

BUZZ: Well, that and skipping an initial test launch. But how can you test launch 50 drones simultaneously over the town without ruining the surprise? Apparently, R&D miscalculated the weight of the oven bricks. Some drones crashed before the pizza parachutes could be released. But even those pizzas that had successfully dropped via parachutes apparently freaked out the public. People, caught up in the New Jersey scare, thought they were witnessing paratrooping Martians. The sky over Fishers took on the frenzy of a kicked hornet's nest. Parachuting pizzas. Crashing drones. A fever of fear filled Fishers! We first knew we were in trouble when someone posted on our Facebook page, "What the WKRP is happening!?????"

GUY: So, what's next for Buzz Bezos?

BUZZ: Earlier, your reference to "shooting fish in a barrel" made a light bulb go off in my head: a seafood-firearms fusion restaurant theme. It just might work in Hamilton County.

GUY: Glad to help, Buzz. Sounds like we will be talking again.

It's time to stop those Christmas songs ... or is it?

I'm someone who embrace EVERYTHING about the holidays. Advent is one of my favorite times of year. Bring on the anticipation about the birth of Christ, advent calendars, movies, lights, decorations ... and of course, music!

You'll always find me decorating my house the day after Thanksgiving (I'm a traditionalist, can't help it) with Christmas music playing. I play it with Alexa in the evenings. I play it on my computer while I work during the week. And of course, it's always on when I'm in my car.

So, when Christmas comes and goes, I get a little blue thinking about no more anticipation, calendars, movies, and music. The lights and decorations, for me at least, get to stay around until Epiphany weekend. That helps.

But do we really have to give up ALL the "Christmas music?" I say, definitely not. Because a lot of the songs we listen to aren't truly Christmas songs. They're actually winter songs.

Hear me out. Do any of the following songs mention Christmas? Get out your phone, computer, or other device and look. Take your time, I'm not going anywhere.

1. Jingle Bells
2. Sleigh Ride
3. Let it Snow
4. Winter Wonderland
5. Baby It's Cold Outside (I know this one creeps some people out nowadays, but it's still played often.)
6. A Marshmallow World
7. Susie Snowflake
8. Frosty the Snowman

You'll see that none of these - and many other supposedly

"Christmas" songs - mention the holiday. They just talk about winter.

So why do we have to stop listening to those? I say we make a separate category of seasonal songs that are for winter only. I see many advantages to this. First, we can extend some of the joy of the holiday season.

Second, many of these songs can lift your spirits when the January blues hit. I've written about the January blues ... they're real for so many of us. Even though it's only Dec. 27 today, don't let your guard down. They're around the corner and they can be brutal.

Third, they make winter sound kind of fun. For someone who struggles with winter every January - March (let's face it, in Indiana, March is really a winter month) I need to embrace the fun of the season.

As I wrote this, I wondered if perhaps someone else had the same idea. Lo and behold, Spotify has a playlist called "Vintage Winter Music"! YouTube has "Mix-Winter Music." I may have squealed a bit at the discovery. It features many of the songs I listed above.

I hope you'll join me in keeping some of the magic of the holiday season going. You can find me walking through downtown Noblesville humming "Winter Wonderland" with a gleam in my eye this January ... or February ... or March.

Margarita Johanna Olson van der Stok

April 11, 1949 – December 22, 2024

Margarita Johanna Olson van der Stok, Carmel, was born on April 11, 1949 in Jakarta, Indonesia (while it was a Dutch colony, prior to Indonesia's independence). Her family moved back to Holland when she was eight years old. Her father (Frank van der Stok) and mother (Margot Smit) had four boys (Johan, Wouter, Erik Jan, and Frank) and Margarita – who was the fourth of five children, and the only daughter. She adored her family and often told stories of their youth growing up in Holland.

Margarita studied nursing after high school but ultimately redirected her service into a life of religion, faith, and devotion instead. She became a missionary in her early twenties, where she met and married her husband, Christopher Olson, in 1975. Their 50th wedding anniversary will be on February 8, 2025, during which we will celebrate the love and support they cultivated for one another throughout the beautiful life they built together.

Margarita's adventurous and religious spirit led her to travel, serve, and live in several countries. Along the way, she gave birth to her five children: Maniyer (1981) and Heidi (1982) in Auckland, New Zealand, Christopher (1984) in Santiago, Chile, and Channa (1986) and Jenneke (1990) in Bogota, Colombia. Margarita and her husband completed their missionary life in Cuernavaca, Mexico, in 1993, after which they settled with their family in the San Francisco Bay Area, Calif. As part of settling into this new stage of her life, she founded and managed a successful business, Jacaranda Handcrafts, where she imported jewelry from Mexico to sell to stores throughout California and Oregon. Independent and disciplined, Margarita was proud to be her own boss.

Margarita had two passions in life, her missionary work and, most importantly, her family. She was a dedicated wife, mother of five, and grandmother of eight (Maaikie, Isla, Hendrik, Luuk, Nikolaas, Cara, Wesley, and Andy). Margarita was a "no-nonsense" mother who infused tenderness and love into her parenting. She ensured that all her children graduated college and stood on their own two feet in this world – strong, educated, and self-sufficient. Above all else, she imparted her kindness to each member of her family.

Margarita will be remembered by friends and family through her favorite activities: reading, piano playing, singing, cooking, knitting/crocheting, puzzling, hiking, plants, and gardening. And every time her family sits down together for a cup of coffee, the memories will abound of her joy, sense of humor, and appreciation for togetherness.

Family and friends gathered Friday, December 27, 2024, at Bussell Family Funerals, 1621 E. Greyhound Pass, Carmel. On Saturday, December 28, 2024, the funeral service for Margarita was held at the Indianapolis Family Church, 6202 Michigan Road, Indianapolis, with visitation one hour prior. Burial followed in Carmel Cemetery. Arrangements entrusted to Bussell Family Funerals. Condolences: bussellfamilyfunerals.com

HAPPY NEW YEAR!!!

New Years has always been a time for resolutions, big, small, health, wealth and wishful thinking,,,,, but most don't last. So, for 2025 let's start with one that can make a difference in not only your life, but the lives of those you love, are friends with and live next door or are far away. Call it 'Buddy Checks'. Letters, emails, phone calls, text messages – communications / correspondence / connection - with loved ones and friends who may be near, or far, so you can let them know they are not alone, you are here thinking of them and if they need anything, you are ready to help.

Also, if you have a loved one, relative, friend, neighbor who is deployed this holiday season, write them a letter, correspond and make that connection. Here is why. Throughout World War II, correspondence / connection - particularly letters from loved ones - maintained the morale of troops fighting across the globe. In 1945 alone, nearly three billion pieces of mail were exchanged between servicemembers and the friends and family who supported them on the home front. Wartime letters and diaries reveal that the mail call was one of the most cherished rituals of soldiers and sailors serving abroad. Craving news from home and words of encouragement, troops prized the letters that could, however briefly, allow them to escape the often harrowing and dangerous conditions in which they served.

So, for this New Year's resolution, let's all be thankful for what we have. Reach out to those neighbors, friends and family members who are deployed, away from home or still at home, so they may feel that connection and know they are not alone. Let's roll back the clock and write letters....

Tigers win Henry Community Health Hall of Fame Classic title

By RICHARD TORRES
For The Reporter

NEW CASTLE – Tournament time means winning time for the top-ranked Fishers Tigers, and last Saturday's Henry Community Health Hall of Fame Classic in New Castle was no different.

The Tigers (9-0) rallied back from an early deficit to defeat 4A No. 6 Warsaw, 54-51, in the morning's semifinal round before flipping the switch with a 20-6 run in the second quarter against 4A No. 4 Greenfield-Central (7-2) in the evening's title game to win 85-80.

The Tigers hoisted the Hall of Fame Classic trophy inside New Castle Fieldhouse with 22 consecutive wins dating back to their state championship 2023-24 season, and unlike their seven previous games, they were tested.

"We're just a very connected team. We know what everyone's strengths are, and everyone knows what their role is on the team," Fishers head coach Jason Gardner Jr. said. "I think that's why we're the No. 1 team in the state. We don't have any selfish guys."

The Tigers' team-first philosophy led to a trio of double-digit scorers, including Gardner and Justin Kirby posting a team-high 20 points apiece followed by Cooper Zachary's 18. Gardner and Zachary both were named to the Hall of Fame Classic All-Tournament team and added to their families' legacies in the historic event.

Gardner's father, Jason, clinched the Classic title with North Central High School previously, while Zachary's father, Danny, and uncle, Randy, were champions with Anderson Highland.

"It's a great feeling. A lot of great players have come through here to play in the Hall of Fame. This court is very historic," Zachary added. "My dad played in this, and he won it, and my uncle, so just keeping the family tradition going, I kind of felt a little bit of pressure, but at the end of the day, I had to get it done."

The Tigers had to contend with UConn commit Braylon Mullins in the title game to keep their winning streak alive.

The tournament's Most Valuable Player led all scorers with 33 points while hauling in eight rebounds, recording three steals, one block and three assists. Mullins converted two of Greenfield-Central's nine 3-pointers.

Mullins attempted to will the Cougars to victory after Fishers built a 14-point lead in the first half and led by 12 late in the third quarter. The 6-foot-6 guard had seven points in the fourth with four points in less than 20 seconds to cut Fishers' advantage 82-77 in the final minute.

However, the Tigers kept their composure and relied on their unselfishness to fend off the Cougars. Fishers collectively posted 25 assists in the game (Gardner with nine and seven from Zachary), compared to Greenfield-Central's 13.

Tigers focusing on defense for their own holiday tourney

By RICHARD TORRES
For The Reporter

NEW CASTLE – After winning the Hall of Fame Classic inside historic New Castle Fieldhouse on Saturday night, Fishers head coach Garrett Winegar rightfully celebrated his top-ranked Class 4A Tigers' tournament title.

He also zeroed in on areas of immediate improvement for his unbeaten Tigers (9-0).

"For us, I thought our overall defensive execution, focusing on the scouting report, focusing on our principles, when we're switching, when we're not, what we're trying to do defensively; it was two of the worst games we've had in a while," Winegar remarked. "Obviously, Greenfield is good. Braylon (Mullins) is a stud, but for us to give up 80 points is disappointing in any game, so it's something we have to figure out."

The Tigers defeated 4A No. 4 Greenfield-Central, 85-80, to win the Hall of Fame Classic and survived a battle of

The Hamilton Southeastern girls basketball team won the Henry Community Health Hall of Fame Classic last Friday, beating Lawrence Central 52-50 on a buzzer-beating layin. The victory kept the Royals unbeaten for the season at 15-0.

Royals get last-second victory at Henry Community Health Hall of Fame Classic

By RICHIE HALL

sports@readthereporter.com

NEW CASTLE – The first option was the winning option for the Royals.

With the Henry Community Health Hall of Fame Classic championship on the line last Friday, the game was tied at 50-50 with 1.6 seconds remaining. That was all the Hamilton Southeastern girls basketball team needed, as Kayla Brinley threw an inbounds pass to a waiting Addison Van Hoesen under the basket.

Van Hoesen made the layin as the buzzer sounded, and the Royals were celebrating a 52-50 victory over defending Class 4A state champion Lawrence Central. Southeastern's win kept it undefeated at 15-0 for the season and ended the Bears' 39-game winning streak.

It was an incredible finish for the Royals, who led for most of the game. Southeastern got up by double digits twice in the first half and was able to hang on in the face of LC's inevitable comeback and relentless pressure.

"It was a true team effort," said HSE coach Brian Satterfield. "What we did defensively was really good, holding them to 20 points in the first half." Even when the Bears were making their runs, Satterfield credited his team with sticking together and playing together as a unit, having "different people step up at different times."

Van Hoesen certainly stepped up at the end, getting in the right place at the right time to make the game-winner. Satterfield said Brinley "made a beautiful pass right to her."

"As we drew it, we had three options," said Satterfield. "That was the first option, knowing that they're probably going to be hugging Maya (Makalusky). I got to give Maya credit for getting to the screen."

Makalusky scored the first basket the game off a steal, the first of five that the senior Indiana University commit made during the contest. Lawrence Central took a 4-2 lead, but it was all Royals after that, as they made a 13-1 run to go up 15-5 late in the quarter. Five different HSE players scored, with Makalusky and Antonette Green both hitting 3-pointers.

The Bears roared back with an 8-0 spurt to cut the Royals' lead to 15-13 by the end of the quarter. Southeastern began the second period with its own 8-0 run; Brinley drained a triple and Kennedy Holman scored on a layin and 3.

The Royals led 26-20 at halftime, but LC came back again, tying the game at 28-28 when Jaylah Lampley made a layin. Another Lampley basket gave the Bears a 33-32 lead, which Kayla Stidham erased with a 3, then Abby Brown hit two free throws.

Lampley ended the quarter with a triple to get Lawrence Central within 37-36, and a Lola Lampley basket pushed the Bears ahead 38-37. Southeastern managed to stay in front of LC for most of the fourth, with a Makalusky triple and Holman and-1 putting the Royals up four on separate occasions. Aniyah McKenzie tied the game with under 20 seconds left by making a layin, but Southeastern would have the final say.

Makalusky was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player and joined Stidham on the All-Tournament team. Holman scored 15 points and dished out four assists, with Stidham scoring 12 and Makalusky 11. Stidham led the rebounds with six and Holman pulled five.

The Royals halted two undefeated seasons at New Castle, as they beat South Knox 67-59 in their afternoon semifinal. The Spartans held an early 4-0 lead on Southeastern, but Makalusky broke the game open with a personal 11-0 run that spanned the first and second quarters.

The Royals were up 12-10 at the start of the run and finished it up 23-10. South Knox continued to play Southeastern tough for the remainder of the game, but the Royals were able to stay ahead by double digits for the most part. HSE led 35-23 at halftime, with Makalusky scoring 23 points in the half.

Makalusky finished with 35 points, nine rebounds and five steals.

"That's the one thing about her game that I think has blossomed and grown for her is, she's doing some other things and got some steals to get a bucket in transition, do things like that," said Satterfield. "It's also in the context of what we're trying to do in the offense."

Holman scored 12 points and dished out seven assists, while Stidham scored 11 and handed out six assists.

Southeastern is off until Friday when it plays at Carmel. The Royals then host Plainfield on Saturday.

CARMEL – The Carmel swim teams opened their new natatorium in style last Friday.

The Greyhounds hosted the Carmel Winter Invitational at their beautiful brand-new pool, a facility worthy of the 38-time defending girls state champions and the 10-time defending boys state champions.

first-place swim at the meet is officially a pool record.

The Greyhounds welcomed several good team from around the Midwest, with Zionsville, Homestead and Fort Wayne Carroll competing, along with Upper Arlington from Ohio and St. Charles Preparatory, a boys school from Illinois.

Plumb said it was a "great opportunity to see what the state competition is going to be like and run through the lineup."

"I think by having so many teams here, we had a lot of great races," said Plumb.

Carmel's girls won nine of the 11 events at the meet.

PERFECT

We started off slow against Warsaw, but we knew we didn't want to lose," Zachary said. "A little bit of hunger and personal success came in, so everyone just made plays, bought into what coach was telling us, and we just found a way to win."

The Tigers battled through four ties and one lead change before a 20-6 run in the second quarter initiated by an and-1 play by Gardner with 6:47 left in the half separated the two teams.

A 3-pointer by Kirby capped the rally, as Greenfield-Central charged back to make it 48-39 before Gardner beat the buzzer with a layup to increase the margin 50-39 at halftime.

Greenfield-Central's Boston Willard drilled a buzzer-beating 3-pointer, covering nearly three-quarters of the court to slice the deficit 25-22 at the end of the first quarter.

Willard had 18 points and three assists, while Mikey Johnson finished with 17 points and four assists for the Cougars.

"Both of those teams were so good. They're just really good at what they do. With Warsaw running a really good 2-3 zone that's a little unique to go against, and then you switch over and you have to go against a 3-2 zone with Greenfield with really no prep. You try to do what you can in between games and both styles were different from what we were used to," Fishers coach Garrett Winegar said. "We're mostly seeing man, so it's something we need to do a better job of attacking. We did a much better job in this (title) game."

Fishers shot 13 of 23 from 3-point range, but Mullins and Johnson continued to counter to bring the Cougars' deficit under 10 in the fourth.

"We needed some close games. Obviously, we won every game up to this point by 15 or more, so to have some competitive games and still find a way to win is a credit to the kind of group we have," Winegar said. "They're very experienced. They've been in a lot of these games last year in the state tournament, and they know how to win. They're fearless and step up and make big plays when it matters."

Against Warsaw, Gardner scored a team-high 17 points and Zachary had 11. The Tigers shot 9 of 19 from beyond the arc. Warsaw's Brandt Martin had 18 points and was named to the All-Tournament team along with Greenfield-Central's Johnson and Jeffersonville's Michael Cooper.

unbeatens against 4A No. 6 Warsaw, 54-51, in the semifinals. However, prior to both close wins, the Tigers were averaging a 26.86 margin of victory.

With Fishers' Holiday Tournament up next for the defending state champions, beginning on Thursday against 3A South Dearborn (5-2) at 10:30 a.m., Winegar is focused on getting his Tigers back on track.

"It starts with defense. Our coach says, if someone is open, you gotta hit it. Give a good shot for a great shot. That's what our team does," said Fishers' Cooper Zachary, who set the program's single-game record with 17 assists on Dec. 21. "It's definitely the goal to get three kills. A kill is three stops and three scores. That's one kill, and we want to have at least three to four a game."

Against Greenfield-Central, the Tigers orchestrated a decisive 20-6 run in the second quarter with kills in mind, but the Cougars and Mullins, a UConn commit, gave Fishers fits.

The Tigers led by as many as 14 points, but the Cougars became the first opponent to tally more than 65 points against them.

"Sometimes, talent and winning can be your biggest enemy. You get complacent. You stop doing the things you need to do at practice, and it's my job to make sure we don't let that happen," said Winegar, who won the Classic as an assistant coach with Warren Central years prior.

"We get four days off then we get three games in two days on Thursday and Friday, so we'll try to get refocused, and hopefully be a little bit more locked in defensively when we come back and try to keep it rolling."

Six games are scheduled for Thursday at Fishers with Chesterton and Evansville Bosse playing at 12:15 p.m., followed by Portage and Lawrence Central at 2 p.m. and Bloomington North and 4A No. 16 Fort Wayne Wayne at 3:45 p.m.

Two consolation games will be conducted at 5:30

"To put our names in the Hall of Fame Classic, not many teams are able to do that," Gardner said. "I think that's an honor, and I think it's going to help us keep going and put the pedal to the metal."

The Tigers won two neutral site tests last season and their own holiday tournament. With a first-ever sectional, regional, semi-state and state title to its credit last year, Fishers added two more neutral site triumphs to its recent success.

"No matter where we are, we want to win. Last year, we were in an Illinois tournament, even though it was one game, it was like a tournament. With the group of guys we have, we can go anywhere and any place, environment or stadium we play in, we know the dudes on this team will lead to a championship," Gardner said.

p.m. and 7:15 p.m. Games resume on Friday with the first semifinal at 10:30 a.m. and the second at 12:15 p.m.

The seventh-place and fifth-place games are set for 2 p.m. and 3:45 p.m., respectively. The third-place game will tip-off at 5:30 p.m. The championship is scheduled for 7:15 p.m.

"Just knowing no matter who we play against, it's always knowing having the guys we have on this team, we're going to help each other win," Fishers Jason Gardner Jr. said. "Carrying this momentum from the Hall of Fame Classic into our holiday tournament and not settling will help us keep going."

GRAB

30-second timeout just over two minutes into the first.

The Knights woke up and scored 13 to Noblesville's 10 during the rest of the first for a 21-13 Miller lead.

Norwell started off 10-4 in the second to take a 26-25 advantage. Fending off the Knights, the Millers took the remainder of the second, 9-7, for a slim 34-33 halftime score.

"Norwell shot very well and battled hard the entire game," said Noblesville head coach Donna Buckley.

Meredith Tippner gave Noblesville a 60-58 edge on a fast break.

The game would be tied at 41, 56 and 58 before a Vanessa Rosswurm offensive rebound putback tied it at 60-60 with 12.2 seconds. Norwell took a timeout, but neither found the bottom of the net, sending it to the extra four minutes.

Norwell got off to a 68-62 margin to begin the OT. Then came the turning point with 2:24 left for the Millers. Rosswurm would foul out. Tippner scored four in a row to cut it to 68-66.

Ashley Waldman knocked down a three from the right for a 71-66 Knight lead.

Consecutive baskets from C.C. Quigley, Tippner and Kate Rollins, along with a Tippner free throw with 6.5 seconds remaining were exactly what the Millers ordered, sending them to the championship with a 73-71 win.

"We had several kids make big plays late to help us find a way to win. Our defense forced several turnovers in the OT to help us find out way back in," Buckley continued.

Norwell (10-5) got three into double figures. Rosswurm had 28 points on 10 total field goals and 4-for-5 free throws. Macie Saalfrank had 19, knocking down five from outside. Ashley Waldman netted 10 for the Knights.

Noblesville was led by Tippner's 33 points, 10 rebounds, five assists and four steals. Rollins scored a career-high 16 points on six field goals, while also dishing out six assists and three steals. Quigley was solid with 14 points, nine boards and three assists.

Championship: Noblesville 43, Valparaiso 37

Noblesville got off to another great start, leading the Vikings 6-0 and eventually 14-6 through one quarter.

The Millers used an 8-2 run to grab its largest lead at 22-8. Valpo called a full timeout with 5:55 left in the half after Ally Hutchinson scored on a fast break for 19-8. Quigley drained a three for the 14-point score.

Valparaiso went on a 9-0 spree themselves to trim the lead to 22-17, forcing a Noblesville timeout. They would each score four more to close out the half for a 26-19 Miller halftime advantage.

"They were very physical. They made it hard to get anything on a post up," Buckley stated. "We had to work hard to get anything going on offense."

Another 9-2 run for Noblesville stretched it back to 14 at 35-21, but that was short-lived. Valpo scored 11 straight to trail 35-32 through three.

Cadynce Clark drilled a three from the right wing to tie it 35-35. That had Noblesville spend a 30 second timeout with 6:29 left.

Eight points in a row for Noblesville came from Quigley and Rollins scoring on offensive rebound putbacks, along with the final four from Tippner to hold on for the 43-37 win.

"We had a lot of offensive rebounds that helped us get the win," Buckley said.

The Millers finished with 29 rebounds overall, 13 offensive, which helped keep them over the top for their second win of the day.

"We played well versus Valpo. We got tired, but roughed it out with some huge stops. We had a lot of kids step up all day. I am so proud of the kids. They battled and never quit. They are a special group of kids," Buckley continued.

Valparaiso (9-6) got two in double-figures for the majority of their scoring. Lillian Barnes tied for game-high honors with 18 and 10 rebounds, with Cadynce Clark scoring 10.

Noblesville (10-3) was led by Tippner's game-high 18 to go with 17 rebounds, five assists and four steals. Hutchinson helped the balanced scoring with eight, while both Rollins and Quigley scored seven.

"We had several kids hit big shots. We are finding balance in scoring with this group. It has been so fun to watch them develop confidence in themselves and each other," said Buckley.

To get to the championship, Valparaiso knocked off Fort Wayne Snider, 59-41, in the second game of the day. Norwell won the consolation game over Snider, 68-58.

The Millers are off until Jan. 4 when they head northeast to play in the Huntington North Classic. The Whitko Wildcats (8-2) play the host Huntington North Vikings (9-5) at 10:30 a.m. in the first game. Fort Wayne Northrop (9-3) and Noblesville (10-3) tangle in the second game just after 12 p.m. The consolation is slated for 5:30 p.m. with the championship to follow.

Carmel's own Sky Simpson takes three gold medals at IPF Powerlifting Championships

By RICHIE HALL

It wasn't that long ago that Carmel's Stephen "Sky" Simpson was too anxious to get off the bench to play on the Unified Football team.

Look at him now. Simpson spent part of last November in Reykjavik, Iceland, where he put on a show while winning gold medals in the 2024 International Powerlifting Federation (IPF) World Open Equipped Powerlifting Championships.

Simpson won three gold medals in the Special Olympics 93-kilogram division (93 kilograms is around 205 pounds). He won two of the three individual events, taking the squat and bench press while finishing second in the deadlift, then placed first in the total standings to win the gold medal there.

"It was good for me," said Sky, who turns 24 in February. He competed with another athlete from his gym, Ben Boehn, and enjoyed having him there as well.

The World Open took place from Nov. 11 to 16 in the Iceland capital. Simpson started with the squat, which he won with a lift of 127.5 kilograms. Next was the bench press, and Simpson was first in that event as well with a lift of 97.5 kilograms. He finished with the deadlift, placing second and winning the silver medal with a lift of 107.5 kilograms.

Simpson's total was

332.5 kilograms, easily earning him the gold medal. Throughout it all, Sky was putting on a show, flexing for the appreciative crowd and wearing a big smile on his face. The announcer referred to Sky as Stephen "The Rock" Simpson, a nickname that goes back to his days throwing shot put on the Carmel Unified Track & Field team. (You can watch the entire competition on YouTube at tinyurl.com/t3n4xp6a.)

"He went crazy," said Sky's father, Stephen Simpson. "He was jumping up and down and flexing his muscles for the crowd. The response with the audience was terrific, too. They connected with them. The crowd really loves to see them at these meets."

"He was super hype," said Sky's coach Kyle Moran. "He enjoys putting on a show anyway. Getting a few extra medals never hurts that willingness to put on a show."

And there were many people there to watch Sky's show. Moran said there were "a couple hundred spectators" at the meet, adding that the presentation the IPF put on was "world class."

"Iceland, the host federation, did a really good job of promoting it," said Moran. "They had a pretty big contingent there to help with loading and run the meet."

Iceland was certainly a long way from Sky's athletic beginnings. He played Unified football at Carmel in addition to participating in Unified Track.

"He had anxiety along with Down's Syndrome when he started," said Stephen Simpson. "When he first started with Unified football, he wouldn't even get off the bench. When Sky wouldn't get off the bench, the kids would just surround him and make him feel good and make him laugh a little bit. By the third game, he was trotting on the field. It was really cool as a dad to see that. Unified track was the same thing."

Other people started telling Stephen that he needed to get his son into weightlifting, which Sky began to do about four years ago. Stephen jokingly said he blames Carmel High School for this, adding that he doesn't believe Sky would be this far along without his initial participation in Unified sports.

"I think all of that has worked to make Sky much more confident in himself, more outgoing and take risks in social settings," said Stephen. "That's so important for the kids to be able to have the courage to go out there and be themselves. Unified sports is huge for these guys. Sky's chance was Unified sports."

Moran, the owner and head coach of Moran Academy for Strength and Speed in Carmel, said he met the Simpsons in early 2021, with Sky coming to his academy specifically for powerlifting.

"He picked up on it pretty quick," said Moran.

"From Day 1, you could tell he liked the idea of getting big and strong," Moran said Sky was "already pretty strong," but the focus was now on getting him strong for the sport of powerlifting.

Sky Simpson's first competition was the Special Olympics Indiana Summer Games of 2021. He was a winner right off the bat, finishing first in the bench press, deadlift and total. Sky then competed in a couple more Summer Games before branching out and competing in more meets. Sky qualified for the World championships through a Power Lifting America competition.

When he's not in the gym, Sky works at the Penn Station restaurant on Range Line Road in Carmel. "He's the guy that washes all those pounds of potatoes," said Stephen.

Penn Station conducts roundups for certain causes, and Sky hands out free cookies and greets people for he gets to work.

"Penn Station is a really good supporter for Down Syndrome," said Stephen.

Moran said that Sky Simpson's next meet will be in February in Indianapolis. The coach said he likes his athletes to compete "three or four times a year," while training in the gym in the interim.

"Having him and Ben in the gym as well have created a pretty big culture change in the gym in general," said Moran. The coach has enjoyed watching Sky learn the etiquette in the weight room as well as his continued expanding confidence. "Now he'll do box jumps and broad jumps," said Moran. "He's created the confidence and the body awareness to do pretty much anything we ask of him."
